MEDIA SERVICES INFORMATION

Credentials: Requests for working press credentials at Carolina home games should be made in writing on company letterhead to Rick Brewer in the Carolina Sports Information Office. Brewer's mailing address is P.O. Box 2126, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27514.

Because of the demand for credentials, media agencies which cover Carolina and the visiting school on a regular basis will receive top priority. Other credentials will be issued on the basis of circulation and the availability of space. Tickets will be mailed if at all possible. Otherwise, they will be left at Will Call which is at Gate Six (6), directly behind the press box.

Requests are screened with care to insure a working press box. Children, spouses, dates and pets are not allowed in compliance with the working code of the Football Writers Association of America.

Press Box Services: Programs, flip cards, statistics and notes will be provided before each game. A play-by-play will be distributed at the conclusion of each quarter. Halftime statistics will also be available. Complete team and individual statistics, a scoring summary and coaches' quotes will be provided after the game.

A meal will be served before each game and at halftime behind the main working press area. Soft drinks and coffee will be available throughout the game.

Sideline Policy: Photographers will not be allowed on the sidelines without an armband. Armbands can be picked up up in the press box prior to each game. Each photographer must pick up his or her own armband. Under NCAA and Atlantic Coast Conference guidelines, photographers are not allowed between the 25-yard lines and must remain outside the restraining lines surrounding the field.

Parking: Press parking at Kenan Stadium is available on an extremely limited basis. Requests for parking passes should be made in advance to Rick Brewer. The parking lot is located on the corner of Gravely Drive and Manning Drive.

Post-Game Interviews: Coach Mack Brown will meet with the media following each game after a brief cooling-off period. At Kenan Stadium these post-game press conferences will be in the second-floor auditorium of the Student-Athlete Development Center adjacent to the locker room.

The Tar Heel locker room is closed. Members of the media wishing to interview players may do so in the team's weight room following Brown's press conference. This is the large room directly across from the locker room on the ground floor of the Development Center. (On ground level on the side of the field opposite from the press box).

Away game procedures may vary slightly, depending on available facilities.

Filing Copy: The Department of Athletics furnishes a number of telephones for writers to use in moving their copy. Anyone desiring a private phone should contact Southern Bell in Chapel Hill.

The Carolina Sports Information Office has one fax machine which will be available for filing. Just ask a representative of the UNC Sports Information Office prior to the end of the game.

Interviews with Coach Mack Brown: Mack Brown will be available to the media at a press luncheon each Tuesday during the football season. Television and radio tapes can be done at 11:30 a.m. with lunch being served at 12 noon. The press conference follows the meal at Kenan Fieldhouse. Parking for the press conference is inside Gate Four (4) — directly behind the end zone at the opposite end of the field from the fieldhouse.

Interviews with Brown at other times during the week can be set up by contacting the Sports Information Office or Becky Medford, Coach Brown's secretary in the football office. Best way to reach the coach is to call between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m., Monday through Thursday. Meetings are conducted during the morning, but he can return the call if he's not available. The number is (919) 966-2575.

Player Interviews: All player interviews should be arranged through the Sports Information Office. Players have been instructed to conduct no interviews unless they have been set up in this manner. The interviews will generally be around lunchtime — after the player's classes and before practice. There will be players available at Brown's weekly press conference.

Requests for telephone interviews will be handled by players returning calls to the media. No home numbers for players will be given out and players have been told not to accept calls from members of the press. Interviews are not allowed on the day preceding a game.

Practice Coverage: Carolina practices are open to the media. Admission to practice can be obtained by contacting the Sports Information Office. Media practice passes will be handled there. Players are not available for interviews on the practice field, whether they are competing or not. Coach Brown will be available following the conclusion of each session.

Satellite Feed and Teleconference: A seven-minute highlight clip of each Atlantic Coast Conference school is available weekly via satellite transmission. Coordinates and time of the transmission can be obtained by contacting the Carolina Sports Information Office or the ACC Service Bureau in Greensboro (919) 854-8787.

Natrone Means meets with the media following his 181-yard performance vs. Duke last year.

All of the league's head coaches are also available each week to the media on a teleconference. Starting time is 11 a.m. every Wednesday. The teleconference feed is of broadcast quality. The phone number for the media to use in becoming a part of this teleconference can be obtained through the Carolina Sports Information Office or the ACC Service Bureau.

Radio and Television Show: Over 70 stations in three states will once again carry the Tar Heel Football Network. The network is operated by Village Companies of Chapel Hill with Bill Whitley as manager and Jim Heavner as executive producer. Woody Durham handles the play-by-play with Mick Mixon adding color commentary. In addition to the game itself, the network also features pre-game and post-game comments from Coach Mack Brown, Tar Heel players and the opposing coach.

The Carolina Football Show will be televised across the state of North Carolina each Sunday. The show features Brown, highlights of the previous game and features of present and past Tar Heel players. John Kilgo serves as host.

Previewing the 1992 Season

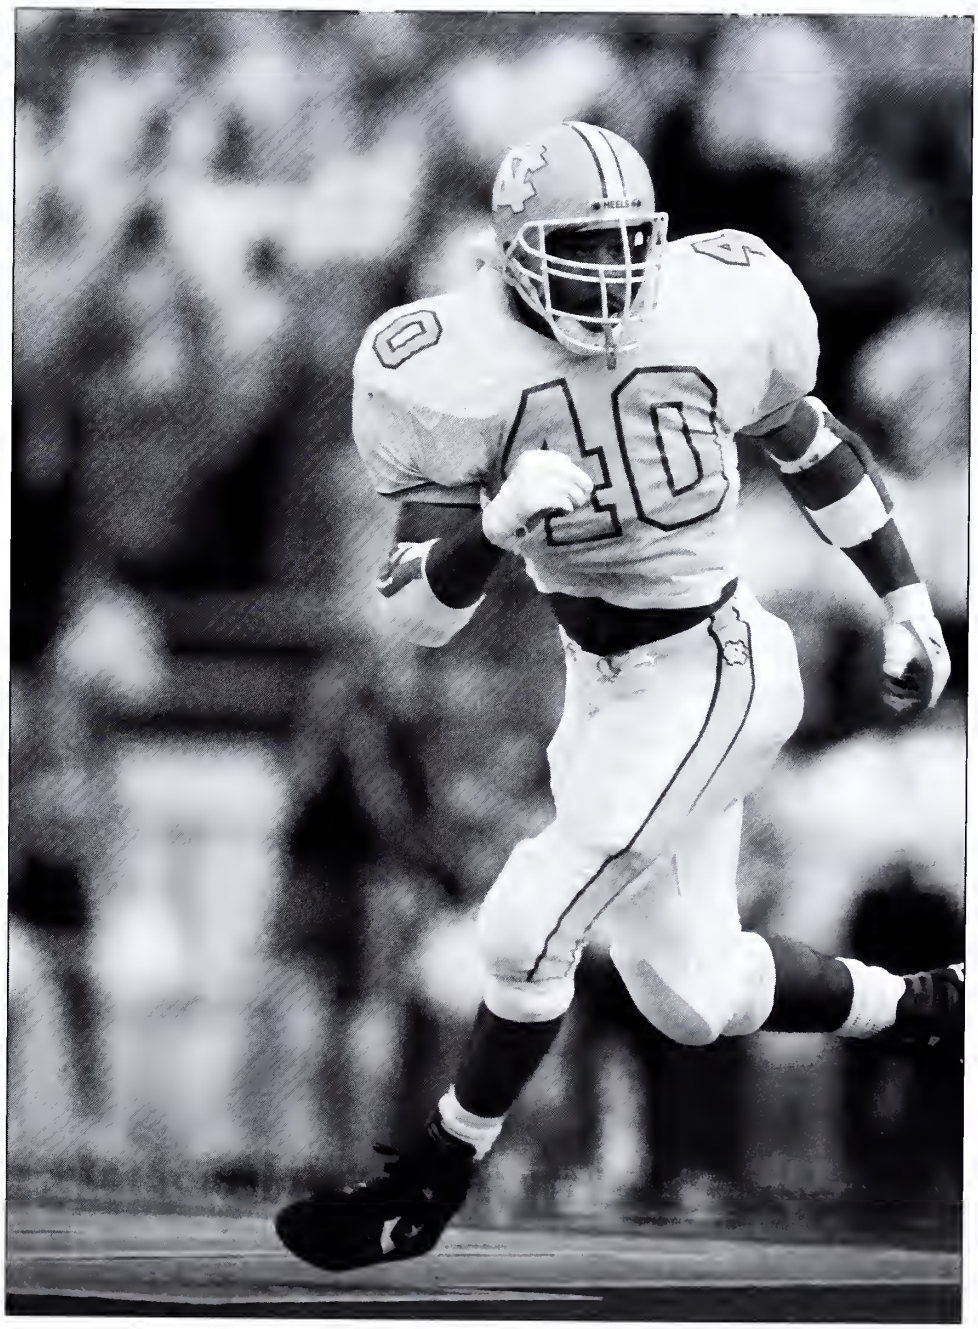
Atlantic Coast Conference rushing leader Natrone Means and first-team all-conference linebacker Tommy Thigpen lead a group of 45 letterwinners poised to raise the University of North Carolina football program to the next level. Mack Brown's Tar Heels appear ready to once again challenge for the ACC championship and be on the guest list for a post-season bowl date.

Means and Thigpen are two of 13 starters returning, including five on offense and eight on defense. Along with center Randall Parsons, the pair should contend for All-America honors this season. Means is also a candidate for the Doak Walker Award as the nation's outstanding running back, while Thigpen is a contender for the Butkus Award, emblematic of college football's top linebacker.

The pair of returning first-team All-ACC selections are just two starters on what should be the most athletic team Carolina has fielded in Brown's five-year tenure. Coming off seven wins last year and six victories and a tie in 1990, this squad knows the expectations are growing. Brown understands that this is a big season in terms of accomplishing some of the program's future goals.

"We are right where we should be with two winning seasons in a row," says Brown. "We're still disappointed, however, we had no bowl bid and we're not satisfied with 6-4-1 and 7-4.

"Expectations don't bother us. The coaches and players have their own high expectations and we put pressure on ourselves. We know this league is better than ever before and to play for the conference championship realistically puts you in the picture for the national championship so there is a lot to shoot for.



Inside linebacker Tommy Thigpen should contend for the Butkus Award as the nation's top linebacker. Thigpen led the Tar Heels with 106 tackles last year.

Tailback Natrone Means hopes to repeat his performance of a year ago when he led the ACC in rushing with 1,030 yards. Means is a candidate for the Doak Walker Award as the nation's top running back.

"We must take the next step and get to the next level. We have individual goals and short-term goals. We must start looking at winning the ACC championship. But to do that, we first have to win the state championship and go to bowl games."

To step towards that higher level of consistency, Brown will look to a veteran cast led by Thigpen, a 6-2, 234-pound linebacker from Dumfries, Va. On the football field, he is an explosion packed inside a powder blue uniform. Last year, he led the squad with 106 tackles and is rated among the hardest hitters in college football. In three years at UNC, he has averaged 10 hits per contest and totaled 27 tackles for losses including 13 quarterback sacks.

"Tommy is as good a linebacker as there is in college football," says Brown. "He has dominant speed with the ability to hit. He can hit you in the open field, close from behind, or cover backs out of the backfield. He can run full speed and not slow down to hit. It is a very special player who does not have to break down to hit and Tommy is one of the very best."

Along with Thigpen, Means returns as one of the premier performers in college football at his position. Means carried on the storied Carolina tradition at tailback last fall as he chiseled his name onto the Tar Heels' list of 1,000-yard running backs. Leading the conference with 1,030 yards, Means' season was the 20th 1,000-yard campaign in Carolina history. That's more than any school in the history of college football.

The 5-10, 228-pound junior from Harrisburg, N.C. also was 17th in the nation in rushing, led the ACC in all-purpose running and was second in the league in scoring, despite playing just 10 games. He missed the season opener due to a ligament injury in his right leg and was not completely healthy until the fourth week of the season. When healthy, he is big and fast and runs with an uncanny knack of seeing the entire field. Great backs have great balance and vision and Means is blessed with both.

What Brown and Carolina's coaches are blessed with is not one, but two exceptional tailbacks. Joining Means to form perhaps the country's best tandem is senior Randy Jordan. The 5-10, 205-pound native of Manson, N.C. had a standout season last fall rushing for 618 yards. That was the seventh-highest total in the ACC. Jordan topped the 100-yard mark three times, rushed for seven touchdowns and added 11 pass receptions, two for scores. His nine touchdown total tied Terry Kirby of Virginia for second-best in the ACC behind Means.

"Means and Jordan are as good as any pair of backs in college," says Brown. "We are fortunate to have two guys who are both very good and extremely competitive. Means is a big, strong, powerful guy, who can run right through you; Jordan has speed as good as any back in the nation.

"The tailback tradition here is very special. Means has rushed for 1,000 yards and wants to do it again. Jordan wants to finish his career as a 1,000-yard back. It's their goal to both get 1,000 this season. That is very possible if we are moving the ball and our defense gets it back to us. If we have the ball a lot and they stay healthy, they'll have a shot at it."

Another reason Carolina's tailbacks may be able to compile significant yardage is outstanding lead-blocking led by Parsons. Originally a linebacker and then a defensive lineman, Parsons has started at center since midway through the 1990 season. The 6-3, 270-pound senior from Wilkesboro, N.C. is very quick and agile for a lineman and could be one of the top NFL choices from the center position next year.

Parsons, Means and Jordan are not Carolina's only all-star candidates. Corey Holliday ranks as one of the top receivers in America. A 6-2, 200-pound junior from Richmond, Va., Holliday is threatening to break many of UNC's pass receiving records. He already has tied the record for most consecutive games with a reception (22) and with 68 catches, has caught more balls in his first two years than any other Tar Heel ever. He's clearly on pace to break Earl Winfield's record of 106 receptions. Along with Parsons, he's also one of the Tar Heels' offensive team captains.

"Holliday is an exceptional player and a tremendous leader," says Brown. "He has soft hands, great timing and amazing leaping ability. He has also shown tremendous courage making catches over the middle and taking shots. We're almost spoiled because we think he'll catch everything thrown his way. Corey consistently makes catches you can't believe."

One thing the coaches do believe is the secondary is deep, talented, experienced and led by a pair of all-star candidates in free safety Rondell Jones and cornerback Thomas Smith. They are half of a starting secondary comprised of three seniors and a junior.

> "Expectations don't bother us. The coaches and players have their own high expectations and we put pressure on ourselves. We must take the next step and get to the next level. > Mack Brown

Jones, a 6-2, 211-pound senior from Calvert, Md., has started 27 games since 1989 and made 240 career tackles. He started in his first-ever college game and has been one of the leaders of the defense ever since. He overcame an injury-induced slow start last year to become a consistent force in the secondary.

"He's our leader back there," says Brown. "He's big, fast and has played lots of football. He knows as much about what we're doing out there as any player could. The free safety position is very crucial to us and he has played it for three years. Rondell is similar to Thigpen in that he can come up and cover the run, but can also run with the wide receivers. I think he's one of the most underrated players in our league."

Smith also has played a lot of football, but at cornerback and with a little different beginning. A 5-11, 191-pound senior from Gates, N.C., he came to Chapel Hill as a walk-on, made the team, earned a scholarship and last year was a second-team All-ACC selection. Smith set a Carolina season-best with 16 pass breakups last fall, a mark which also topped all defenders in the ACC.

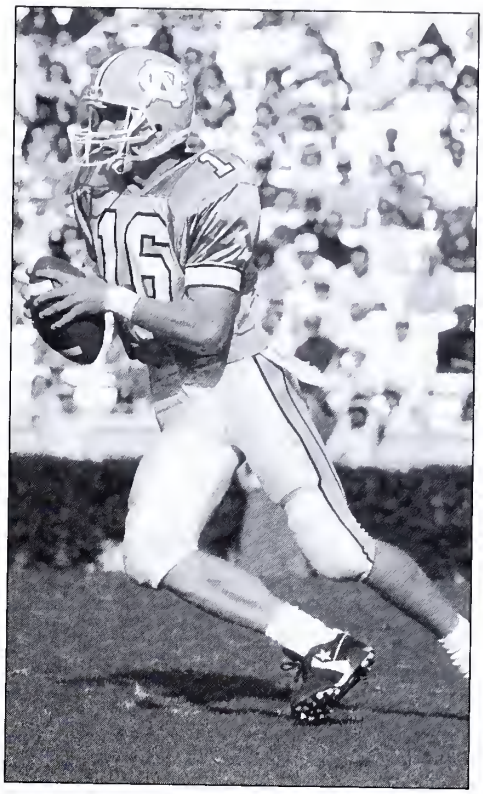
Austin Robbins is another big-play athlete on the defensive side of the ball. A 6-6, 275-pound defensive tackle from Washington D.C., Robbins emerged last year as a potentially dominant interior lineman. Brown feels Robbins has the personality and skills to improve on his three sacks and nine quarterback pressures of a year ago.

Another leader of the Tar Heels' defensive unit is outside linebacker Jonathan Perry. He's a 6-2 1/2, 245-pound senior who has started each of the last 22 games, the longest current string on the team. Perry and Thigpen are the defensive captains and command the respect of the entire squad. Perry led the team with nine quarterback pressures last year and rarely finds himself in the wrong place on the field.

Brown says, "Perry is a solid player who has done everything he's supposed to do and consistently makes big plays. He's the type of linebacker we love to see on the field — he's someone who makes things happen out there."

The Carolina staff points towards these all-star candidates as reasons for optimism, but what is further encouraging is the depth of young talent on the rise. Virtually every position is deeper than in any of Brown's first five years, but it is a constant challenge to have athletes ready to step off the bench and keep the quality of play at or near what it was before.

"The question is depth, not of the first team, but the reserves," Brown notes. "We've had to play so many freshmen the first few years that we still have some depth problems at certain positions. But two years ago, we played better than expectations and last year, the expectations were better than the team, especially because of injuries to our linebackers and running backs. It was a good solid football team with worse luck than you can imagine. Right now our program is very secure off the field and competitive on the field. We have a chance to be in every game now, which we couldn't say four years ago. Now we have to see how good we can be."



Sophomore quarterback Jason Stanicek led the Tar Heels to wins in three of their last four games in 1991 as he displayed great poise, touch and leadership.

Tailback Randy Jordan rushed for 618 yards last season and posted three games with more than 100 yards.

Position Analysis

The quarterback race is still up for grabs at the start of pre-season, although it appears sophomore incumbent Jason Stanicek and red-shirt freshman Mike Thomas have the inside edge. Senior Chuckie Burnette started the first seven games in 1991 and will also challenge for the number-one slot. That gives Carolina its deepest and most talented set of signal-callers in many years.

"The quarterback position is in the best shape since I've been here," says Brown. "The two young players are very talented, but they also lack experience. Some people say we have a quarterback controversy, but I think we have a great situation. We have three guys who have played in games. Chuckie has more experience, Jason had the strong showing last year and Mike played some and learned a tremendous amount from the sidelines.

"It's not a problem, it's great situation for us. The players have handled it well and they care for each other and just want the team to win. Chuckie has helped Jason's and Mike's understanding of the game a great deal."

Stanicek, 6-0, 185 pounds from Park Forest, Ill., started the final four games last season and led UNC to victories over Maryland, South Carolina and Duke. He was 54 for 95 with three touchdown passes and showed great poise and leadership. Stanicek is an accurate passer with scrambling ability and his talent in keeping defenses off balance helped ease the pressure off Carolina's other skill position players.

Thomas, 6-2, 221 pounds from Hamlet, N.C., played in two games last year, but tore a ligament in his thumb against William and Mary which ended his season. Fully recovered and armed with a medical hardship which retains his freshman eligibility, Thomas should not only become the team's first-string punter, but will see lots of playing time at quarterback. He is very talented, blessed with good running ability and a strong arm. He has also impressed the coaches with his ever-growing grasp of the offensive scheme. Thomas played this past summer in the Baltimore Orioles' chain.

> "The tailback tradition here is very special. Means has rushed for 1,000 yards and wants to do it again. Jordan wants to finish his career as a 1,000-yard back. It's their goal to both get 1,000 this season. That is very possible if we are moving the ball and our defense gets it back to us."

Center Randall Parsons had plenty of reasons to rejoice last year. He helped open the holes for Carolina's 20th 1,000-yard back and was named the Tar Heels' Most Outstanding Offensive Lineman. (Keith Worrell photo)

Burnette, 6-0, 200 pounds from Burlington, N.C., is one of the most experienced reserve quarterbacks in the country. He has made a dozen starts and completed 141 of 295 passes including six for touchdowns. He led the Tar Heels to four wins in seven starts last fall.

The rest of the backfield is set. The Tar Heels have two standouts at tailback in Means and Jordan. The pair rushed for 1,648 combined yards, added 34 receptions and scored 20 total touchdowns. Backing them up is red-shirt freshman Curtis Johnson, a 5-9, 203-pound back from Greensboro, N.C.

Carolina has two players, senior Mike Faulkerson and sophomore William Henderson, who have started at fullback. Faulkerson heads into camp as the starter since Henderson did not participate in spring drills due to a bruised shoulder. Both players were key figures in the Tar Heels' solid ground attack of a year ago.

Faulkerson, 6-0, 237 pounds from Kingsport, Tenn., made all 11 starts in 1990 and five more last fall. He missed some playing time at mid-season with an injury, but played well late in the year and improved his running ability during the spring. The coaches feel he knows the offense very well and he understands his role within the game plan.

Henderson is a 6-0 1/2, 241-pound freight train with speed. He is a solid blocking back, but can also gain yards on his own. He rushed for 101 yards against Maryland, the first time a UNC fullback topped the century mark in seven years. He's a player who should only get better, especially considering last year was his first season playing football since 1988 when he was a junior in high school. Injuries held him out of action for two years and a shoulder bruise he suffered against Duke last fall again forced him to sit out spring practice.

Red-shirt sophomore Malcolm Marshall is third in line at fullback and made big strides in learning to play without the football before a stress fracture in his foot prematurely ended his spring sessions. Marshall is a 6-1, 233-pounder from Winston-Salem, N.C. who rushed for 124 yards and two touchdowns in 1990.

Also backing up at both tailback and fullback is junior Antuarn Williams of DeLeon Spring, Fla. Williams rushed for a touchdown and caught a scoring pass against Cincinnati last season.

Sophomores Greg DeLong of Orefield, Pa. and Oscar Sturgis of Hamlet, N.C. hold down the top spots at tight end. Both players appeared as true freshmen last year and Brown feels they are one of the best young duos in the nation.

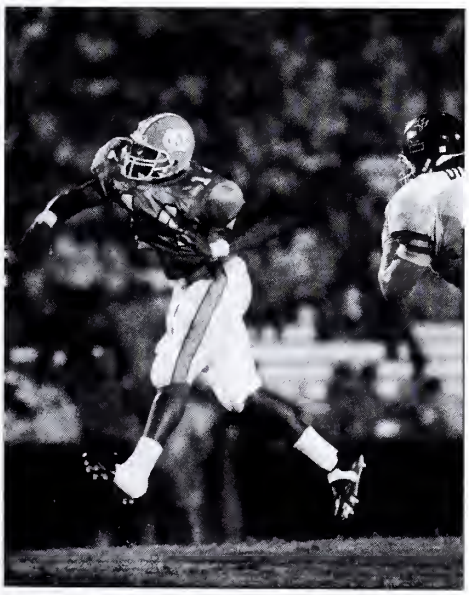
DeLong, 6-3, 240 pounds, is a standout blocker and emerging receiver. He caught three passes last fall but was impressive during spring practice. Sturgis, 6-4 1/2, 249 pounds, missed some action early last season with arthroscopic surgery on his knee and a subsequent infection, but is again 100 percent healthy. His blocking skills are tremendous and he continues to improve on his routes and pass catching.

Senior Craig Brown of Virginia Beach, Va. and senior Matt Fry of Atlanta, Ga. are the top backups behind DeLong and Sturgis.

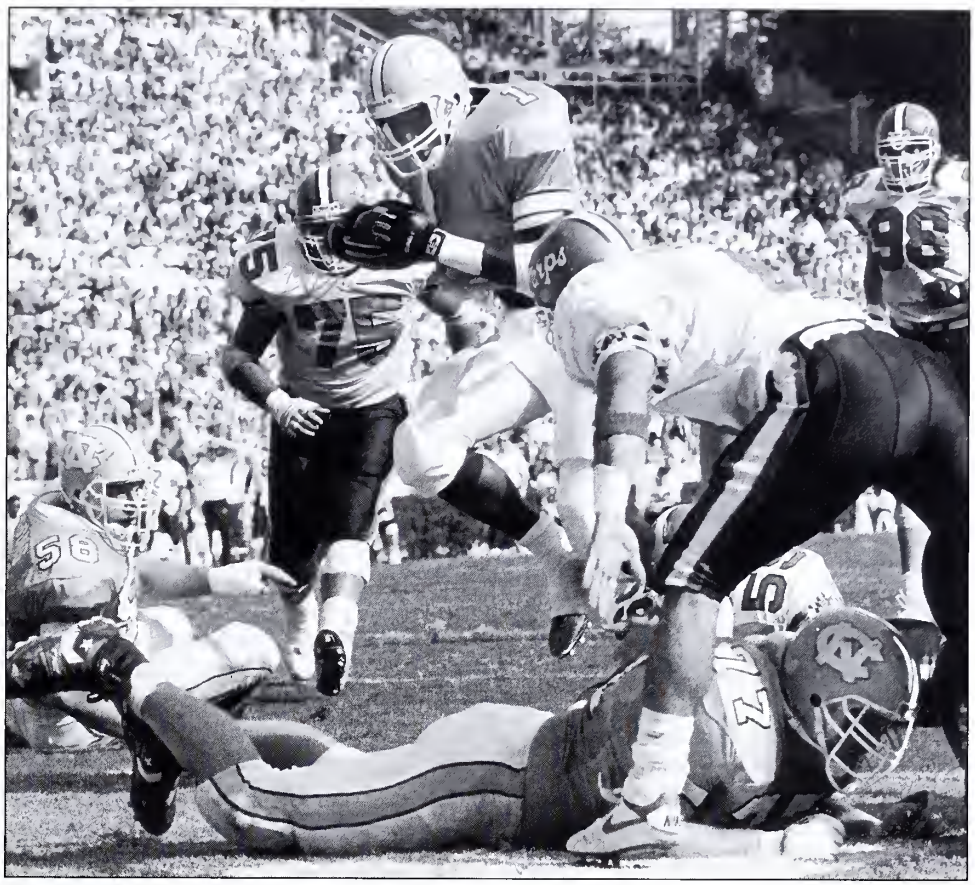
There are some question marks at wide receiver, although the Tar Heels are blessed with several exciting athletes at this position. Holliday ranks as one of the finest receivers in the ACC and is the starter at split end. Joey Jauch would have started at flanker, but was eligible for the Canadian Football League draft this past off-season and signed with Hamilton after being selected in the first round.

Jauch's leaving for a pro career and last year's injury to Julius Reese has left somewhat of a question of whom will step into that starting role. It should come down to a battle of five players. Receivers coach Jim Cavanaugh feels all five will play, but one or two needs to emerge out of summer competition, step up and win the job.

Bucky Brooks heads into camp as the probable starter at flanker and is backed up by Steven Jerry and Michael Watkins.



Mike Thomas, shown here completing his first college pass in last year's game vs. Cincinnati, was injured in week four and received a medical hardship. Thomas will contend for starting honors at quarterback this fall.



Corey Holliday enters the 1992 season with pass receptions in each of the last 22 games, tying a school-record. Holliday has caught 68 passes in two years, including this four-yard TD last year vs. Maryland.

Randall Felton will likely back up Holliday at split end, but will also get a chance to win the flanker spot. Reese and red-shirt freshman Gray Bovender, both of Winston-Salem, N.C., round out a talented group of receivers.

Brooks, a 6-0, 185-pound junior from Raleigh, N.C., unselfishly red-shirted last fall in order to spread the receivers out over several classes. He is a very talented receiver with sprinter's speed and great leaping ability. He made a 46-yard reception at Wake Forest in 1990 which set up the game-winning touchdown.

Jerry, 5-10, 184 pounds from Orlando, Fla., switched over from quarterback to receiver last year and made two catches in the win over Maryland. Watkins is another player who switched positions; he moved from tailback where he was the fourth-leading rusher on the team two seasons ago. A hip-pointer ended his season in the seventh game that year and he sat out all of last year. He moved to wide receiver prior to the 1992 spring drills and was again hampered by injuries.

Felton is a senior who is 15th in school history with 58 receptions. He has the experience to step in and contribute and the speed to make big plays happen. Reese tore an anterior cruciate ligament in his knee in the Cincinnati game last fall and missed all of spring practice. His rehabilitation progress will play a large part in the answers to the questions at this position.

The biggest questions on the offense, however, are in the offensive line. Four starters from a year ago graduated and two of them were selected in the first 10 rounds of the NFL draft. The lone holdover is Parsons, an agile, yet powerful talent at center. He played more snaps last year than any player on the entire roster. This year, he'll have new faces awaiting his snap of the ball.

Starting on the left side of the line will be 6-5, 270-pound tackle Ethan Albright and 6-4, 275-pound guard Shawn Hocker. Albright, from Greensboro, N.C., is a converted tight end and Hocker, a native of Sarasota, Fla., was originally a defensive lineman. On the right side will be 6-3, 264-pound guard Scott Falise and 6-3, 279-pound tackle Curtis Parker. Falise, from Pittsburgh, Pa., is the most experienced lineman other than Parsons. Parker, a native of Wingate, N.C., made a solid showing in spring drills.

The second unit may be the most vital group of players on the squad. Their development, not only for this year, but for the future, is a key to this Carolina team. Steve Mandeville, a junior from Springfield, Va., and Kerry Sharpe, a sophomore from Checotah, Okla., are the top reserves at tackle. Scott Overbeck, a red-shirt freshman from New Canaan, Conn., and Russell Babb, a red-shirt freshman from Wilson, N.C. are the backups at guard. Red-shirt freshman Pat Conneely, from Pensacola, Fla., is Parsons' backup at center.

"Our offensive line was much better than we anticipated in the spring, but we still have a major concern about the depth there," says Brown. "The young players we have there will be very good players in the future, but they need game experience early in the season."

The defensive line did not suffer the losses that its offensive counterpart did, but there were questions just the same entering spring practice. Brown and his staff, however, felt much better about this unit by the time spring drills came to a close.

Robbins will start at one tackle position with 6-5, 245-pound senior Curt Brown manning the other tackle slot. Brown, a native of Virginia Beach, Va., started five games last year and alternated with Roy Barker, a fourth round pick in the 1992 NFL draft.

Senior J.R. Boldin, 6-1 1/2, 265 pounds from Chapel Hill, or 6-4, 267-pound junior Troy Barnett of Jacksonville, N.C. will get the nod at nose guard. Boldin started all 11 games last year, but was challenged for the job in spring camp by Barnett, a former walk-on. In fact, the coaches felt Barnett was one of the most impressive players on the team during the spring.

Backing up the starters will be tackle Riddick Parker, a 6-3, 258-pound junior from Murfreesboro, N.C.; tackle Michael Payne, a 6-2, 235-pound junior from Clemmons, N.C.; and nose guard Greg Black, a 6-4, 285-pound talented red-shirt freshman from Gastonia, N.C.

"The line was one of our biggest concerns coming into spring," says Brown, "but we broke camp with six or seven guys who have a chance to be really good football players. Payne had an excellent spring, Parker was much better and Troy Barnett is pushing everybody up front for a starting job."

"Our defense has some really good quickness. We lost some great players at linebacker, but we have several players who I think will step in and raise their games. Our secondary is experienced and smart. They know what we want done out there. Most of them have been starters and we have some real good players who will be backups. Now we can disguise some things, throw some new looks at people."

Mack Brown

Carolina has always had great linebackers and 1992 should be no different. Thigpen is as good any defensive player in the country and is the type of player whom offensive coordinators always want to know how to avoid. Problem is, Thigpen does such a good job of finding the football no matter where it may be.

Lining up next to him at inside linebacker will probably be Rick Steinbacher, a 6-0 1/2, 237-pound junior from Greenville, S.C. He started the first six games last year when Dwight Hollier was injured and apprenticed rather well. His experience should show further this year as he is a standout technician.

Defensive tackle Austin Robbins (98) is a leader of the Tar Heels' defensive unit which returns eight starters from a year ago.

The top backup inside is sophomore Kerry Mock, the only true freshman a year ago to play on defense. A 6-1 1/2, 222-pound native of Thomasville, N.C., Mock could play at either inside slot behind Thigpen or Steinbacher. Sophomore Mike Morton of Kannapolis, N.C. will also see significant time in a reserve role. Last year, Morton played outside, but is finally at the position where his skills should be most beneficial.

Others who should factor at inside linebacker include Eddie Mason, a sophomore from Siler City, N.C., and John Bradley, a sophomore from Wilmington, N.C.

Carolina may have as much depth at the outside linebacker position as it has shown since Brown took over the head coaching job in 1988. Perry will start on the strong side opposite Bernardo Harris who will man the rover position. Harris is a 6-2, 229-pound junior from Chapel Hill who is bigger and faster than Eric Gash was at that position last year. Harris, however, still must show he can produce like Gash, a two-time second-team All-ACC selection, did.

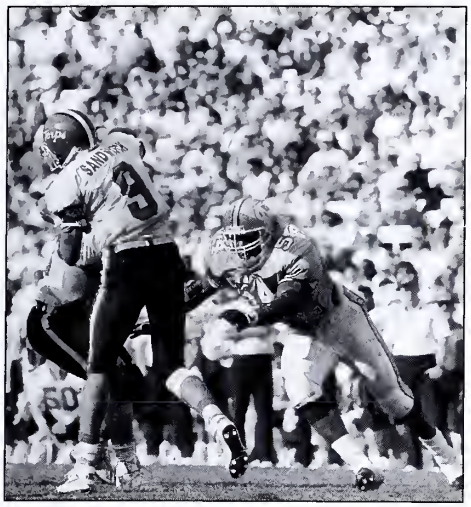
Ray Jacobs will back up Perry, with Doug Leonard being the top reserve at rover. Jacobs is a dynamic, 6-2, 235-pound junior from Hampstead, N.C. who the coaches moved from inside linebacker to outside this past spring. They feel the move will allow Jacobs to be more instinctive and use his blitzing, free-lance type moves more effectively. Leonard brings a lot of football savvy to the field and runs well for a 6-5, 225-pound red-shirt rookie. Michael Clemmer, a red-shirt freshman from Vestavia Hills, Ala., will be the fifth player outside.

"Switching Morton and Jacobs was a real good swap," Brown says. "Morton feels real comfortable inside and Jacobs will help at the rush end. You're not going to replace two leaders like Hollier and Gash, but with time these guys will become very good players."

The defensive secondary is the most experienced set of positions on the football team. Starters and top reserves from a year ago return at each of the four spots and are joined by several promising looking freshmen.

Jones is the quarterback of the defensive unit at free safety. Backing him up is sophomore Jimmy Hitchcock, a 5-11, 192-pound native of Concord, N.C. Brown says Hitchcock could start at any other position in the secondary, but having a backup to Jones this year and a successor for the next two years is essential.

Cookie Massey, a 5-11, 211-pound senior from Rock Hill, S.C. should start for the third straight year at strong safety. Bracey



Outside linebacker Jonathan Perry was elected one of the Tar Heels' four captains this year, along with Corey Holliday, Randall Parsons and Tommy Thigpen.

Walker, a power-packed junior from Spring Lake, N.C. is battling to take that top spot away, however. Massey has made 21 starts over the last three years and has picked off a half-dozen passes.

Red-shirt freshmen Kevin Addis of Union, S.C. and Sean Boyd of Gastonia, N.C. impressed the coaches in spring drills. Addis is backing up Jones and Hitchcock at free safety, while Boyd is number three to Massey and Walker at strong safety.

Cornerback is another experience-laden position with returning starters Thomas Smith and 5-10, 189-pound junior Sean Crocker. Smith was second-team All-ACC in 1991 and Crocker is the most physical and consistent of the Tar Heels' corners. Senior Cliff Baskerville of Union, N.J. has been a starter in the past and is in a battle with Crocker for starting duties. The fourth corner is Elizabeth City, N.C. native Lawrence Winslow, who has also been a standout on special teams.

Red-shirt freshmen Eric Thomas of Hamlet, N.C. and Fuzzy Lee of Clinton, N.C. will provide depth at the corners. Brown would like both players, along with safeties Addis and Boyd, to see some playing time to gain experience for the future.

"Our defense has some really good quickness," says Brown. "We lost some great players at linebacker, but we have several players who I think will step in and raise their games. We believe Perry is an All-ACC linebacker and Harris played very solidly late last year. Kerry Mock has shown the same type of ability that Hollier displayed as a young player and Steinbacher had the best spring of his career.

"Our secondary is experienced and smart. They know what we want done out there. Most of them have been starters and we have some real good players who will be backups. Now we can disguise some things, throw some new looks at people."

The biggest concern heading into the pre-season, and it should come as little surprise, is the kicking game. Place-kicker Clint Gwaltney and punter Scott McAlister held those positions for four years and were record-setting performers. This year, the place-kicking chores should fall to Tripp Pignetti, a junior from Charlotte, N.C., and Ben Crosland, a red-shirt freshman from Dallas, Texas. Pignetti kicked off twice and converted a pair of extra points last year. He should handle the placements, while Crosland will likely begin the year kicking off.

Mike Thomas is the number one punter and has shown the ability to launch some impressive shots. He's working to improve his consistency, as the raw talent and leg strength is obvious. Red-shirt freshman Jay Boaz of Pilot Mountain, N.C. is the backup.

> "Overall, I'd say this is the closest team we've had from top to bottom since I've been here. I think we have tremendous quickness and speed. We may mess up sometimes, but this team will fly around the ball."
> Mack Brown

Kick returns last year were handled mostly by record-breaker Eric Blount. This year, kickoffs will likely fall to a group of players including Hitchcock, Jordan, Jerry and Watkins. Punt returns should be handled by Felton and Jerry.

Graduate student Steve Wilson and Albright will take care of the deep snaps, while Bovender will hold for placements.

"We lost our best punter, best place-kicker and one of the best return men in the history of the game," says Brown. "The kicking game in general is a major concern for us going into the fall. We do have some talented people working to return kicks, but they just haven't done much of it yet.

"Overall, I'd say this is the closest team we've had from top to bottom since I've been here. I think we have tremendous quickness and speed. We may mess up sometimes, but this team will fly around the ball. The kids were competitive every scrimmage this spring.

"We need to develop some depth in the offensive line and we have a totally revamped kicking game and some young linebackers. To be successful in college football, you must be dominant at linebacker. So this group must play at the highest level of its ability and pick up the slack created by the loss of Hollier and Gash. And we must get consistent play from our quarterbacks, meaning they must put the team in good position to score points and thus have a chance to win games."

Thomas Smith (29), making a spectacular key interception vs. Wake Forest last year, originally walked-on at Carolina, but was named second-team All-ACC in 1991.

TAR HEELIA

Academy Award

The 1992 Oscar for Best Supporting Actor was awarded to Jack Palance for his portrayal of an old-time trail boss at a modern dude ranch. Palance is a former Carolina football player. Walter Jack Palanske was a member of the 1937 freshman team and the 1938 varsity.

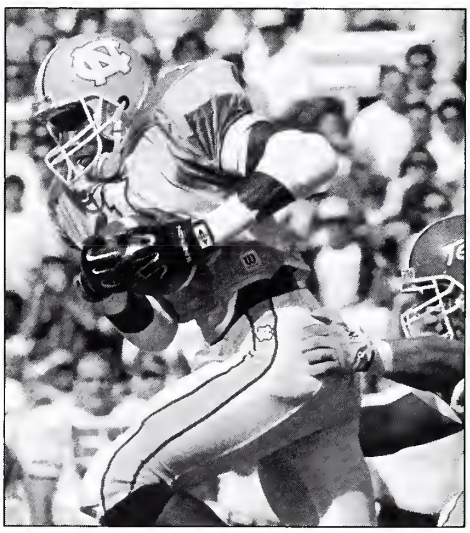
All-Americas

Twenty-two Carolina football players have received first-team All-America honors with numerous others gaining second and third-team recognition. The first-team selections stretch from guard George Barclay in 1934 to tackle Harris Barton in 1986 and include five players who were so honored in two different seasons: end Paul Severin in 1939 and 1940, halfback Charlie Justice in 1948 and 1949, end Art Weiner in 1948 and 1949, offensive guard David Drechsler in 1981 and 1982 and defensive tackle William Fuller in 1982 and 1983.

All-Star Candidates

The Tar Heels placed seven players on the All-ACC Team last year and this year have a number of players worth conference and national recognition. You've all heard of linebacker Tommy Thigpen and tailback Natrone Means and indeed they are among the finest players in the nation at their positions. Another player who fits that mold talent-wise, but a player you haven't heard a whole lot about, is center Randall Parsons. Offensive line coach Whitey Jordan raves about Parsons and Mack Brown feels he is one of the best centers in the country and a bona fide pro player. We think you will hear a great deal more about Parsons this fall.

Others to watch are tailback Randy Jordan, wide receiver Corey Holliday, cornerback Thomas Smith, defensive tackle Austin Robbins and outside linebacker Jonathan Perry. And of course, there will be a few other players who'll sneak up on us this year, but we'll let you know about them as we go along.



Wide receiver Corey Holliday is one of the premier pass receivers in the Atlantic Coast Conference. The Richmond, Va. native was named second-team All-ACC last year and should contend for higher honors this fall.

Alumni

As of the end of last school year, there were 188,728 living Carolina alumni. Of that total, 53.7 percent live in the state of North Carolina. Alumni reside in all 50 states and 125 foreign countries.

Alumni Association

It's located in the Alumni House, next to the Carolina Inn, and is headed by Doug Dibbert, director of alumni affairs. He can be reached at (919) 962-1208.

Construction continues on the George Watts Hill Alumni Center located between Kenan Fieldhouse and Carmichael Dormitory. The work is nearing completion with the official opening anticipated during the winter of 1992-93.

Announcer

Field announcer at Kenan Stadium is Kearney Andrews of Lexington, N.C. Press Box announcer is Dave Lohse, Associate Sports Information Director.

Atlantic Coast Conference

Carolina was a charter member of the league when it was formed in 1953. Other current institutions include original members Clemson, Duke, Maryland, North Carolina State, Virginia and Wake Forest, Georgia Tech (joined the league in 1979) and Florida State. The Seminoles were added to the roll in 1991 and will compete for the football title for the first time this fall.

The league offices are located in Greensboro, N.C. The commissioner is Gene Corrigan. Brian Morrison serves as director of the media service bureau and is assisted by Emily Watkins.

Bainbridge

When Charlie Justice signed up to enlist in World War II, he was asked which branch of the service he preferred. He told the draft board that since he couldn't swim, he should be in the army. Justice, of course, was immediately put in the navy and sent to Bainbridge Naval Training Station in Maryland. Each base fielded its own football team. Although lined up against college and professional stars, Justice just out of high school, was an immediate sensation. Bainbridge went undefeated in 1943 and was ranked the number one service team in the country.

It was at Bainbridge that Charlie got his nickname. An observer commented, while watching him play, "Say, that Justice kid runs like a choo choo train." The tag stuck and Charlie Justice became interchangeable with Choo Choo Justice. Charlie spent two seasons at Bainbridge before being shipped to Hawaii. He played there for the Pearl Harbor Navy All-Stars.

Barclay, George

Carolina's first football All-America in 1934, Barclay played offensive guard and linebacker. He was named captain of the of the 1934 team which went 7-1-1. Barclay later served as Carolina's head coach from 1953 to 1955.

Beat Dook Parade

This is an annual parade held before the big game with Duke each football season. It features floats put together by various residence colleges, fraternities and sororities.

Black Shoes

About all we can say is that the players love them. Last year, following an overwhelming democratic mandate by the players, the Tar Heels returned to black shoes for the first time since 1975. We think it was one of those 'Back to the Future' type deals.

Blanchard, Felix (Doc)

The great Army All-America fullback who actually began his college football career at Carolina. He enrolled at Chapel Hill in 1941. But, because of the war, the army took him away. He was enrolled at West Point where he became a three-time All-America and part of the famed Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside tandem with Glenn Davis. Blanchard won the Heisman Trophy in 1945.

Blanchard's son, Tony, was a star tight end at Carolina from 1968 to 1970 and still ranks as the 13th-leading receiver in school history.

Bowl Games

Carolina has gone bowling 16 times with 12 of those appearances coming in the last 22 years. The all-time Tar Heel bowl record is 6-10. Carolina's post-season trips have been to the Sugar Bowl in 1947 and 1949; the Cotton Bowl in 1950; the Gator Bowl in 1963, 1971, 1979 and 1981; the Peach Bowl in 1970, 1976 and 1983; the Sun Bowl in 1972, 1974 and 1982; the Liberty Bowl in 1977; the Bluebonnet Bowl in 1980; and the Aloha Bowl in 1986.

Branch, Johnny

Every Carolina fan knows the exploits of Charlie Justice, the school's most famous player and one of the finest kick returners around. However, there are some longtime observers of football in this state who say Justice might not have been the school's best at returning punts. They say Johnny Branch was unsurpassed in that area. As a senior in 1931 he averaged 19.8 yards on 10 returns. His career average had to be an incredible figure as evidenced by that season and partial records of his long plays the two previous years.

The College Football Association has honored UNC in five of the last six years for high graduation rates. Last year, all 17 seniors completed their degree requirements. Shown here are: (front) Andy Dinkin, Clint Gwaltney, Eric Blount, Mark Atkinson, Brian Davis (Academic Coordinator) and Eric Gash; (back) John Blanchard (Director of Athletic Academic Affairs), Dwight Hollier, Andrew Oberg, Todd Burnett, Brian Bollinger, Deems May and Tony Butler.

As a sophomore, Branch didn't play fulltime as he was just one of the stars on the famous "Team of a Million Backs." However, he did have a 60-yard punt return against Georgia Tech and another of 43 yards against Maryland. In 1930 he had punt returns covering 63, 68, 85 and 96 yards. The 85-yard sprint was for a touchdown against Virginia Tech, while the 96-yarder, still the longest in Tar Heel history, accounted for a score against Maryland. As a senior, the 5-5, 150-pound Branch had a 44-yard touchdown return against Virginia.

Cancelled Games

Carolina only played eight games during the 1952 season. Early-season contests against N.C. State and Georgia had to be cancelled because of a polio outbreak on campus.

Carolina Blue

The light blue color worn by Carolina athletic teams. It has many different names - light blue, powder blue, sky blue and Columbia Blue among others. However, the accomplishments of Tar Heel athletes have really made the color synonymous with the University so it simply bears its name. Carolina Blue is identified by PMS color #297.

This is also the name of a newspaper which covers Carolina athletics — John Kilgo and Bert Woodard, editors. Call 1-800-637-BLUE for subscription information.

Carolina Cheerios

This is the most famous cheering section in Carolina history. It was organized in 1927 by head cheerleader Kay Kyser. The Cheerios, which included a chorus and dance group, was made up of 300 students dressed in blue coats and white trousers.

In his time in Chapel Hill, Kyser also wrote a new fight song, "Tar Heels On Hand." He was a hustler who kept things hopping in the stands even if they were dragging on the field. Kyser was a natural showman so it was no surprise when he made it big in show business. His bands were world-famous. His "College of Musical Knowledge" was one of the most popular of all radio shows. He made movies and The New York Times called him "The Genius of Jazz." But, in Chapel Hill, he is still best known for the Cheerios.

CFA Awards

Carolina has been honored by the College Football Association with its Academic Achievement Award in each of the last four seasons and in five of the past six. The Tar Heels have won honorable mention recognition in the spring of 1987, '89, '90 , '91 and '92 by graduating over 70 percent of its senior players.

"Our eventual goal is to win the CFA Award for the best percentage and also the ACC football championship in the same year," says Carolina head coach Mack Brown.

Chapel Hill

Home of the University of North Carolina, the town traces its history back to 1792 when it was known as New Hope Chapel Hill. It was named for New Hope Chapel, a church located atop a hill.

Today, the town has about 36,000 permanent residents. However, when the University is in session, the population goes above 65,000. Because of the University's presence, the town is like a cosmopolitan city, but it still maintains the charm of a village.

Chapel Hill was rated the third best place to live nationally out of 329 metro areas surveyed in the 1985 Places Rated Almanac, published by Rand McNally. It is part of an urban region known as the Research Triangle. Time magazine named this area "one of the 20 nicest places to live in the United States." It was also rated in two other recent surveys as being among the five best places to live in America.

Cheerleading

None allowed in the press box.

"Choo Choo" Blount

Wait a minute, it's "Choo Choo" Justice, isn't it? Well, of course that is the more famous of the pair, but Eric Blount etched his name right alongside Charlie Justice's last year with a dazzling performance against William and Mary. Blount became only the second Tar Heel and fifth player in NCAA history to return both a kickoff and punt for touchdowns in the same game. Justice had turned the trick against Florida in 1946. Blount ran back a punt 76 yards for a score and one series later ran back a kickoff 93 yards. That helped Carolina to a 59-36 win over the Tribe.

Following the game in the locker room, several players were heard to holler, "Way to go, Choo Choo Blount!"

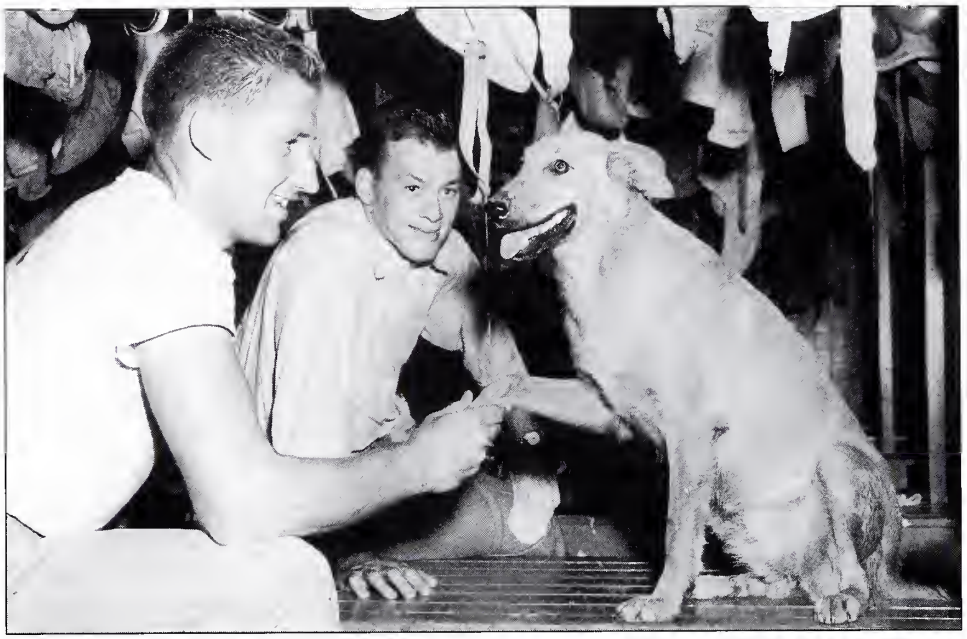
CoSIDA

College Sports Information Directors of America. Sports Information Director Rick Brewer was inducted into the organization's Hall of Fame in 1991, joining longtime Carolina SID Jake Wade.

Davie, William R.

"The Father of the University," a revolutionary patriot, a governor of North Carolina and the recipient of the University's first honorary doctor of laws degree. A graduate of Princeton, Davie was a cavalry officer in the Revolutionary War and a delegate to the Philadelphia Constitutional Convention in 1787.

Davie persuaded this state's new legislature to charter the University, the first state institution in the country. Ratification occurred just 20 days after North Carolina ratified the U.S. Constitution. Only days after the University was chartered, a bill was introduced to provide building funds and support for the school through



This photo was simply too good to pass up. Hugh Morton captured this shot in the 1940s of a pair of future Hall of Famers and a friend. escheats and tax exemptions. Davie prepared the ordinance fixing the seat of the University and played a leading role in the construction of buildings and the selection of the faculty. Davie steered a building loan through the General Assembly in December of 1791 which was the only state appropriation for the University until after the Civil War.

Davie, as grand master of masons, laid the cornerstone to Old East, now the oldest state university building in the nation, on October 12, 1793. This day is observed as University Day each year.

Dorsett, Tony

The only major college player other than Carolina's Amos Lawrence to rush for 1,000 yards in four straight seasons. Lawrence gained 1,211 yards in 1977, had 1,043 in 1978, ran for 1,019 in 1979 and then had 1,118 in 1980.

Durham, Woody

Now in his 22nd year of handling radio play-by-play commentary for the North Carolina Tar Heels. Durham, a 1963 Carolina graduate, has the most recognizable voice in the entire state as Tar Heel games can be heard anywhere in North Carolina. He's famous for his meticulous preparation for every broadcast. Durham is vice-president and executive sports director of the Village Companies in Chapel Hill, loves to play golf and has been voted North Carolina sportscaster of the year so many times the award may be retired.

First Game

Carolina's first football game was played against Wake Forest on October 8, 1888. The site was the State Fair in Raleigh.

The University was represented by a team of sophomores who had defeated the rest of student body and was looking for new opposition. A game with Wake Forest sophomores was arranged. The rules of "foot ball" were vastly different than they are now. In fact, there were very few rules at all. However, according to The News & Observer of Raleigh, "the game was exciting and was played by excellent teams on both sides. It was witnessed by a tremendous crowd. The players were uniformed and were a skilled and active set of boys."

Each goal counted two points and Wake won the game, 6-4. This was the first intercollegiate game of "foot ball" played in the state of North Carolina.

Forward Pass

Carolina has been given credit for throwing the first forward pass in a game. The immortal John Heisman is the man who gave that distinction to the Tar Heels in a 1928 edition of Collier's Weekly. Heisman had witnessed the event in a Carolina-Georgia game played in Atlanta on October 26, 1895.

Franklin Street

Most famous street in North Carolina. It's the main thoroughfare through downtown Chapel Hill. However, there are other streets and roads in this college town with famous names. Among them are Justice, Weiner, Barclay, Severin, Branch, Fetzer and Hartig. All were named for important figures in Carolina's football history.

General College

All freshmen and sophomores are enrolled in the University's General College and must complete 13 to 14 general education courses along with about seven free electives. The general education courses reflect the faculty's thoughts on what students will need to lead productive and meaningful lives. These courses are in English, mathematics, the sciences, history and foreign language. They provide the foundation for balanced development and are taken by all students, regardless of intended fields of study.

The Gray Fox

One of the many nicknames given former Carolina Coach Carl Snavely. He was also King Carl, The Dutch Master and Mr. Single Wingback.

Snavely directed Carolina to its greatest heights in football, taking the Tar Heels to three major bowl games during the Charlie Justice Era in the late 1940s.

A quiet man on and off the field, Snavely was a perfectionist who rarely passed out compliments. In fact, it was not until after Justice graduated that Snavely finally admitted Charlie was the best player he had coached.

Snavely was a pioneer in the use of films in football. He watched game films day and night, at his office and at home. His only vice was ice cream. Late-night visitors to his home would often find him with a quart of ice cream in his lap and his black german shepherd Barnaby at his side, watching films of the previous game.

In 32 seasons of collegiate coaching at Carolina, Bucknell, Cornell and Washington University in St. Louis, he compiled a brilliant 180-96-16 record. He is a member of the National Football Hall of Fame.

Homecoming

Scheduled for October 24 vs. Georgia Tech, the final home game of the 1992 season.

The Morehead Patterson Bell Tower was a $100,000 gift from John Motley Morehead and was dedicated in November 1932.

Justice, Charlie

The most famous of all Carolina football players, Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice is regarded by many as the greatest all-around player in the history of the South. Justice, a triple-threat tailback from a single-wing formation, starred on Tar Heel teams from 1946 to 1949. He helped spark Carolina to two Sugar Bowl appearances and one trip to the Cotton Bowl. He still holds many school total offense and punting records.

Justice was the subject of a book, "Choo Choo, the Charlie Justice Story," by Bob Quincy and Julian Scheer and of a song, "All The Way Choo Choo," by Orville Campbell and Hank Bebee. Charlie and his wife, Sarah, now live in Cherryville, N.C., but he is a frequent visitor to Chapel Hill. A profile of Justice can be found on pages 160-61 of this brochure.

Kenan Stadium

Home of Carolina's Tar Heels. Called by Sport magazine one of the five best places in the country to watch a college game. Capacity at the stadium was increased to 52,000 in 1988 with the addition of 2,000 new seats in a prime location—between the 40-yard line on each side of the field. Room was made for the additional seats by the destruction of the old press box and chancellor's box. A new press box was added to the top of the stadium's south side. Surrounded by trees, the stadium is in a natural valley and a beautiful setting.

Kenan, William Rand Jr.

Benefactor of Kenan Stadium. A native of Wilmington, N.C., Kenan was an 1894 Carolina graduate who lettered in both football and baseball. During his work on campus, he discovered carbide, laying a foundation for success in chemistry, engineering and building. His skill as an engineer and his ability as a director of great enterprises put him in demand all over the world. In railway transportation, gas lighting, water and electric power, hotel and real estate operation, he became one of the financial and industrial leaders of his generation.

William Rand Kenan Jr. was the benefactor of Kenan Stadium. He donated the funds to build the stadium as a memorial to his parents. He was a football and baseball letterman and an 1894 UNC graduate.

Kenan Stadium was built as a memorial to his parents, William R. Kenan and Mary Hargrave Kenan. He was an 1864 Carolina graduate and she was a Chapel Hill native.

Kristine Lilly — Collegiate Football Player of the Year.

Lights

Kenan Stadium now has permanent lights, installed as part of the 1988 expansion project. Kenan makes use of a General Electric low-mount system which minimizes the height of the light poles. It is similar to the system used at Soldier Field in Chicago. The lights have been used for five football games since their installation four years ago.

The 1991 season opener vs. Cincinnati was the Tar Heels' first-ever true home night game. However, two games were played under lights in Kenan before the permanent system was installed. Portable lights were brought into the stadium for the 1983 Duke and the 1987 Clemson games. Those games had late afternoon starts so they could be televised. Lights were a necessity since they finished after dark.

Of course, the current lighting system has hosted a number of night contests, including an NFL exhibition game in August 1990 between the Falcons and the Redskins, several high school football championship games, the 1989 Atlantic Coast Conference Lacrosse Championships and several Fourth of July fireworks shows.

Lilly, Kristine

Well she is the two-time college football player of the year. OK, that's football as in soccer, but we thought she deserved a mention anyway. Lilly is a senior this fall and will lead the Tar Heels' women's soccer team after its seventh straight NCAA title. Last year, the Wilton, Conn. native was consensus national player of the year. She won the Hermann Award, and was named the Missouri Athletic Club Player of the Year and the ISAA/Coaches Player of the Year. She also was the winner of the prestigious Honda Award and is now a finalist for the Honda Broderick Cup as the outstanding female athlete in all of college athletics.

LT

Not only the greatest linebacker in Carolina history, but regarded by many as the best ever to play the game. In 1980 Lawrence Taylor was the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year and a consensus All-America. He had a school-record 16 sacks that season for 127 yards in losses. Taylor was chosen second in the NFL draft behind Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers.

Mascot

The Tar Heel football mascot is a white ram. A ram has served in this capacity since 1924. Cheerleader Vic Huggins brought the original Rameses to campus. He had decided on a ram as a mascot by linking it with the nickname of Tar Heel star Jack Merritt, a fullback known as "The Battering Ram." Rameses has been a fixture ever since.

He's easily the finest mascot in the Atlantic Coast Conference since live animals are much better at this line of work than students dressed up in ridiculous costumes. Rameses has his most fun prior to the Duke game when he tries to outwit Blue Devil students trying to ramnap him. An old story that Richard Nixon, while a law student at Duke, was involved in an attempt to heist the Tar Heel mascot was denied by the White House during his Presidency. Of course, a lot of other things were also denied by the White House in those days, too.

The current Carolina mascot is Rameses XXVI.

Mason, Morris

Longtime equipment manager at Kenan Fieldhouse. Mason served in that capacity from 1927 to 1973, an incredible 46-year period. It has been said that he came with the stadium since his first year on the job was also the initial season Kenan Stadium was used. Although he did not travel with the team in his first year, Mason saw every Tar Heel football game, home and away, for the next 45 seasons. In that period he became a friend and confidant to a multitude of Carolina players. He's retired now, but can always be found in Kenan Stadium on a Football Saturday.

Morehead Patterson Bell Tower

Located next to Kenan Stadium and generally referred to as simply the "Bell Tower." The 172-foot tower is built on a knoll and rises 200 feet above the campus. It contains a 10-bell carillon which calls students to class, provides twilight music and serenades football fans.

There have been many well-known nicknames bestowed upon Carolina football players, including Choo Choo, Famous Amos, LT and KB. Here is another, "Rocket Man" Mel Collins.

The Bell Tower was dedicated on November 26, 1932, just prior to the Carolina-Virginia football game. A replica of the famous West Point chime, the tower was the $100,000 gift of John Motley Morehead, then American ambassador to Sweden, and Rufus Lenoir Patterson II, a New York tobacco manufacturer. A concert, played entirely by hand, was heard 12 miles away in Durham. Students in the UNC Department of Music were bell ringers, playing the tower's carillon and presenting evening concerts and programs for special campus events until the late 1960s. Then an electronic control system for the chimes and a clock was installed.

The bells range in weight from 300 pounds to almost two tons. The bell tower has a four-faced clock and is crowned with a spire. The area surrounding the tower base was landscaped during the structure's construction and now is a small garden with pathways lined by boxwood hedges.

NCAA Champion

The last player to lead the NCAA in a statistical category was Don McCauley in 1970. McCauley led the nation in all-purpose running, averaging 183.7 yards a game. He also had the most total rushing yards (1,720) and points (126), but other players had better per-game averages in those categories.

Nicknames

No college athlete may have ever had a more famous nickname than Choo Choo Justice. But, the Tar Heels have had a lot of other players with popular monikers. In the early part of the sport's history here, there were Mink Cunningham, Bull Council, Monk McDonald, Goat Randolph, Rabbit Bonner, Ox Shuford, Icky Garrett and Runt Lowe. Then came Sweet Jim Lalanne, Snuffy Stirnweiss, Goo Goo Gantt and Rip Hawkins.

The Seventies saw Boom Boom Betterson, Rocket Man (Mel Collins), Space Cowboy (Mike Voight), Famous Amos Lawrence and Billy The Horse Johnson. More recently, some of Carolina's players have been known simply by their initials. Lawrence Taylor was thus just LT and Kelvin Bryant was KB.

Thousand-yard tailback Natrone Means may have unofficially set a new record for most nicknames when he recently confessed to the following: Nate, Nutra-Sweet, Nitro, Neutron Bomb, G, Na-Na, Fatboy and Piggy. And those are just the ones to which he admitted!

Old Well

The visual symbol of the University, the Old Well is pictured frequently on school literature, Christmas cards and student souvenirs. Originally the sole water supply for campus, the Old Well still serves as a popular water fountain with water supplied by the town of Chapel Hill.

Operation Football

A whirlwind tour of the Atlantic Coast Conference's nine member schools during preseason football practice. Writers and broadcasters meet with players and coaches from each team and watch practice. The longest-running such trip still in existence, the tour results in ACC football getting a tremendous amount of media attention in the pre-season. The tour will be in Chapel Hill this year on Friday, August 21st.

Patterson Medal

Established in 1924, the Patterson Medal is awarded to a Carolina senior who has demonstrated general excellence in athletics throughout his or her college career. The award, first given by Dr. Joseph Patterson in memory of his brother, John Durand Patterson, is based on athletic accomplishment, sportsmanship, leadership and general conduct.

The 1992 winner is Dwight Hollier, the Tar Heels' two-time captain and All-Atlantic Coast Conference linebacker. Hollier concluded his career with a UNC-record 502 tackles and was awarded all-conference recognition for both football and academics.

Thirty football players have been awarded the Patterson Medal including six in the last 25 years. They include Don McCauley, Charles Waddell, Lawrence Taylor, David Drechsler, Ethan Horton and Hollier.

One father-son combination even won the Patterson Medal. Ray Farris took home the prize in 1930 and 32 years later the honor was accorded to Ray Jr.

Picture Day/Fan Appreciation Day

Scheduled for Sunday, August 23rd. Fans are invited to meet the players, get autographs and take pictures on the field with the team.

story that when Mr. Kenan gave the stadium to the University, he did so on condition that the stadium never rise higher than the tops of the trees. That's why expansion of the stadium has been done gradually over the years as the trees have continued to grow. It's a great story, but it's not true.

Practice

North Carolina practices daily during the football season on Navy Field. This complex includes three complete football fields, one of them covered by artificial turf for special uses. Located on Ridge Road, Navy Field is just a short walk from Kenan Fieldhouse and the Tar Heel locker rooms.

Rathskeller

Better known as simply The Rat. Located in Amber Alley on Franklin Street, The Rat is a longtime favorite of Carolina students and alumni for food and drink. Established in 1946, The Rat serves sandwiches and pizza for lunch and complete dinners at night. In addition to food, you can also find out who's going to win Saturday's college football games, the name of the next heavyweight champion of the world and how far ahead of the opposition the Dodgers are in the National League West if your waiter happens to be Davis Blackwell. Like most of The Rat's waiters, Davis has been around so long the place wouldn't be the same without him.

Retired Numbers

The Tar Heels have retired five jersey numbers: 22 for Charlie Justice; 46 for Bill "Cotton" Sutherland; 50 for Art Weiner; 59 for Andy Bershak; and 99 for George Barclay. More information on the five men can be found on page 200 of this brochure.

Road Trip

The most famous road trip in Carolina football history was made by the 1892 team which played three games in four days, winning them all. The Tar Heels departed Chapel Hill by train on Tuesday, November 22, for Atlanta. They arrived at noon the following day and blasted Auburn, 64-0. It was back on a train that evening for a ride to Nashville and a 24-0 win over Vanderbilt on Thursday. Carolina then went back to Atlanta for a 26-0 victory over Virginia on Saturday.

Earlier in the year, The Tar Heels had played two other games on successive days, winning at Richmond, 40-0, and losing to Virginia in Charlottesville, 30-18. A 24-0 win over Trinity (now Duke) gave Carolina a final 5-1 record with all games played away from home. It was a road show not even Hope and Crosby would be able to top.

Simpson, O.J.

Former Southern California All-America tailback whose NCAA single-season rushing record was broken by Carolina's Don McCauley in 1970. McCauley ran for 1,720 yards that season. Simpson's old record of 1,709 had been set in 1968.

Smith

The most popular surname of Tar Heel football lettermen. There have been 22 lettermen named Smith since the first letter was given in the spring of 1889. That includes 19 players and three managers. The first was a manager, William Hopton Smith, in 1903. The first player was John Franklin Smith, a tackle, in 1932. The most recent were members of the 1991 team — defensive back Thomas Lee Smith, defensive back Timothy Cornell Smith and manager Van Smith.

The Carolina Smiths have been Bennie, Bill, Bob, Brian, Charles, Chip, Darryl, Dick, Foyell, Pennington, Jan, John Franklin, Mark, Mike, Moyer, Quinton, Robbie, Roger, Thomas, Tim, Van, Wade and William Hopton.

Second-most popular last name is Johnson with 13. Third is Thompson with 11.

Rick Brewer is beginning his 18th year as director and is in his 25th year as staff member. He is directly responsible for the publicity efforts for the Tar Heel football team. He is assisted by Dave Lohse, Steve Kirschner and Sheri West. The staff also includes secretary Lee Snyder and returning student assistants Brendan Addis, Sonja Allison, Kevin Best, Matt Bowers, Jared Forman, Mark Kautz, Brock Page and Jacqui Steadman.

Sweet Carolines

This is a group of Carolina coeds who are of great assistance in the football office. During the week they help the secretarial staff with a wide range of duties. On Saturdays of home games they act as hostesses for prospective student-athletes and their parents who are visiting the campus.

Tailgating

Part of the tradition of a Football Saturday in Chapel Hill is eating off the back of a car before heading into the stadium. Most popular tailgate food is fried chicken. However, there is a varied menu throughout the parking lots around Kenan Stadium. Some fans now set up grills and have charbroiled hamburgers, hot dogs and steaks.

Team of a Million Backs

This was the great 1929 team which was so deep it fielded four entire backfields, all featuring top-notch performers. Carolina posted a 9-1 record under Coach Chuck Collins, scoring 346 points to rank second to Southern California in the nation in scoring. That average of 34.6 points per game for a season still stands as a school record. The only loss was a 19-12 setback to Georgia when the Bulldogs scored twice in the fourth quarter to win. A fumble recovery set up the winning touchdown.

Among the famed "million backs" were Jimmy Ward, Pete Wyrick, Jim Magner, Jimmy Maus, Strud Nash, Phil Jackson, Chuck Erickson, Henry House, Pap Harden, Yank Spaulding, Johnny Branch and Rip Slusser. Jackson threw a 78-yard touchdown pass to Spaulding against Maryland that year which stood for 14 seasons as the longest pass play in school history and still ranks as the fifth-longest.

While the team was noted for its game-breaking backs, it also had a host of outstanding linemen such as Ray Farris, Don Holt, Bill Koenig, Ned Lipscomb, Ellis Fysal, Bud Eskew, Fenton Adkins and Julian Fenner.

This team was a huge hit at the gate, drawing a record attendance of 139,500. That was topped by a crowd of 31,000 for a 41-7 rout of Virginia in Kenan Stadium.

Thomas (Plural)

Smith might be the most popular name for Tar Heel lettermen, but Thomas is trying to catch up in awful big hurry. In over 100 years of Carolina football, just one player with the surname Thomas has ever earned a varsity letter — George Thomas in 1907-08.

This year, Carolina has four players on its roster named Thomas. Red-shirt freshmen Mike and Eric and rookies Byron and Ronald. One's a quarterback, one's a lineman and two are defensive backs — we think they're starting their own team.

Oh by the way, the Tar Heel defensive back wearing #29 isn't taking any chances. His name is Thomas Smith.

Thousand-Yard Backs

Carolina has produced more 1,000-yard rushers, 20, than any other school in the country. Carolina's group of 11 1,000-yard rushers includes Don McCauley, who set an NCAA rushing record with 1,720 yards in 1970, and Amos Lawrence, one of only two major-college players in history to post four 1,000-yard seasons. Natrone Means became the latest Tar Heel to join that illustrious group when he ran for 1,030 yards last year.

Ticket Information

Information on Carolina football tickets can be obtained at the Athletic Ticket Office, located on the office level of the Smith Center. Daren Lucas, director of ticket operations, and his excellent staff can be reached at (919) 962-2296. However, one should drop by or call early as another season of sellouts is anticipated.

Unbeaten Season

Carolina's only perfect record was posted in 1898 when the Tar Heels were 9-0-0. Seven opponents were shut out-Guilford (18-0), North Carolina A&M (34-0), Greensboro Athletic Association (11-0), Oak Ridge (11-0), Davidson (11-0), Georgia (53-0) and Auburn (29-0). VPI fell, 28-6, and in the season finale on Thanksgiving Day, Virginia was beaten, 6-2. Will Reynolds was the Tar Heel coach and the team was captained by Frank Rogers.

Of Chapel Hill, former sports information director Jake Wade wrote: "This is a town touched by strange magic and to which its peoples, many of them a curious breed, hold a rare and somewhat inexplicable attachment." It could not have been said any better.

The regular Carolina lineup included Herman Koehler (165 pounds) and Edwin Gregory (166) at end; Samuel Shull (175) and Frank Bennett (190) at tackle; R.S. Cromartie (155) and Ike Phifer (190) at guard; Mink Cunningham (148) at center; Rogers (150) at quarterback; Vernon Howell (138) and James MacRae (160) at halfback; and Ernest Graves (170) at fullback.

UNC

As the bumper sticker says, "University of National Champions." Carolina has won 16 national titles since 1981 — at least one national team championship in each of the last 12 school years. Leading the way is Anson Dorrance's amazing women's soccer program which has garnered 10 national crowns. Lacrosse follows with an impressive four and men's basketball and field hockey have each claimed one title in that span.

Last year, the women's soccer team went 24-0 to claim its sixth consecutive NCAA crown. Head coach Dorrance and nine Carolina players also led the United States to the first-ever women's world championship played in China.

Not just teams win national championships at UNC, so do individual athletes. Last year, Allen Johnson won the 55-meter hurdles at the NCAA Indoor Track Championships in a meet-record run of 7.07 seconds. Johnson attended Lake Braddock High School in Burke, Va. — the same high school as soccer All-America Mia Hamm, basketball scoring whiz Hubert Davis and former quarterback Todd Burnett. Gosh, what's in the water up there?

Victories

Carolina has 529 of them on the football field.

Victory Bell

The Victory Bell goes annually to the winner of the Carolina-Duke football game. A large bell on wheels, this prize to the winner of the big season finale was originated in the 1940s by Norm Sper, a Tar Heel cheerleader.

Wade, Jake

First fulltime sports information director at Carolina. A 1923 Tar Heel graduate, he returned to Chapel Hill in 1946 to handle sports publicity. Until that time the sports information work was done by the University News Bureau. Jake arrived back on campus just in time to help make Charlie Justice one of the most famous college football stars of all time. The Carolina Caravan columns he wrote in news releases were a big hit with fans and newspapermen alike.

Jake had been a highly successful newspaperman himself before taking the job at his alma mater. He worked on a number of newspapers, but probably gained his greatest fame as sports editor of The Charlotte Observer where he covered most of Joe Louis' championship fights and regularly staffed the World Series. However, his columns in the Observer, Sports Parade, often were intimate pieces that had nothing to do with sports. Some of those ranked as his best columns along with colorful essays on the Carolina-Duke football rivalry.

After Jake's death in 1962, he was honored by his fellow sports information directors. CoSIDA named one of its two most prestigious awards after him. The Jake Wade Award is presented annually to a member of the media who has made outstanding contributions to the field of intercollegiate athletics.

What It Was Was Football

The comedy single which launched the career of Andy Griffith. The story of a Saturday at Kenan Stadium was a national hit and Griffith, a Carolina Alumnus, went on to a sensational Hollywood career.

Here's one of the finest offensive players in college football ... Ranks as one of the best tailbacks in the game ... Has received mention on all of the pre-season All-America teams ... Should be a prime candidate for the Doak Walker Award as the nation's premier running back ... fullback-type frame ... Not only an outstanding player running the ball, but he also has soft hands and the ability to catch the football ... Confident, yet down-to-earth young man who is a favorite among the rest of the players and coaching staff ... Stormed onto the Atlantic Coast Conference scene midway through his rookie season...Duke's head coach Barry Wilson described him in 1990 as the "classic, old-style Carolina tailback who is not very tall but an outstanding runner. He has great balance and great power ... He's a load. But he's not just a fullback-type. He's got quickness. He's got the ability to make people miss and he's got the power to run over you." ... Last year, Wilson added "He's a heck of a back ... He's a 240-pounder with sprinter's speed." ... Wake Forest head coach Bill Dooley said this in 1991: "He is an unbelievable tailback ... By gosh, it looked like the side of a mountain running up there ... Damn, that's the biggest human being I've ever seen and he can run."... Carolina head coach Mack Brown says: "He's faster than people think he is, he's got good vision, and he's got the ability to make just enough of a move that people try to tackle him and he bounces off because his legs are real strong." ... And Carolina offensive coordinator Darrell Moody says "he is as competitive as any player I have ever coached." ... Finally decided on a comfortable playing weight—230 or less ... Feels that will still allow him to be as physical, but add to his endurance.

Chancellor Paul Hardin

The son of a Methodist minister by birth and a lawyer by training, Paul Hardin III found his life's calling in education. After 24 years as a college and university president, he stands out as one of America's foremost leaders in higher education.

A Charlotte, N.C. native, Hardin is the seventh chancellor at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Hardin came to Carolina in July 1988 after 13 years as president of Drew University in Madison, N.J. He was president of Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, from 1972 to 1974 and president of Wofford College in Spartanburg, S.C., from 1968 to 1972. Except for brief periods of military service and law practice, he has been associated with college campuses continuously since entering Duke University at age 17.

In presenting Hardin one of his seven honorary degrees, Rider College called him "one of the finest college executives in these waning days of the 20th Century." The New Jersey school cited the Carolina leader's ability to generate "informed and sustained progress" at all of the institutions he has headed.

Since taking the helm during Carolina's Bicentennial era, Hardin has more than once reminded the University family that in the complex and highly competitive world of public higher education, the future belongs to schools that command it — not those waiting passively for it to happen.

To command the future, the chancellor believes Carolina must continue to honor its great tradition, build new partnerships, and remain passionately committed to the time-honored mission of vital teaching, cutting-edge research, and distinguished public service.

Hardin's personal goal is simple to state, harder to execute: to provide the leadership that keeps Carolina among the nation's finest public research universities in the 21st Century.

Key University leaders say Hardin is meeting that challenge by combining strong and thoughtful leadership with a refreshing sense of humor and a vigorous personal style.

Under Hardin, the Chapel Hill campus played a key role in persuading the 1991 North Carolina General Assembly to give more flexibility to campuses to manage budgets and people.

Meanwhile, Hardin was strengthening the University's own internal planning and budgeting processes. For an entire year, beginning in April 1990, the chancellor directed an intense review of the University's most critical long-range goals and how they could be reached. He headed a panel of faculty, students, and administrators that reviewed the proposals in June 1991. The resulting report, completed in May 1992, will guide the University's planning during its third century.

Hardin leads the University's efforts to establish and maintain strong relationships with outside individuals, groups, and organizations. He devotes a major portion of his time to helping the University raise private funds to ensure future excellence through the Bicentennial Campaign for Carolina. The campaign, with a goal of $320 million, is the largest in the University's history.

Further hallmarks of Hardin's tenure are efforts to improve undergraduate and graduate teaching, boost the faculty's ability to conduct research, and nurture outreach programs that make daily contributions to the lives of North Carolinians.

Students, faculty, and staff have noticed another of the chancellor's major interests: celebrating diversity on campus. Hardin frequently speaks out publicly about the importance of diversity and has put money behind his words, committing at least $100,000 in post-season sports revenue to carry out the recommendations of a panel that he commissioned to study community and diversity on campus.

Changing public education in the United States is high on the chancellor's national agenda. In 1991, Hardin joined a list of founding trustees of Educate America, a new organization based in Morristown, N.J., chaired by Thomas Kean, former governor of New Jersey.

The nonprofit, nonpartisan organization consults with state governments and education agencies on how to strengthen primary and secondary education in the United States.

Hardin also works to improve education at all levels as one of 25 national leaders in business, education, and government who serve on the Board of Trustees of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Hardin remains a leading national spokesman on some of the most important issues now facing higher education, including athletic reform, a career-long interest.

A charter member of the NCAA Presidents' Commission, Hardin has closely monitored recent reform proposals, including the highly publicized report from the Knight Foundation Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics. At the chancellor's request, the UNC Board of Trustees has endorsed the report, which called for firm institutional control of athletics and academic and financial integrity of college athletic programs.

Many of the Knight Commission reforms already were in practice in Chapel Hill. That was partly the result of the Carolina faculty's own call for local, conference, and national reforms in intercollegiate athletics in 1990.

Named one of the nation's 100 most effective university presidents in a 1986 study, Hardin has been a co-chairman of the Japan-U.S. Conference of University Presidents, as well as a member of the Board of Higher Education in New Jersey and of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities.

Hardin twice served as president of the National Association of Schools and Colleges of the United Methodist Church, and chaired the National Commission on United Methodist Higher Education.

He edited the law review and graduated first in his class. After two years in the U.S. Army, Hardin practiced law in Alabama before returning to Duke in 1958 to teach on the law school's faculty for a decade. He holds the rank of professor of law at Carolina.

In 1991, Hardin received the Duke Law Alumni Association's Charles S. Murphy Award for his lifelong dedication to public service through his commitment to education — by teaching law and serving in academic administration — and his leadership to civic and professional organizations.

Hardin serves as vice president of the Public Private Partnership and belongs to the Chapel Hill Rotary Club and the University United Methodist Church.

Hardin and his wife, Barbara, have three children: Paul Russell Hardin of Atlanta, Sandra Mikush of Winston-Salem, and Dorothy Holmes of Birmingham, Mich. His father, Bishop Paul Hardin Jr., lives in Asheville, and his mother is the late Dorothy Reel Hardin.

Director of Athletics

John Swofford

John Swofford is in his 13th year as director of athletics at the University of North Carolina with a national reputation as being one of the best administrators in intercollegiate sports.

Swofford, a 1971 Carolina graduate, heads a Tar Heel program which is one of the biggest in the South, fielding 26 varsity teams, and one of the finest in the nation in terms of success on and off the playing field.

In his 12 years as an athletic director, Swofford has seen Carolina teams win 76 Atlantic Coast Conference championships and 16 national collegiate titles.

In 1991-92, the Tar Heels won one national championship, set the ACC record with nine league crowns and had a winning record in every program.

Much of the credit for that success goes to Swofford. He has guided the UNC Athletic Department through a period of tremendous change which has left it both vastly different and vastly better than it was when he took its top job in 1980.

With Swofford in the lead, Carolina successfully completed a $34 million fund-raising drive to construct the Smith Center, a complex which includes a 21,572-seat basketball arena and top-flight collegiate natatorium. He was also the driving force behind the expansion of Kenan Stadium in 1988 and the building of a new press box there.

Swofford planned the construction of the Student-Athlete Development Center as an addition to Kenan Fieldhouse. That building, a one-of-a-kind facility, includes the most modern equipment to aid student-athletes in their studies and physical development.

A Morehead Scholar himself, Swofford has a special interest in the academic side of intercollegiate athletics. The academic center at Kenan is a prototype in its field. He has expanded the academic support staff to function better for the student-athletes who use its services.

Since Swofford became athletic director, a new tennis stadium and clubhouse have been built and an indoor tennis facility is currently in the works. Boshamer Stadium has been expanded and dressing rooms renovated for the baseball team; three new holes have been completed at Finley Golf Course; the football practice fields have been reconstructed and lighted; a new Astroturf playing field has been installed; a new track has been put down at Fetzer Field and the stadium there renovated; and the department has been computerized.

Nationally, Swofford was appointed to the NCAA Football Television Committee in 1982 and was named its chairman in 1984. A past chairman of the NCAA Communications Committee, he also is past chair of the NCAA Special Events/Post-Season Bowl Committee. He currently serves as chairman of the ACC Television Committee and is first vice-president of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics.

These accomplishments have not gone unnoticed. In a 1986 Arizona Republic poll of athletic personnel across the country, Swofford was chosen one of the top three athletic directors in the nation. He has elected to turn down several other prominent athletic director positions, as well as inquiries regarding being a conference commissioner, to remain in Chapel Hill.

In May 1991, Swofford was honored with the North Carolina Scholastic Sports Unsung Hero Award for his strong support of high school sports in the Tar Heel state. Swofford was cited for his strong leadership at Carolina, for lending unprecedented access to campus facilities for prep championships and for being a leader in keeping ACC basketball games off television on Tuesday and Friday nights. Those evenings are filled with high school basketball games and Swofford was in the forefront of avoiding conflicts with those contests.

A native of North Wilkesboro, N.C., Swofford was a two-time all-state football player and a three-sport star at Wilkes Central High School. An honor student in high school, he majored in psychology and industrial relations at Carolina.

Swofford played quarterback and defensive back on Tar Heel football teams in 1969, 1970 and 1971. The 1970 team went to the Peach Bowl and the 1971 squad won the Atlantic Coast Confernce championship and participated in the Gator Bowl. He tied a then-school record against Vanderbilt in 1969 by throwing three touchdown passes in one game.

He was named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll and Who's Who in College Athletics. He also served as president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes on campus.

In 1973, he earned a master's in athletic administration at Ohio University, which is often called the "Harvard" of sports management programs.

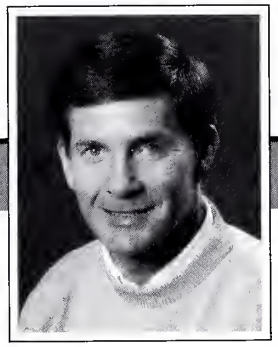
From 1973 to 1976, he was athletic ticket manager and assistant to the director of athletic facilities at the University of Virginia. He returned to Carolina in May 1976 as assistant athletic director and business manager, handling all the athletic department's business affairs.

Although he remained assistant athletic director, Swofford dropped the business manager title and was named assistant executive vice-president of the Educational Foundation in January 1979. He then replaced Bill Cobey as athletic director on May 1, 1980.

Swofford is a member of the executive committee of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics and is on the alumni advisory board for the Ohio University Sports Administration program. He received the Distinguished Alumni Award from Ohio University in 1984. He has been inducted into the Order of the Golden Fleece, Carolina's highest honorary society.

In 1989, Swofford became the first athletic director ever added to the Chancellor's Administrative Council at Carolina. He was on the board of directors for North Carolina Amateur Sports which brought the 1987 Olympic Festival to the Research Triangle area.

A regular jogger, Swofford enjoys reading, golf and tennis. He is married to the former Becky Owens of North Wilkesboro. They have two children, Autumn and Chad.



Head Coach

Mack Brown

Five years ago when the University of North Carolina went in search of a new man to lead the football program back to its winning ways of the previous 20 years, the committee did so with a few factors solidly heading the agenda.

It wanted a person who would inject enthusiasm and emotion back into the program; it wanted a man to bring exciting fall Saturdays back to Kenan Stadium; it desired a coach who would accept the pressures of an attentive media and spectator following; it wanted a man who could relate to the needs and problems of the up-and-coming student-athletes; it went looking for a coach who knew the importance of the student in the student-athlete; it was seeking a coach who would once again keep the best of the Tar Heel state's high school football players at home; and finally, it wanted a coach who would once again have the Tar Heels challenging for the top of the Atlantic Coast Conference leaderboard.

One name that the committee found which seemed to fit all the above qualifications and more was then 36-year-old Mack Brown.

Brown became the Carolina coach on December 15, 1987. His selection to replace Dick Crum was made by Athletic Director John Swofford and approved by Chancellor Christopher Fordham.

In announcing the choice of Brown to head the Tar Heel program, Swofford said, "We wanted a man of integrity, a leader and a motivator with a passion for college football and someone with an entertaining offense."

In the past four-plus years, Brown and the staff he has constructed at Carolina have done much to live up to the qualities set down by the members of that 1987 search committee.

The Tar Heels have, after an initial two-year on-field struggle, won 13 games and tied one over the last two seasons. The Carolina players are graduating at a laudable rate and are representing the University on the academic as well as athletic all-star teams. The Tar Heels are again bringing in the finest talent produced by the high schools in the state of North Carolina. And Carolina football is once again an exciting prospect and on the minds of the media and fans following the Blue and White.

This rejuvenation has not been easy, nor has it been done without a few falls along the way. Two consecutive 1-10 seasons greeted Brown's Chapel Hill arrival, but the young head coach did not quit and did nothing to quell the enthusiasm building around the Tar Heel football program.

"From a won-loss standpoint we went through some tough times in the first few years and not once did Mack ever let down in his positive approach in terms of his players or any people surrounding the program," says Swofford.

"He has a unique ability to remain positive, to keep people united and headed in a forward direction. And I think he handled that remarkably well. Consequently, I think people very much want Mack Brown to succeed. And I think that's important when you're rebuilding. We did not have a program in great shape to hand him when he arrived and he has gone about rebuilding in a very positive way with a very strong foundation that I think will be lasting."

Now Carolina heads into 1992 with two consecutive winning seasons and most expectations place the Tar Heels in the upper division of the ACC. More than 40 lettermen return from a year ago including 13 starters and four all-conference stars.

Outgoing and personable, Brown has been a hit with students and fans alike. He's honest and forthright in his dealings with his players and has proven to be an outstanding recruiter in his time here.

Brown has tremendous communication skills and mixes well with people from all walks of life. He genuinely likes to be around all types of people and makes himself available to students, faculty, alumni, fans and media. He is regarded by the press as the most accessible coach in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Last year, the Tar Heels tied Florida State for the conference school with the most players selected in the National Football League draft. Six Carolina players were chosen by the NFL including third round selection Brian Bollinger and fourth round picks Dwight Hollier and Roy Barker. Two players signed as free agents and another was a first-round selection in the Canadian Football League draft bringing a total of nine professional opportunities. Six former Carolina players who toiled for Brown were on NFL rosters a year ago.

Academic success and responsibility has also been a trademark of Brown's tenure at Carolina. In 1991, three Tar Heels were named to the Academic All-ACC Team bringing the four-year total to 21 players, more than any team in the conference. All 17 seniors graduated last year and the University received CFA's honorable mention award again for football graduation rates. It is a mandate directed by the head coach down through the entire football program that academics receive the utmost of attention and respect.

"Coach Brown and his staff always put meeting the academic standards at Carolina first and foremost," says Academic All-ACC place-kicker Clint Gwaltney.

"Coach Brown says academics first and football second, and when he says that, he really means just that. He stresses that you go to class, makes sure we have the finest academic advisors in the country and makes sure we place academics before football. That shows a lot about his integrity."

Another of those persons who happen to believe in the Mack Brown program is Swofford.

"In his first four years here he has laid a foundation that gives us an opportunity to move into the upper echelon of the ACC," Swofford says. "We felt that when he was hired he was an excellent fit for this University and I don't think there is any question that has proven to be the case. He has done a tremendous job of uniting our constituencies.

"He has a done a tremendous job of recruiting, especially in-state. One of the things we really wanted to focus on with Mack coming into the program was reestablish ourselves with the North Carolina high schools and with recruiting North Carolina football players. His success in that has been remarkable. Historically, when we have had success in our football, our teams have been made up of North Carolina players.

"Mack is an extremely personable individual and I think that has helped our program a great deal because of his ability to relate with all of our constituencies, starting with our football players. We thought when we hired Mack that he was a players' coach and that has become very obvious that that is what he is first and foremost. On top of that, he's as good with the biggest contributor as he with our youngest fans. He's tremendously effective with all kinds of people and that's hard to truly measure in terms of what it means to our University, its athletic program and its football team. He has made so many friends for our University and our football program."

Brown came to Carolina from Tulane where he rejuvenated the Green Wave's sagging football fortunes in just three years, taking his team to only its fifth bowl game since 1940 in his final season.

However, Brown may be best known for helping develop some of the most explosive offenses in college football. As an offensive coordinator and assistant, he directed record-setting attacks at Oklahoma, LSU and Iowa State.

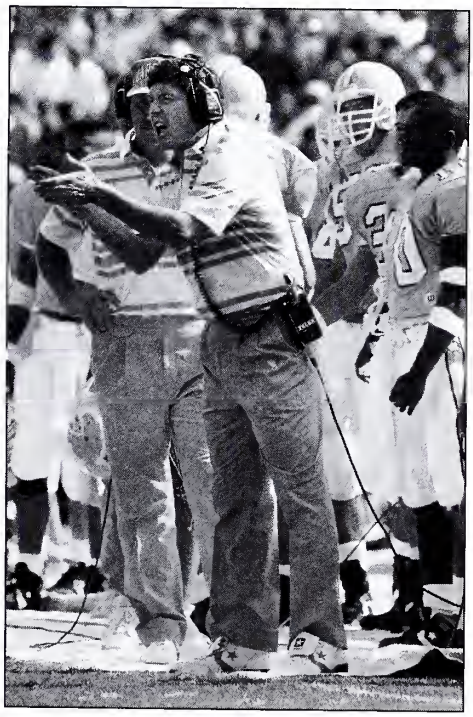
Brown says he has three goals for the student-athletes who play for him.

"The number one thing is for each young person to get his degree. We also want them to do the best they can academically to prepare themselves for later life.

"The second thing is that we want to win. And last, but certainly not least, we want the young people to have fun."

Brown's last Tulane team certainly had fun in 1987, in completing one of the fastest turnarounds in the country. Brown went to Tulane on December 16, 1984 as head coach and was also appointed the school's athletic director the following April. The Green Wave had suffered three straight losing seasons before Brown's arrival in New Orleans and went 1-10 and 4-7 in his first two years on the job.

However, Tulane then posted a 6-5 record, earning a spot opposite Washington in the Independence Bowl. In the process, the Green Wave set school record for total offense and points. Tulane ranked 11th in the nation in scoring, averaging 32.5 points a game. Wide receiver Marc Zeno won first-team All-America honors and quarterback Terrence Jones was fourth nationally in total offense and 10th in passing.



In his first head coaching job at Appalachian, he directed the Mountaineers to a 6-5 record in 1983 at the age of 32. He went to Oklahoma the following season as offensive coordinator.

In his year on Barry Switzer's staff, the Sooners averaged 325.8 yards a game in total offense in compiling a 9-2-1 record, won the Big Eight Championship and earned a berth in the Orange Bowl. Brown helped Oklahoma develop its best passing attack in years to go along with its always potent option-oriented running game. His success there helped lead to the Tulane job.

"Mack is an extremely personable individual and I think that has helped our program a great deal because of his ability to relate with all of our constituencies, starting with our football players. We thought when we hired Mack that he was a players' coach and that has become very obvious that that is what he is first and foremost."

Athletic Director John Swofford

Prior to taking the head coach's position at Appalachian, Brown had run the offense at LSU in 1982. The Tigers went 8-2-1 and played in the Orange Bowl. The "Mack Attack" was the second-most improved offense in the nation that fall, averaging over 400 yards a game.

While at Iowa State, from 1979 to 1981, Brown served as receivers coach for one year and as offensive coordinator for the last two seasons. In his time as offensive coordinator the Cyclones broke 17 school and Big Eight Conference records and produced league leaders in rushing and total offense.

Brown began his full-time coaching career at Southern Mississippi in 1974, working with receivers for four seasons, and then spent one year coaching that same position at Memphis State.

A native of Cookeville, Tenn., Brown attended Vanderbilt and Florida State. He lettered twice as a running back for the Seminoles in 1971 and 1972. He finished work on his bachelor's degree in education at FSU in 1974. While there, he worked on a part-time basis, coaching receivers and the junior varsity. He received his master's degree in administration from Southern Mississippi in 1976.

Brown had been a three-sports star at Putnam County High School, lettering three times in football. He won all-state and All-America honors and was selected one of the nation's top 100 running backs by Scholastic Magazine in 1968. He was class president and a Who's Who in America choice.

Brown, who was born on August 27, 1951, is father to two daughters, Katherine Jane (15) and Barbara Ellen (12).

EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATION

What is the Educational Foundation? The Educational Foundation is the oldest foundation on the UNC campus and holds a status comparable to the Business Foundation, the Medical Foundation and other fund-raising organizations working for the benefit of the University.

What is the purpose of the Educational Foundation? The Educational Foundation was established to offer financial aid to worthy student-athletes seeking an education at the University of North Carolina and to support the University's athletic program by providing services and funds for the construction of facilities or purchase of equipment.

How much support does the Educational Foundation actually provide? Since its founding in 1938, the Educational Foundation has provided scholarships, either partial or full, to over 6,000 student-athletes. Nearly 400 will be awarded scholarships during the 1992-93 school year at a cost of approximately $3 million.

Is the Educational Foundation similar to a booster club? Absolutely not. It is a foundation in every sense of the word. The Educational Foundation operates in compliance with all rules and regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference. It is a tax-exempt entity as recognized by the Internal Revenue Service.

What are the different levels of giving to the Educational Foundation?

Little Ram ($50) — Contributions of any amount are welcome, however, individuals contributing $50 or more have the opportunity to purchase season football tickets, gain access to the Rams Room in Kenan Fieldhouse for home football games, purchase mini-season basketball ticket packages when available and participate in the ticket exchange, purchase group travel packages, receive football and basketball media guides, basketball team calendars upon request, the RamPage Newsletter, car window decals and invitations to annual Foundation functions which feature Carolina coaches as guest speakers.

Ram ($150) — In addition to that above, a Little Ram donor has the opportunity to purchase four season football tickets, the location of which is subject to the point system.

Rameses ($300) — In addition to the benefits received at the Little Ram level, a Rameses donor has the opportunity to purchase two season football tickets in a selected location; additional tickets may be purchased, the location of which is subject to the point system.

Big Ram ($600) — In addition to the benefits received at the Little Ram level, a Big Ram donor has the opportunity to purchase four season football tickets in a selected location and receive an assigned parking space.

Super Ram ($1,200) — In addition to the benefits received at the Little Ram level, a Super Ram donor has the opportunity to purchase up to eight season football tickets in a selected location and receive an assigned parking space.

Can a donor contribute in ways other than through the annual giving program? Yes. Carolina was one of the first schools in the nation to set up an endowment program for athletics. This program consists of $15,000 and $30,000 life memberships as well as $40,000 and $75,000 endowed scholarships which may be set up through various giving vehicles.

Does the Foundation have chapters at the local level? There are currently 40 local Educational Foundation chapters which meet once a year. Many of the coaches attend these gatherings, giving donors an early opportunity to hear about recruiting, prospects for the upcoming season and schedules.

Who provides the leadership for the Educational Foundation? The Foundation's outside officers include a Chairman, three Vice-Chairmen, a Secretary, Treasurer, Counsel and Past Chairman. These officers, together with the at-large members and an Investment Committee, comprise the Executive Committee. The Executive Committee is the decision-making body of the Educational Foundation and reports its actions to the Board of Directors.

The leadership within the Foundation office is provided by Moyer G. Smith. He is in his sixth year as President. He was appointed to the position in December 1986, replacing Ernie Williamson. There are also three vice-presidents within the office: John D. Cherry, V.P. for Administration; Neal B. Harrell, V.P. for Donor Services; and Sue Walsh Stankavage, V.P. for Operations. Effective August 1992, Ernie Williamson retired as V.P. for Endowment but will continue to serve as a consultant to the Foundation.

Where are the Educational Foundation offices located? The offices are located in the Maurice J. Koury Natatorium adjacent to the Dean E. Smith Center.

How can one become a contributor to the Educational Foundation? By contacting the Educational Foundation at (919) 962-2393 or by writing P.O. Box 2446, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27515.

KENAN MEMORIAL STADIUM

Nestled among the tall pine trees near the center of the Carolina campus is Kenan Stadium. It is here in this natural valley that Tar Heel football teams have played for 65 years.

Kenan Stadium is generally regarded as one of the most beautiful football venues in the nation. Considering its majestic setting among the Carolina pines, many say it is the most beautiful.

One national sports magazine rated Kenan one of the five best places in America to watch a college football game. For scenery, atmosphere and charm, it can not be surpassed.

The stadium has been expanded several times since its completion in 1927. In each instance, though, great care was taken to keep its fundamental beauty intact.

The most recent expansion took place prior to 1988 and involved adding 2,000 choice seats between the 40-yard lines where the press box and chancellor's box formerly stood.

A new press box was constructed on top of the upper deck on the stadium's south side. It is a one-level elongated structure, running from 10-yard line to 10-yard line. It is one of the finest facilities of its kind in the nation.

Also part of the project were a permanent lighting system, a chancellor's lounge on the north side of the field and a football lettermen's lounge on the south side. The lights are a General Electric low-mount system which minimizes the height of the lightpoles. A similar system is used at Soldier Field, home of the Chicago Bears.

Cost of the entire project was $7 million. It was funded by private gifts and bonds.

"Kenan Stadium is aesthetically a very special sports arena and a great deal of thought was given to these improvements," says Athletic Director John Swofford. "Their aim is to maintain and even enhance the beauty of the stadium."

William Rand Kenan Jr. deserves the credit for originally making the stadium a part of the University. He was born in North Carolina in 1873 and graduated from Carolina in 1894. An international industrialist, Kenan discovered carbide and made monumental progress in the field of chemistry. The stadium was built as a memorial to his parents, William R. Kenan and Mary Hargrave Kenan. Construction began in November 1926 and was completed the following August. Complete cost of the stadium and accompanying fieldhouse was $303,000.

Originally, the stadium was to be built through funds raised by alumni donations and by June 1926, a group of nearly 40 alumni had contributed $27,926. At this time, however, a copy of the prospectus and plan of financing the stadium came into the hands of Mr. Kenan who expressed an interest in the proposal. Kenan was considering establishing a memorial to his parents and the pressing needs for a stadium and the possibilities of the beauty, dignity and permanence it presented, suggested to him that the benefaction he contemplated may well take the form of a memorial stadium. The Stadium Committee immediately endorsed his proposal and on the very day in November 1926 on which Kenan visited the planned site, he announced his financial gift to build the stadium. Besides giving the stadium to the University, Mr. Kenan also sponsored and financed the famous Kenan Professorships. He was awarded the honorary degree of LL.D. by his alma mater in 1944.

In the first game played there, Carolina defeated Davidson, 27-0, on November 12, 1927.

Carolina's all-time record at Kenan Stadium is 198-126-16. The most points scored by the Tar Heels in Kenan came in the third game played there as Carolina whipped Wake Forest, 65-0, in the 1928 season opener.

> "Those who have designed and built this structure have had a high sense of the fitness of things. Its location is more than merely suitable; it is well nigh perfect. It would be so anywhere, but it is peculiarly so in Chapel Hill, fitting as it does in the essential spirit of the University community. For the stadium rests, not in the midst of streets and buildings and people and things, but in the heart of the hills and trees. It is completely surrounded by nature herself; and man-made though it is, it fits into, and becomes a part of the surroundings. It belongs to the hills and the woodland, and curiously enough they seem to belong to it."

As originally built, the stadium seated 24,000. However, in later years the benefactor added portable stands and then an upper deck to the permanent stands, which increased capacity to 48,000. That was expanded to 50,000 a few years ago and then to 52,000 in 1988.

After the 1976 season, Kenan Fieldhouse underwent a massive renovation. The building was expanded to 30,000 square feet of dressing rooms, coaches' offices, lounges, meeting rooms, weight-training quarters and other facilities. The players' lockerroom was renovated again 1988.

The Student-Athlete Development Center was added to the fieldhouse in 1986. A 20,000 square foot building, it is a one-of-a-kind facility.

For study purposes, it contains a language lab, video room, computer lab, theatre-style lecture hall, several reading rooms and numerous tutorial rooms. Carolina's academic counseling staff has the advantage of using the most modern techniques in helping student-athletes with their studies.

The bottom half of the building encompasses one of the most complete strength fitness centers in the country. Workout rooms and performance labs contain the most current apparatus available.

The 1983 season saw another first in the stadium — a game played under artificial lights. The Carolina-Duke game was played in the late afternoon so it could be televised throughout the Atlantic Coast Conference area. Portable lights were brought in since the second half was played after sunset. Portable lights were also used in the 1987 Clemson game which was nationally televised by ESPN.

The 1991 season opener versus Cincinnati and the November 9 game against Clemson which was televised nationally by ESPN were the first true night games ever played at Kenan Stadium.

ACADEMIC SUPPORT SYSTEM

At the University of North Carolina, athletes are still first and foremost students. While most universities make that claim, Carolina can prove it.

In October 1986, North Carolina opened its doors to its new Student-Athlete Development Center, located at the east end of Kenan Stadium, adjacent to Kenan Fieldhouse. The Center is a 10,000 square-foot state-of-the-art academic facility that sets the standard for other universities to follow.

"The Department of Athletics has always been committed to academics," says John Blanchard, director of athletic academic affairs. "But they felt they needed to make a tangible sign of their commitment by putting in a building that could really serve the students, and they went about doing it in a first-class manner. They erected the best building of its kind in the country."

Brian Davis, the Athletic Academic Coordinator, and John Blanchard, the Director of Athletic Academic Affairs, stand with a trio of Tar Heels who were named to the 1991 All-ACC Academic Football Team: linebacker Dwight Hollier, place-kicker Clint Gwaltney and offensive guard Brian Bollinger.

The academic center boasts an impressive array of facilities for the benefit of all Tar Heel athletes in the 26-sport program. Included in the building, convenient to dorms and classrooms alike, are 20 computers, several study rooms, a language lab with tape players, seven tutorial rooms, a large classroom which can be divided into two smaller ones and a 128-seat auditorium, used for seminars and lectures.

Last year, the Center added 10 new Macintosh computers and two laser printers as well as a variety of software packages which include word processing programs, spreadsheets and tutorials. The Center has now has the latest and most up-to-date computer systems in place.

Also, Blanchard has assembled an enthusiastic and highly competent staff which includes Brian Davis, the primary academic advisor for the football team, Jan Boxill, Kathy Jarvis, Janice Hilliard and Joyce Goodwin.

"The academic success of student-athletes is most directly attributed to the students themselves, but we have an outstanding staff, dedicated and professional and very caring individuals.

"When students struggle in college," says Blanchard, "95 percent of the time that struggle is in their freshman year, and that's due to all the adjustments they need to make. We have a program and staff that aids in those adjustments and minimizes the struggle.

"It involves getting our students fully acquainted with the University and the resources available to them. They learn about what we have to offer, the University advisory system, the University processes and procedures — everything that's available to them academically."

To try and ensure that athletes will not run into early academic difficulty, Blanchard and his able staff teach the freshmen necessary study skills, such as note taking and time management, and all freshman football players are required to attend study hall every night Sunday through Thursday at the Center. On those nights, tutors are available to assist the student-athletes in a variety of subjects. Also, a Freshman Academic Success seminar is held weekly in the fall and is required of all freshman athletes.

The Center is open from 8 a.m. to midnight during the week and from 6 p.m. to midnight on Sundays. During those hours, the facility is in almost constant use.

"Our students make great use of it," says Blanchard. "They use it for a variety of purposes and they use it throughout the day." Blanchard estimates that in any given week, that at least half of the University's 650 athletes use the Center.

The statistics bear out the fact that the Center has made an impact. In five of the last six years, the Tar Heels have received honorable mention recognition from the College Football Association for graduating at least 70 percent of its football players. The CFA uses a five-year period from matriculation to graduation to base its awards.

In the last four years, Carolina has placed 21 players on the Atlantic Coast Conference All-Academic Team, more than any other school in the league. The Carolina football team has doubled the number of players named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll in the last six years. And last year, tailback Randy Jordan earned an award for academic and athletic excellence from the National Association for Academic Advisors for Athletes.

Blanchard emphasizes that the Student-Athlete Development Center is only "one concrete way in which things have become better. The Department of Athletics also inititiated moving the academic support program out of the Department of Athletics administratively, and into the College of Arts and Sciences. That has put us under the supervision of the University, which has been a very positive move."

Under Mack Brown, the football program has renewed its resolve to to provide the best education possible for its students.

"The football program is in a position now where we are really doing things to maximize the academic opportunities here," says Blanchard.

"Coach Brown has been very supportive and creative in developing academic standards for the team, and pressing the players to reach those standards. That's been very helpful to us as a program."

ATHLETIC FITNESS

As athletic strength director at the University of North Carolina, Rich Tuten's primary job is to make believers out of a group of young men.

"The players have got to believe in your program," says Tuten, who is charged with running the strength and conditioning regimen for the Tar Heels. "They have got to know that if they follow the program, they'll eventually achieve their goals."

And Tuten is fortunate to have a first-class facility to help him in this endeavor. In 1986, an 8,000 square-foot weight room was created as part of the Kenan Fieldhouse expansion project. The strength and conditioning area contains a complete set of Nautilus equipment, cardiovascular machines and over 20,000 pounds of free weight equipment.

"We have the facilities to do what we need to do," says Tuten, who came to Carolina in June of 1988 after spending eight years as the strength coach at the University of Florida. Since his arrival, Tuten has obtained over 11,000 pounds of free weight equipment for the University.

While at Florida, Tuten experimented with Nautilus, but found he prefers the free weights, and has instituted a training program for the football squad that relies almost solely on them.

"The nautilus machines were a good program," explains Tuten, "but what I found is that while it helped me increase my strength and endurance, it was very mentally fatiguing. It got to the point that I wasn't looking forward to my next workout. Strength training should be an enjoyable part of your career in college football."

Towards that end, Tuten has instituted a program that has already been an enormous success. Typically, he explains, a team hopes to maintain 90 percent of its strength level during rigorous spring workouts. The past four springs, however, the Tar Heels have actually increased their overall strength.

Tuten has implemented a computer program at Carolina to aid in the process. Each player is given his own personal strength chart to follow.

"On the computer, we save information on every player," says Tuten. "We can tell the computer exactly what we want to do — the intensity we want to work with, the number of sets and reps we want to work with and how heavy we want those sets and reps. Once the printout is down, it's very simple for the player to follow.

"Everything is mapped out for them. There's no guesswork involved. The computer prints out how much their poundage is — how much they should be able to do based upon their level of strength."

Football players operate on a four-day split program. On Mondays and Thursdays, the athletes concentrate on the chest, shoulders and triceps. On Tuesdays and Fridays, they work on the back, biceps and legs. Essentially, every member of the football squad goes through the same program, although there are some individual varieties, as well. Ultimately though, every member of the team is treated the same.

"We treat everyone as a starter," says Tuten. "We feel every player is important, whether he's first-team or fifth-team. A fifth-team player is very important for practice, and hopefully down the line he will have worked himself up to playing. We need to get him strong and well-conditioned so he can assist the team in practice. If you practice against a weak link, then you are not well prepared for the competition that's coming."

There now is a sense of excitement, enthusiasm and dedication in the Tar Heel workout room. As Tuten puts it, "We have a very intelligent team and more players are getting involved with the finer points of the program, instead of just coming in to lift and leave. We bring them in and show them their program on the computer. The more the players trust the program and see the results, the more they'll get into it."

Defensive tackle Austin Robbins (98) was the recipient of the Morris Mason Award for the Most Outstanding Off-Season Performer. Robbins can bench press 540 pounds, more than any player on the team.

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is one of the nation's leading teaching and research universities and part of the 16-campus University of North Carolina. Carolina has earned that reputation through its continuing commitment to vital teaching, cutting-edge research and distinguished public service.

Guided by William Richardson Davie of Halifax, the North Carolina General Assembly voted to charter the university in 1789. Four years later, on October 12, the University laid the cornerstone for Old East, the first building on campus. With only one building and two professors, the University became the first state university in the nation to open its doors to students when Hinton James of Wilmington arrived on Feb. 12, 1795. Chapel Hill was the only public institution in the United States to award degrees in the 18th century.

Now Carolina is among the most comprehensive institutions in the nation and belongs to the select group of 59 major universities that form the American Association of Universities. UNC's 14 colleges and schools provide instruction in more than 100 fields, offering 66 bachelor's, 90 master's, and 62 doctoral degrees, as well as professional degrees in dentistry, medicine, pharmacy and law. Carolina is one of the few national universities with five health schools on the same campus as academic affairs schools and departments.

A new study has documented the University's vast economic impact on the state. For every dollar invested in the University, it returned three dollars to the state economy, the study found. In fiscal 1991, the state paid $257.2 million to UNC, while the University returned at least $766.9 million in new sales in the private sector. The University also generated $236 million in earnings for state workers and their families and created jobs for more than 12,600 people — all in addition to UNC's $347 million payroll and 9,536 employees.

In 1991, U.S. News and World Report ranked Carolina fifth overall among public institutions and 25th among all national universities. The magazine's 1992 survey of graduate programs ranked Carolina's sociology program fifth in the nation, its history program 13th, its political science program 14th, and the Kenan-Flagler Business School 17th. The same poll placed the School of Medicine's rural medicine program third, its community medicine program second and the school itself fourth among "up and comers" for promising curriculum innovations.

According to the 1989 book, "The Insider's Guide to the Top 25 Colleges," Carolina is the country's top public institution, ahead of the University of Virginia and the University of California at Berkeley. Overall, the book ranked UNC 12th. Also in 1989, the University was second in Sports Travel magazine's list of the country's top 10 athletic-academic programs.

Several leading publications call Carolina one of the country's top high-quality, low-cost universities. U.S. News and World Report named UNC America's "best buy" among national universities in 1991. Money magazine's 1990 poll picked Carolina as the nation's eighth best educational bargain. In 1986, Richard Moll, author of "The Public Ivys: A Guide to America's Best Colleges and Universities," said UNC was one of eight public institutions equivalent to a traditional Ivy League school. He also judged Chapel Hill to be "the perfect college town."

The Old Well is the University's most recognizable historical landmark. It was given to the University in 1897 at the suggestion of UNC's President Edwin Alderman.

Each fall, the beautiful Chapel Hill campus attracts more than 23,000 students from all North Carolina counties, the 50 states, and more than 80 foreign countries. In 1990-91, 5,704 students earned Chapel Hill degrees. Carolina has produced 31 Rhodes Scholar winners, the third highest number among U.S. public universities and ranks 12th among all colleges and universities.

Carolina's students study under a full-time faculty of more than 2,100. UNC faculty continue to receive international and national recognition. They attract top-notch undergraduate and graduate students, win research grants and contracts, and contribute to the University's reputation. The most recent comprehensive evaluation published by the National Academy Press rated the UNC faculty tops in the Southeast and one of the nation's best.

UNC is internationally recognized for cutting-edge research, some of which occurs at 36 interdisciplinary centers and institutes. Carolina received $173 million in research awards in 1990-91 and ranks among the top 25 U.S. schools in that area. Current projects include pioneering work in virtual worlds research, which uses sophisticated computer technology to create realistic but imaginary worlds.

Public service has a long and distinguished history in Chapel Hill. The University invests a larger proportion of its budget in direct service to the state than any of the other leading public research institutions. Best-known examples include the Institute of Government, the Area Health Education Centers and the growing contribution of continuing education programs to the state's social and professional development.

The University has trained many of the state's leaders, including nearly half of its governors as well as national figures in virtually every field. Alumni include a U.S. president — James K. Polk — as well as author Thomas Wolfe, journalist Charles Kuralt, the late Sam Ervin Jr., pollster Lou Harris, civil rights leader Julius Chambers, cartoonist Jeff MacNelly, athletes Michael Jordan and Lawrence Taylor and fashion designer Alexander Julian. The University's more than 188,000 living alumni reside in all 50 states and 125 foreign countries. More than half live in North Carolina.

Now in the midst of its Bicentennial season, the University is preparing for the future and recognizing the birth of public higher education in America.

The Bicentennial Campaign for Carolina, kicked off publicly in October 1991, is the largest fund-raising effort in the University's history. It will provide new resources to strengthen Carolina's ability to teach, to learn and to serve. Campaign priorities include support for students, faculty, undergraduate programs, the libraries, campus life, and facilities. The campaign, which has a $320 million goal, will conclude in 1995.

A separate Bicentennial Observance will commemorate the University's 200th anniversary and examine its history and traditions, its present position as a leading national university, and its future role in higher education and the state. Plans for the eight-month Observance, scheduled from Oct. 12, 1993, until May 8, 1994, include a variety of public events. The observance is designed to underscore the historic relationship between the University and the state and strengthen those bonds.

Both the campaign and the observance offer occasions to honor Carolina's rich history and great traditions. However, the University also will use its past to form a vision of a better future, one that will serve the state, nation, and world with excellence and distinction for a third century and beyond.

1991 Season Review

1991 REVIEW NOTEBOOK

✍ The Tar Heels posted an overall record of 7-4 and recorded consecutive winning seasons for the first time since 1982-83.

✍ Carolina placed seven players on the All-Atlantic Coast Conference Team including three first-team selections. The seven players overall were the most selected for UNC since 1983. Tailback Natrone Means, inside linebacker Tommy Thigpen and offensive guard Brian Bollinger were each named to the All-ACC first team, while wide receiver Corey Holliday, outside linebacker Eric Gash, punter Scott McAlister and defensive back Tommy Smith each were second-team selections.

✍ Tommy Thigpen's selection to the All-Atlantic Coast Conference first team marked the 16th time in 21 years a Tar Heel linebacker has earned first-team honors.

✍ Four Tar Heels were invited to play in post-season all-star games including Dwight Hollier (Senior Bowl and Japan Bowl), Brian Bollinger (Blue-Gray and Senior Bowl), Roy Barker (Blue-Gray and Hula Bowl), and Andrew Oberg (Blue-Gray). In addition, Mack Brown was an assistant coach at the Hula Bowl.

✍ The Tar Heels placed three players on the Atlantic Coast Conference All-Academic Team. Brian Bollinger was named to the team for the first time, while Dwight Hollier was named to the squad for the second consecutive season and Clint Gwaltney earned that distinction for the third straight year.

✍ North Carolina's 529 yards in total offense against Duke were the most by the Tar Heels in an ACC game since the 1987 Georgia Tech game when UNC totaled 578 yards. Carolina amassed 351 yards on the ground and 178 in the air despite attempting just one pass in the final quarter in the 47-14 win.

✍ North Carolina quarterbacks completed 163 of 271 passes for a completion percentage of .601. That is the second-highest percentage in school history. The only other UNC team with a percentage above .600 was the record-setting team in 1974 which completed 67.8 percent.

✍ North Carolina's defense allowed just 3,491 yards, the fewest since 1983. The Tar Heels limited Maryland to only 131 total yards, the fewest since Memphis State totaled just 105 yards in 1984. It was the fewest by an ACC opponent since N.C. State had 102 in 1982.

✍ Carolina's 24-0 shutout of Maryland was the first ACC shutout for the Tar Heels since a 41-0 win over Georgia Tech in 1982.

✍ Carolina blocked three punts in 1991: Sean Crocker blocked one for a touchdown vs. Cincinnati, Lawrence Winslow blocked one at Virginia and Bracey Walker blocked one against Clemson. The Tar Heels have blocked at least one punt for three consecutive seasons.

✍ Twenty-two of the Tar Heels' 33 touchdown drives were at least 60 yards in length and on 25 of the 33 drives, the Tar Heels marched at least 50 yards. Carolina's other three TDs came on a blocked punt, kickoff return and punt return.

✍ The Tar Heels scored 59 points vs. William & Mary, 51 vs. Cincinnati and 47 vs. Duke; the last time Carolina scored more than 50 points in a season on two occasions was 1981 when it totaled 56 in wins against East Carolina and Boston College. That team was also the last one prior to 1991 in which UNC scored at least 45 points in three games.

✍ Carolina matched an NCAA record when it completed each of the 11 passes it attempted in the win against William & Mary. Chuckie Burnette was eight-for-eight, Mike Thomas one-for-one and Todd Burnett was two-for-two in the Tar Heels' 59-36 win.

✍ The Tar Heels sold 30,242 season tickets, the most-ever in Carolina history and the maximum number possible due to student and opponent ticket allotments.

✍ Prior to 1991 Carolina had never hosted a true night game at Kenan Stadium, but the Tar Heels did play a 7 p.m. season opener vs. Cincinnati and had a 7:30 p.m. start against Clemson in an ESPN nationally televised game.

✍ Sophomore tailback Natrone Means rushed for 1,030 yards and became the 11th different Tar Heel to top the 1,000-yard mark. Means' 1,000-yard season was the 20th in Carolina history, an NCAA record.

✍ Natrone Means led the Atlantic Coast Conference in rushing with 103.0 yards per game. It was the 11th season in which a Tar Heel has topped the league in rushing and Means is the eighth different Tar Heel player to finish atop the league leaders.

✍ Natrone Means and Virginia tailback Terry Kirby were the only two players in the league to finish in the top 15 in the ACC in rushing, receiving and scoring.

✍ Natrone Means completed the season with 134 career points, which is more than any Tar Heel player has ever accumulated after his sophomore season. Means also has totaled 1,879 yards rushing. Amos Lawrence (2,254) is the only Tar Heel to have ever rushed for more yards going into his junior season.

✍ Randy Jordan rushed for another 618 yards and finished seventh in the ACC with 56.2 yards per game. Jordan's 618 yards are the most by a Tar Heels' second-leading runner since 1983 when both Ethan Horton and Tyrone Anthony were over 1,000 yards. Horton had 1,107 and Anthony 1,063.

✍ Senior Eric Blount became one of the most prolific return men in college football history. Blount finished his career as the NCAA's second-leading all-time kick returner with 3,033 yards on kickoff and punt returns. Only Utah's Steve Odom (3,130) has more combined yards than Blount.

✍ Eric Blount established ACC records in combined kick return yards, kickoff returns and kickoff return yardage. Blount's 3,033 combined kick return yards broke Duke's Troy Slade's record of 2,778 yards. Blount's 97 returns topped Slade's 83 returns and his 2,313 kickoff return yards bested N.C. State's Ralph Stringer's record of 1,988 yards. Blount also set a UNC single-season mark for kickoff return yards with 679. Those 679 yards came on 25 returns for an average of 27.2 yards a clip, the third-highest mark in school annals.

✍ Eric Blount became the second Tar Heel and only the fifth player in NCAA history to return both a kickoff and punt for touchdowns in the same game. Blount brought back a kickoff 93 yards and a punt for 76 yards for scores against William & Mary.

✍ Outside linebacker Eric Gash led the team with three interceptions. That was more than any other linebacker in the ACC and marked the first time since Buddy Curry in 1979 that a linebacker topped the team in pass thefts.

✍ Inside linebacker Dwight Hollier missed the first four games due to a fractured bone in his foot, but he still finished the season as the Tar Heels' career tackles leader (stats have been kept only since 1978). Hollier concluded his brilliant career with 502 tackles. That surpasses Darrell Nicholson's UNC record of 466 and placed him just 13 behind the ACC's all-time top tackler, Bubba Brown of Clemson.

✍ Sophomore wide receiver Corey Holliday's 40 pass receptions were the seventh-most in Carolina history and the third-highest total over the last quarter-century.

✍ Natrone Means (68 yards vs. Duke, 63 vs. Wake Forest and 55 vs. South Carolina), Randy Jordan (57 vs. Cincinnati) and William Henderson (57 vs. Maryland) each broke runs in excess of 50 yards. The last time UNC had three different players accomplish that was 1980 when Kelvin Bryant, Amos Lawrence and Billy Johnson each had 50-plus yard runs.

Tommy Thigpen, shown here after a fourth quarter sack of Duke quarterback Dave Brown, was named first-team All-ACC as he led the Tar Heels with 106 total tackles.

✍ The Tar Heels had a pair of 100-yard backs in two different games last year. Natrone Means and William Henderson each rushed for 101 yards vs. Maryland and Means had 181 and Randy Jordan 108 in the finale vs. Duke. Two players have rushed for 100 yards in the same game 27 times in UNC history but these were the first occasions since the N.C. State game in 1984 when it was accomplished by William Humes and Ethan Horton.

✍ William Henderson rushed for 101 yards against Maryland. That performance was the first 100-yard game by a Carolina fullback since Eddie Colson's 119-yard day vs. Wake Forest in 1983.

✍ Clint Gwaltney also set a UNC record by kicking 56 consecutive point after tries without a miss. He broke the previous mark of 55 (Brooks Barwick) in the opener vs. Cincinnati. Ironically, Gwaltney's 57th attempt was blocked — his first and only unsuccessful collegiate PAT.

✍ Senior punter Scott McAlister concluded his stellar career with a record 32 games in which he averaged at least 40 yards a kick. The old UNC record was 29 games set by Charlie Justice.

✍ Junior defensive back Thomas Smith broke up 16 passes and was named second-team All-ACC. The 16 pass breakups are the most since Carolina began recording defensive statistics in 1978. Previously, only one other Tar Heel player had ever broken up more 10 or passes in one season. Torin Dorn, now with the L.A. Raiders, broke up 11 in 1989.

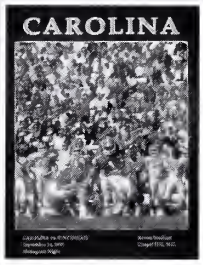
Kenan Stadium
Chapel Hill, N.C.



CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — Quarterback Chuckie Burnette completed 18 of 27 passes for 209 yards and two touchdowns and tailback Randy Jordan ran for 106 yards and two scores as North Carolina routed Cincinnati, 51-16 before 51,800 fans at Kenan Stadium.

Burnette, who also scored his first career rushing touchdown, tossed TD passes of 12 yards to Antuarn Williams and seven yards to Mike Faulkerson. Burnette led six scoring marches, including one on UNC's initial possession in each half and an eight-play, 62-yard drive as time wound down in the second quarter.

Jordan, filling in for scheduled starter Natrone Means who missed the game with a sprained ankle, had a career-high 99 yards in the first half. He scored on spectacular runs of 20 and 57 yards en route to his first-ever 100-yard game.

Carolina wasted little time in getting the first points of the evening. Taking the opening kickoff, the Heels went 62 yards in 12 plays, capped by Williams' 1-yard run. The Bearcats were forced to punt on their first series and Sean Crocker blocked the kick, recovered the ball and went 15 yards for a TD and 14-0 UNC lead.

Early in the second quarter, outside linebacker Eric Gash returned his first career interception for six yards and on the next play, Jordan sprinted 20 yards up the middle for a 21-3 lead.

Cincinnati scored on a 4-yard touchdown pass, but two plays later, Jordan busted up the middle and down the right sideline for 57 yards and a touchdown.

The Tar Heels put together an eight-play, 62-yard march in the final minute and a half of the second quarter. Burnette was six for eight on the drive and capped the series with his 12-yard TD pass to Williams. Clint Gwaltney's fifth extra point of the game set a Carolina record for consecutive made extra points (56).

Carolina added 16 second-half points, adding scores on its first, third and fourth series of the half. Following Faulkerson's 7-yard TD catch, Gwaltney's extra point try was blocked, ending his record-streak.

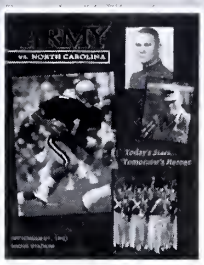
Army 12

September 21
Michie Stadium
West Point, N.Y.



WEST POINT, N.Y. — Chuckie Burnette completed 12 of 17 passes for 181 yards and a touchdown, Natrone Means made his season debut with 94 yards and a score and linebacker Tommy Thigpen was all over the field with 16 tackles to lead the University of North Carolina past Army, 20-12.

Army, which had rushed for 500 yards in its opening-game win over Colgate, rushed the ball 66 times for 285 net yards, but could only manage one pass completion in five attempts. The Cadets ran 71 plays to the Tar Heels' 56 and outgained the Heels 301-294, but did not register a passing first down.

Burnette, however, was afforded the luxury of time to throw, and completed 10 passes for first downs including three completions in excess of 20 yards.

The Cadets put the first three points on the board on a 33-yard field goal early in the second quarter. That kick capped a 13-play, 6:31 drive.

Carolina immediately responded as Burnette hit Corey Holliday for 23 yards and Deems May for 21 to advance deep into Cadet territory. From there, Means carried three times for 17 yards, including a five-yard touchdown run.

Late in the second quarter, Thigpen caused a fumble which J.R. Boldin recovered at the UNC 43. Means broke a 20-yard run to start the drive which culminated in a 39-yard field goal by Clint Gwaltney.

The Tar Heels took the opening kickoff in the third quarter, marched 76 yards in 15 plays and 7:34 and settled for a 31-yard FG by Gwaltney to up the lead to 13-3. Key plays on the drive were passes of 16 and 21 yards to Joey Jauch and a 10-yard completion to May on third-and-five.

Army answered with a time-consuming drive of its own. The Cadets ran off 15 plays and 7:04 of the clock, but were held to another field goal from 30 yards. Following a Holliday fumble inside Army territory, the Cadets were faced with a fourth-and-four at their own 38 with 12:52 to play in the game. Thigpen stopped the play for no gain and seven plays later, Burnette hit Holliday for 19 yards and the eventual winning score.

N.C. STATE 24
North Carolina 7

September 28
Carter-Finley Stadium
Raleigh, N.C.

RALEIGH, N.C. — Reserve quarterback Geoff Bender came off the bench in place of injured starter Terry Jordan and threw two touchdown passes to lead North Carolina State past North Carolina, 24-7.

Jordan suffered a broken left wrist early in the second quarter, but three plays later Bender, a red-shirt freshman, completed his first pass attempt for 27 yards and a touchdown.

The N.C. State defense, which came into the contest having not allowed a touchdown and just three total points in its first three games, held the Carolina offense in check most of the afternoon.

Carolina managed only 33 net yards rushing and 171 total yards, while the Pack offense accumulated 208 yards via the pass and another 134 on the ground.

UNC quarterback Chuckie Burnette completed 16 of 34 passes for 138 yards and a touchdown, but was sacked five times and threw three costly interceptions. Each of State's three interceptions came inside the Wolfpack 10-yard line.

Damon Hartman put the Wolfpack ahead 3-0 on a 46-yard field goal midway through the first quarter.

On the second play of the second quarter, Jordan was hit by Austin Robbins and fell on his left wrist, which caused the season-ending injury. On the play, Jordan had completed a third-and-seven pass for 15 yards to the Carolina 33. After two running plays, Bender checked off at the line and hit Eddie Goines on a post pattern for the score.

The Tar Heels' best threat of the first half came in their final possession as they moved to the State 24, but on third-and-long, Burnette was intercepted by Sebastian Savage at the six.

Early in the third, Bender hit a streaking Charles Davenport for a 35-yard TD to give the Pack a 17-0 lead.

Carolina broke on the board with a 10-play, 57-yard drive midway through the third quarter. Two long runs by Natrone Means got the drive started and a 13-yard pass to Corey Holliday on third-and-12 moved the ball to the State 10. On third down at the seven, Burnette found Jauch in the left corner of the end zone for a touchdown.

Carolina had several chances to add points in the fourth quarter, but turnovers killed those opportunities. Three times the Wolfpack fumbled the ball away to the Tar Heels, but each time Carolina could not score. Twice, the Tar Heels punted it right back to State and one time followed with a turnover of their own.

With seven minutes to play, Michael Payne forced a fumble which Rick Steinbacher scooped up at the State 10 yard line. Two plays later, however, Burnette was hit as he released and his pass was intercepted.

The Tar Heels marched all the way to the State two with less than 30 seconds left, but Burnette's final pass deflected off a Carolina receiver into the hands of Savage, who raced 99 yards for a touchdown.

Randy Jordan rushed for a career-high 153 yards and three touchdowns in the Tar Heels' 59-36 win over William and Mary.

NORTH CAROLINA 24
Wake Forest 10

October 12
Kenan Stadium
Chapel Hill, N.C.

CHAPEL HILL— Natrone Means rushed for two touchdowns and 167 yards and Randy Jordan took a screen pass from Todd Burnett and raced 44 yards for the go-ahead touchdown to lead North Carolina to a 24-10 victory over Wake Forest. The win was the second in a row over Wake Forest and the first at Kenan Stadium since 1985.

Means scored on a 63-yard run with 5:34 to go in the third quarter and then added a one-yard scoring run with less than two minutes to play in the game. The sophomore tailback rushed 29 times and in the second half totaled 130 yards.

The Tar Heels scored the only points of the first half on a 41-yard field goal by Clint Gwaltney which tied him for the school record with 37 career field goals.

The Demon Deacons took their only lead of the game on their first possession of the second half as John Leach tossed a 27-yard TD pass on a halfback option.

On the Tar Heels' sixth play of the following series, Jordan caught a screen pass from Burnett in the left flat, broke two tackles near the 30 and raced into end zone to give the Tar Heels a 10-7 advantage.

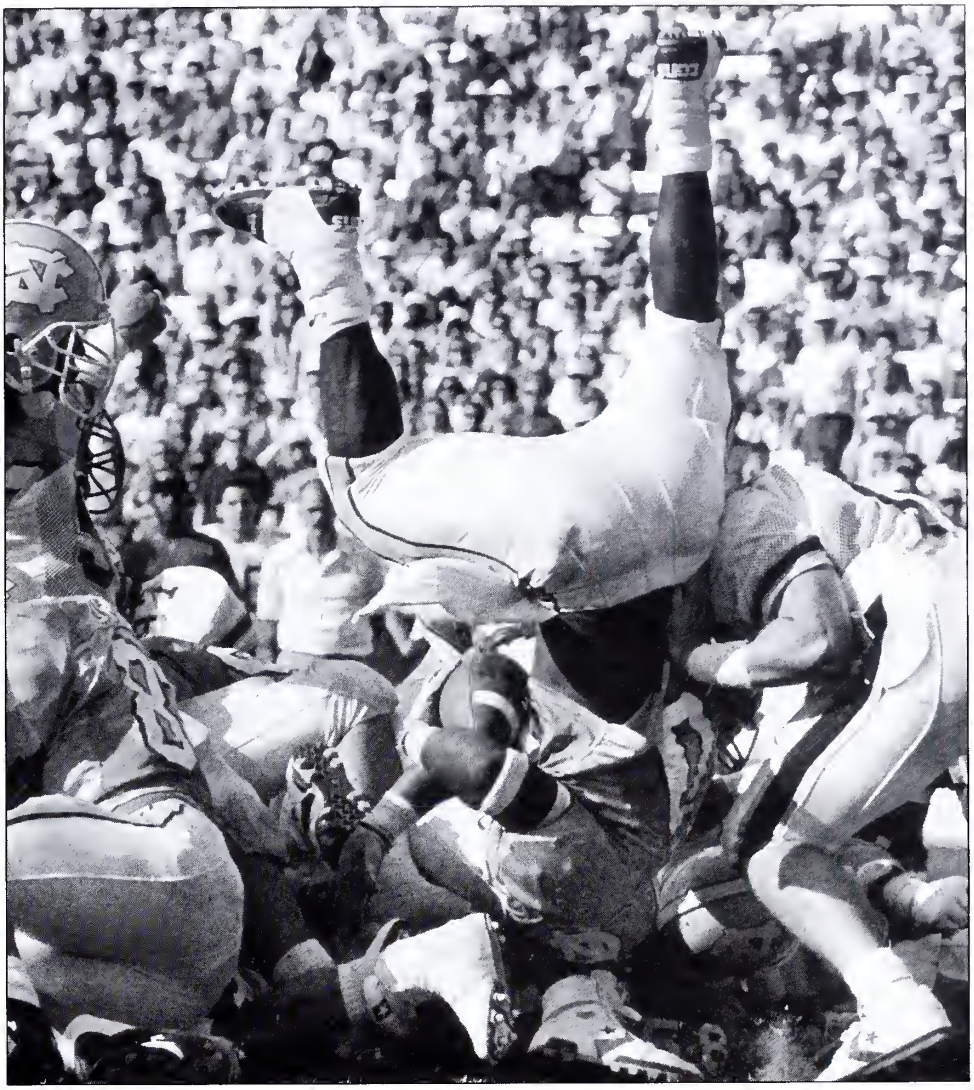
Carolina forced Wake to punt on its next drive and on the Tar Heels' first play from scrimmage, Means raced around the left end and went 63 yards for a touchdown.

The Deacs cut the lead to 17-10 late in the third on a 31-yard field goal and then blocked a 44-yard try by Gwaltney five minutes into the final quarter. Wake advanced near midfield, but the drive ended when UNC cornerback Thomas Smith made a spectacular leaping interception at the Carolina 16-yard line.

The Tar Heels then went on a 12-play, 84-yard drive which culminated in the final TD of the day. Means carried the ball on nine of the 12 plays and Burnett was three for three for 54 yards en route to the touchdown.

Burnett was playing in place of starter Chuckie Burnette who left late in the first half with bruised ribs and a jammed knuckle on his throwing hand. Carolina did get one injured starter back for the game as senior Dwight Hollier made his 1991 debut. Hollier played 32 downs and made seven tackles.

Senior Eric Blount set the all-time Atlantic Coast Conference kick return yardage record. Blount returned three kicks for 68 yards and passed N.C. State's Ralph Stringer who totaled 1,988 yards.



Natrone Means goes upside down for the game-clinching touchdown in Carolina's 24-10 win over Atlantic Coast Conference rival Wake Forest.

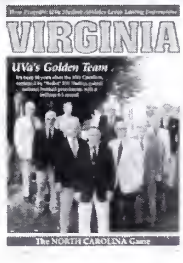
VIRGINIA 14
North Carolina 9

October 19
Scott Stodium
Chorlottesville, Vo.



CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA. — Quarterback Matt Blundin threw a pair of scoring passes to Brian

Satola to lead the University of Virginia to a 14-9 win over North Carolina.

Blundin hit Satola for six yards and a touchdown on the Cavaliers' first possession and later connected with Satola on a 14-yard TD late in the third quarter.

Blundin connected on 17 of 28 passes for 206 yards and no interceptions and tailbacks Terry Kirby and Nikki Fisher combined to rush for 114 yards to pace the Wahoo attack.

Carolina actually held the ball longer than Virginia (32 minutes to 28) and was virtually even in total yardage (324 for Virginia to 314). But penalties, sacks and the inability to thwart Virginia on third down led to the defeat.

Tailback Natrone Means rushed for 65 yards on 22 carries and added four receptions for 66 yards. Tailback Randy Jordan rushed for 49 yards and the lone Carolina touchdown. Chuckie Burnette completed 14 of 20 passes for 168 yards and one interception. His favorite targets were Means and Corey Holliday, who each made four catches for 60-plus yards.

Virginia scored in just six plays on its first series and led 7-0 at the half. Carolina put together a 13-play drive in the third quarter which stalled at the Virginia seven yard line. Clint Gwaltney kicked a 23-yard field goal to narrow the margin to 7-3. It was his 38th career field goal, a new Carolina record.

Virginia answered immediately with an 8-yard, 11-play drive which ended in Blundin's 14-yard scoring strike over the middle to Satola.

Carolina then had a 17-play drive which reached the Cavaliers' 22, but an illegal procedure penalty and a sack forced the Tar Heels out of field goal range. The defense held UVa on downs and seven plays later, with 2:29 to play in the game, Jordan scored from four yards out. Todd Burnett, who had replaced an injured Burnette early in the scoring drive, missed on a two-point pass attempt and the score read 14-9.

Virginia converted its next two third down attempts and when Carolina finally did get the ball back again, it was with just 31 seconds to play. Holliday made a circus catch to advance the ball to the UVa 39, but Burnette was picked off on the last play of the game.

GEORGIA TECH 35

October 26

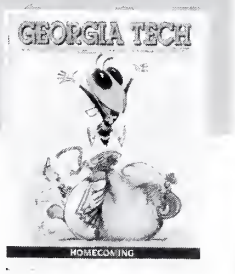
Grant Field
Atlanta, Ga.



ATLANTA — Shawn Jones threw for a career-high 273 yards and two touchdowns and cornerback Willie Clay had two interceptions and returned a punt for a touchdown to lead Georgia Tech to a 35-14 win over North Carolina.

Jones completed 15 of 26 passes and threw first half touchdown passes of six and 13 yards. The Yellow Jackets broke a 7-7 game open with four consecutive touchdowns midway through the game.

Clay picked off reserve quarterback Todd Burnett twice and added the final Tech touchdown on a 61-yard punt return early in the fourth quarter.

The game was pretty much decided in the final six minutes of the second quarter when the Yellow Jackets scored a pair of touchdowns in a 1:55 span.

Tech scored first on its second possession of the game. The key play of the drive was a 39-yard pass play from Jones to Rodney Wilkerson on third-and-4 from the UNC 43. On third-and-goal from the six, Jones hit Greg Lester in the corner of the end zone for the game's initial score.

The Tar Heels came back on the next series, however, as they moved 80 yards in six plays. Natrone Means finished the impressive drive with a 35-yard touchdown run through the left side of the Tech defense.

The game stayed tied until late in the second quarter when Jones moved Tech 74 yards in seven plays and capped the series with a 13-yard TD throw to Emmett Merchant.

Burnett replaced Chuckie Burnette on the ensuing UNC possession and was picked off the Tar Heels' first play from scrimmage. Tech moved 50 yards in five plays and Jones snuck in from one yard out for the touchdown.

The Yellow Jackets scored late in the third quarter on a seven-yard scoring scamper by Michael Smith and then tacked on their final points of the day on Clay's 61-yard punt return 2:12 into the final quarter.

Burnett who played almost all the second half in relief of an injured Burnette, finished the scoring with less than a minute to play on a three-yard TD pass to tailback Derrick Henderson. Burnett completed 15 of 27 passes for 145 yards but was picked off three times and sacked four times.

Means rushed just nine times for 67 yards, but was held to limited duty because of a stomach virus. Split end Corey Holliday had a career-high eight catches for 95 yards and Joey Jauch and Randall Felton added three receptions apiece.

NORTH CAROLINA 24

November 2
Kenan Stadium
Chapel Hill, N.C.

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — Tailback Natrone Means and fullback William Henderson each rushed for 101 yards and freshman quarterback Jason Stanicek made his collegiate debut a winning start as North Carolina rolled to a 24-0 shutout over the University of Maryland.

Means added two touchdown runs and Stanicek tossed a scoring pass to Corey Holliday as Carolina won for the second time in a row over the Terps. In fact, dating back to halftime of the 1990 game, the Tar Heels have scored 49 consecutive unanswered points.

Stanicek became only the second Tar Heel to ever win when making his debut as the starting quarterback. He completed 12 of 19 passes for 104 yards, threw two interceptions and a second quarter TD pass. Stanicek engineered touchdown drives of 84, 86 and 80 yards.

The shutout was the first by the Tar Heels since the Miami of Ohio game in the 1990 season opener and the first against an ACC foe since they blanked Georgia Tech in 1982. The Tar Heel defense, led by ACC Defensive Lineman-of-the-Week Tommy Thigpen, allowed the Terps just 131 total yards. That total is the fewest allowed since the Memphis State game in 1983 and the fewest by an ACC team since N.C. State in 1982.

Carolina gained 412 yards, 308 of which came on the ground. Means and Henderson became the first tandem to run for 100 yards since 1984 and Henderson became the first fullback to top the century mark since Eddie Colson rushed for 119 yards vs. Wake Forest in 1983.

The Tar Heels scored on their second series of the game. Henderson broke a 57-yard run to the Maryland 23 and on third-and-9, Stanicek scrambled for 10 yards and a first down. Three plays later, Means scored from six yards around left end.

Carolina marched 86 yards in 15 plays on its first possession of the second quarter, converting three times on third down and scoring on Means' seven-yard run on fourth down. Stanicek completed a third-and-five pass to Holliday for 20 yards and ran for four yards and a first on third-and-three.

Late in the second quarter, Carolina used its two-minute offense to move 80 yards in 12 plays. Stanicek completed four of five throws including a four-yard TD to Holliday to cap the drive with 24 seconds left in the half.

The Tar Heels added the final points of the game on a 22-yard field goal by Clint Gwaltney early in the fourth.

Jason Stanicek made his first collegiate appearance a starting one vs. Maryland and led three touchdown drives of more than 80 yards in a 24-0 Carolina victory.

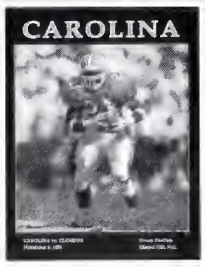
CLEMSON 21
North Carolina 6

November 9
Kenan Stadium
Chapel Hill, N.C.



CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — Quarterback DeChane Cameron rushed for 117 yards and two touchdowns and the Clemson defense limited North Carolina to just nine first downs and a pair of field goals as the Tigers defeated the Tar Heels, 21-6, in freezing temperatures and rain and before a national ESPN television audience.

Cameron braved the elements, which included steady rain and a wind chill factor of 11 degrees at gametime, to become the first Tiger QB to rush past the century mark in 10 years. It was his 41-yard touchdown run in the second quarter which proved to be the winning margin and he also added a 1-yard TD run in the fourth quarter.

Carolina, although held to only five rushing and four passing first downs, did have several opportunities to score in the first half. Four times in the opening half, the Tar Heels had the ball inside the Tiger 40-yard line, but came away with no points. Punter Scott McAlister penned the Tigers inside their 10-yard line twice and Clemson fumbled away the ball at its own 11-yard line. But quarterback Jason Stanicek lost one fumble due to the wet conditions and UNC also missed a short field goal due to a high snap.

The Tigers were held to just one first down in three first quarter possessions, but scored in only five plays on their initial series in the second quarter. Cameron evaded a linebacker blitz and, on the option, went 41 yards untouched down the right sideline for a touchdown.

In the third quarter, a McAlister punt was fumbled and UNC linebacker John Bradley recovered at the Tiger 21. Three plays gained seven yards and Gwaltney connected on a 31-yard field goal to trim the lead to 7-3.

The Tar Heels scored again on their next possession. The defense forced the Tigers to punt and Bracey Walker blocked the kick which was recovered at the Tiger 48. Stanicek hit Corey Holliday for eight and Natrone Means for 21 to the Tiger 14-yard line. But Carolina again had to settle for three points on a 27-yard Gwaltney field goal.

Clemson responded with a 36-yard kickoff return and a 17-play, 58-yard touchdown drive. Fullback Rudy Harris carried eight times on the drive which was capped by his one-yard scoring run 34 seconds into the final quarter.

The Tigers added their third and final score of the night on a five-play drive which ended in Cameron's one-yard TD run.

The Tigers finished the evening with 250 yards rushing and Cameron completed five-of-10 passes for 90 yards.

Means was superb for the Tar Heels, rushing for 77 yards on just 15 carries and catching six passes for 43 yards. Means averaged over 5.1 yards a carry. Stanicek completed 14 of 28 passes for 100 yards.

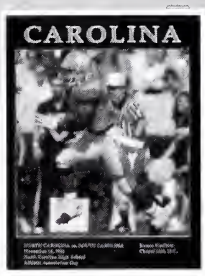
NORTH CAROLINA 21
South Carolina 17

November 16
Kenan Stadium
Chapel Hill, N.C.



CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — Tailback Natrone Means rushed for 144 yards and a touchdown, quarterback Jason Stanicek tossed a pair of touchdown passes and the Tar Heel defense forced eight sacks as North Carolina defeated South Carolina, 21-17.

Means scored on an eight-yard run in the second quarter and added a 55-yard run to set up the winning touchdown. He also caught five passes for 28 yards.

Stanicek completed 14 of 24 passes including a 19-yard touchdown to Randy Jordan and a nine-yard game-winning scoring pass to Joey Jauch.

Reserve defensive tackle Troy Barnett led the defense with a pair of quarterback sacks. Inside linebacker Dwight Hollier led the team with 14 tackles, and co-defensive players of the week Eric Gash and Roy Barker added 10 and six hits, respectively.

South Carolina quarterback Bobby Fuller, when not being hounded by the relentless Tar Heel rush, completed 24 of 40 passes for 243 yards and two TDs. Twice in the first half he hooked up with Robert Brooks for touchdowns, the second of which gave Brooks the USC career record for TD catches.

The Gamecocks scored seven on their initial possession of the game, moving 73 yards in 13 plays. Fuller hit a wide-open Brooks in the left corner of the end zone for a six-yard touchdown.

Carolina answered two series later with a seven-play, 60-yard drive of its own. Three Stanicek passes totaling 30 yards and an 18-yard run by Jordan keyed the assault, which was capped by Means' eight-yard TD run. Means started right, reversed his field and then scampered down the left sideline for the score. Stanicek threw a key block on the play.

Late in the first quarter, Carolina took the lead on a 73-yard drive. Two passes to Randall Felton for nine and 14 yards got the drive started and a personal foul on the Gamecocks moved the ball deep inside USC territory. At the 19, Stanicek lofted a pass to the right corner of the end zone which went off a USC defender's hands and into the awaiting arms of Jordan.

USC answered right back, however. Fuller directed a six-play, 54-yard TD march which ended in Brooks' second TD of the day, this one from four yards away.

North Carolina took the lead for good on its first drive in the third quarter. On the second play of the half, Means ran through the middle, cut left and was gone for 55 yards to the USC one-foot line. Two plays lost eight yards, though, and on third-and-goal at the nine, Stanicek struck again. This time it was to Jauch and to the back, left corner for nine yards and a touchdown to give the Tar Heels a 21-14 advantage.

With four minutes to play in the third quarter, UNC's Scott McAlister launched a 63-yard punt which carried through Brooks' hands at the 10-yard line and landed in the end zone. Brooks fell on the ball and was tackled by Ray Jacobs for an apparent safety. Officials first ruled it was a safety, but later switched the call and ruled the momentum of the kick caused the ball to land in the end zone and it was ruled a touchback.

USC tacked on a fourth quarter field goal with 7:55 to play to narrow the lead to 21-17, but it was as close as the Gamecocks could get. Barnett sacked Fuller for a nine-yard loss on the second to last play of the game after USC reached the Tar Heel 41-yard line, and Fuller's final desperation pass to the end zone was batted away by safety Cookie Massey.

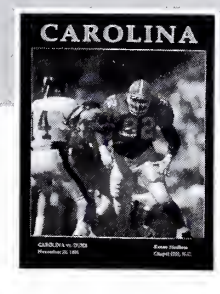
NORTH CAROLINA 47
Duke 14

November 23, 1991
Kenan Stadium
Chapel Hill, N.C.



CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — Natrone Means rushed for 181 yards including a 68-yard touchdown run which pushed him over 1,000 yards for the season and Randy Jordan added 108 yards and a 37-yard scoring run as the University of North Carolina pounded arch-rival Duke, 47-14 in the season finale.

Means' 68-yard run early in the fourth quarter, on his 30th carry of the day and final one of the year, increased his season total to 1,030 yards. He became the 11th Carolina player to rush for 1,000 yards and it was the 20th 1,000-yard season at UNC, a record for all of college football.

Led by tailbacks Means and Jordan, the Tar Heels rushed for 351 yards and compiled a total of 529 yards in offense, the most in an ACC game since 1987. The Carolina defense was superb, limiting Duke quarterback Dave Brown to just 14 completions in 42 attempts for 168 yards.

Freshman fullback William Henderson rejoices after one of his two second half touchdowns in Carolina's 47-14 victory over arch-rival Duke. (Barbara Corso photo)

Carolina quarterback Jason Stanicek completed 14 of 24 passes for 178 yards and led the Tar Heels on seven drives which resulted in points.

Senior kick return specialist Eric Blount got the Tar Heels off to a flying start as he returned the game's opening kickoff 70 yards to the Duke 28. Means carried six times to the Blue Devil six and on third-and-goal, Blount took a handoff from Means on a reverse and scored easily.

Leading 10-0 in the second quarter, Stanicek completed three straight passes for 34 yards to the Duke 41. One play later, Jordan cut through the right side and raced untouched 37 yards into the end zone.

The Blue Devils finally got on the scoreboard on their first series of the second half. Brown connected with tight end John Farquhar on a fourth-and-12 play for 31 yards and a touchdown.

Carolina answered back with look-alike touchdowns in the third quarter. Each time, the score was set up by a Stanicek-to-Blount pass down the left sideline and each drive was capped by a three-yard run up the middle by a UNC fullback. Blount made a 26-yard grab at the Duke 13 to set up a TD by William Henderson to give Carolina a 26-7 lead. One possession later, Stanicek and Blount hooked up for 18 yards to the Blue Devil 34. Five plays later, Mike Faulkerson burst into the end zone for a 33-7 advantage.

Leading 33-14 with 13:34 left in the fourth, Carolina sent Means back on the field needing 32 yards for 1,000. On the first play, Means was trapped behind the line for a six-yard loss. On the next play, however, Means got outside the right end of the Duke defense and raced 68 yards down the sideline for a touchdown. It was the longest scoring run of the season for Means.

As prolific as the Tar Heel offense was running the ball, the defense was that good in shutting down the Blue Devil attack, especially the run. Duke managed just 36 yards on 26 rushing attempts. Carolina totaled 25 first downs to Duke's 13 and even had more passing first downs (7-6) than the Blue Devils.

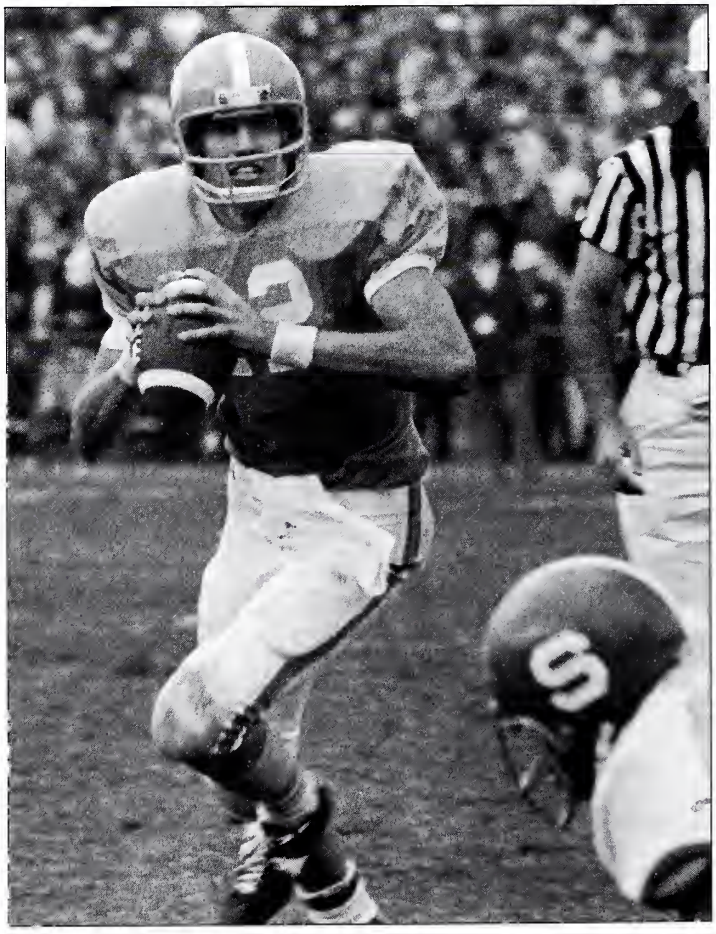
(To obtain passing efficiency rating, multiply a player's yards per attempt by 8.4. Add his TD percentage times 3.3 and his completion percentage to that. Then subtract his interception percentage times two.)



Chris Kupec is easily the all-time passing efficiency leader at Carolina with 160.09 points. In his one year as a starter, he posted some of the finest numbers in Carolina history. In 1974, Kupec completed 104-of-150 passes for an incredible percentage of .693. He threw for 12 touchdowns and was intercepted just three times. He still holds UNC's single-season and career pass completion percentage records.

Earl Winfield established the Carolina record for receptions in a career with 107 from 1982-85. He caught passes in each of his last 22 games, also a Carolina record. He was a first-team All-ACC wide receiver as a senior when he grabbed 47 passes for 696 yards and eight touchdowns. Winfield is one of only four Tar Heels to ever make three touchdown receptions in a single game; he caught three TDs vs. Wake Forest in 1985.

Youngstown, Ohio native Lou Angelo is the Tar Heels' all-time pass thief. Angelo, a three-year starter from 1970-72, picked off 16 passes during his career, including a Carolina single-season record eight in 1972. Those eight steals led the Atlantic Coast Conference and came in an outstanding 11-1 season.

CAREER LEADERS

KICK RETURN AVERAGE

(at least 20 returns)

Not only was Charlie Justice an outstanding runner and thrower, but the Tar Heel great was also one of the most complete players in the history of college football. Justice, who you might note also has the third-best punting average in UNC history, is the Tar Heels' top kick returner. He averaged 26.6 yards per kickoff return and 14.2 yards per punt return. No other Tar Heel player is among the top five in both kick return specialties.

FIRST TEAM ALL-AMERICAS

GEORGE BARCLAY ✔ Guard, 1934

Associated Press; Grantland Rice (Collier's); All-America Board; Williamson; New York World-Telegram; Collegiate Digest; Hearst; NEA; Albert Richard; Illustrated Football Annual; Lou Little

Here is Carolina's first football All-America. The 5-11, 185-pound guard and linebacker was a three-year standout for Chuck Collins and Carl Snavely. A fine blocker and an extraordinary tackler, Barclay lined up in the offensive interior next to tackle Jim Tatum. He was captain of the 1934 team which went 7-1-1. Barclay later served as head coach at Carolina for three seasons, from 1953 to 1955.

ANDY BERSHAK ✔ End, 1937

Grantland Rice (Collier's); NEA; Williamson; Central Press; College Writers; Eddie Dooley; NANA; Illustrated Football Annual; Albert Richard

A 185-pound end, Bershak was a two-way performer for the Tar Heels. He was a fine receiver, but was even better on defense. He played two years for Carl Snavely and one for Ray Wolf. Bershak, an honor student, also was a basketball starter. He was selected to the Order of the Golden Fleece and served as president of the Carolina Athletic Association.

STEVE MARONIC ✔ Tackle, 1938

Central Press; Eddie Dooley

Maronic was a two-way tackle for the Tar Heels and team co-captain in 1938. He was an "iron man" playing almost 60 minutes in every game that season. He turned in two of his best performances in front of the New York media against NYU at Yankee Stadium and Fordham at the Polo Grounds. Those games solidified his All-America chances. Maronic also was a place-kicker and hit 13 straight PATs in his final season.

PAUL SEVERIN ✔ End, 1939-40

Associated Press 1939-1940; Williamson 1939-40; Boston Daily Record 1940; New York Daily News 1940; Newsweek 1940; NEA 1940; Collyer's News Bureau 1940; L.H. Baker 1940

Paul Severin was the Tar Heels' first repeat selection as All-America in 1939-40.

Severin was a two-time All-America selection by the Associated Press (1939 and 1940) and made most of the all-star teams in his senior season. His career was filled with big plays—a touchdown catch to tie Tulane in 1939, two scoring catches against Penn that same season and a touchdown-saving tackle from behind of Duke's great Steve Lach in a 6-3 win over the Blue Devils in 1940.

Twice runner-up for the Heisman Trophy, Charlie Justice is rated by many as the best all-around player in the history of Southern football. He was a true triple-threat performer, leading Carolina in rushing, passing and punting from 1946 to 1949. He sparked Tar Heel teams which appeared in the Sugar Bowl twice and the Cotton Bowl once. He is the school's all-time total offense leader with 4,883 yards and also ranks as the Tar Heels' second-leading career scorer, sixth-leading rusher and 10th-leading passer. He had a career punting average of 42.6 and averaged 14.2 yards on punt returns and 26.6 yards on kickoff returns. For Justice's career statistics, please see page 161.

ART WEINER ✔ End, 1948-49

College Football Hall of Fame

Football Writers 1948; New York Daily News 1949; New York Sun 1949

A great all-around end, Weiner led the nation in receiving in 1949 with 52 catches. He had been seventh nationally in receiving the previous year with 31 catches. His 106 career catches are the second-

Powell teamed with Art Weiner to give Carolina sensational end play during the post-war "Justice Era" in Chapel Hill. A brilliant defensive player, Powell also caught 10 passes during the 1949 season. As a freshman, he had been a standout in the 1947 Sugar Bowl game with Georgia.

IRV HOLDASH ✔ Center, 1950

NEA; Williamson

While Carolina's football fortunes slipped in the years immediately following the Charlie Justice Era, Holdash still received national attention for his outstanding play. A center on offense and linebacker on defense, Holdash was a three-year regular who never missed a game during his varsity career. He probably made All-America in 1950 with a sensational performance in a 14-7 loss at Notre Dame. Irish quarterback Bobby Williams called him "the best I've played against."

Center Irv Holdash never missed a game during his three-year career and was selected to the 1950 All-America Team.

AL GOLDSTEIN ✔ End, 1958

Look, Football Writers; NEA

Goldstein was another outstanding two-way end at Carolina. He earned All-America honors in 1958 by making 24 catches for 490 yards, averaging an amazing 20.4 yards per reception. Adept at making the seemingly impossible catch, he had a 68-yard TD reception at Virginia. He also starred defensively and had a 46-yard interception return for a touchdown against Maryland.

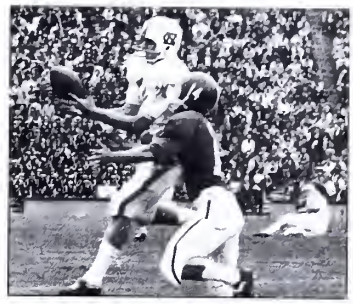
BOB LACEY ✔ End, 1963

Look, Football Writers; Associated Press

Lacey led the Atlantic Coast Conference in receiving in 1963 with 48 catches for 533 yards. His pass-catching was a key factor as Carolina rolled to a 9-2 record, defeating the Air Force, 35-0, in the Gator Bowl. Lacey was also the team's top receiver in 1962 with 44 catches. He is the only Tar Heel player to have at least 40 catches on two occasions. His career total of 102 receptions is the third-best in school history.



Bob Lacey caught 48 passes for 533 yards as a senior and was named a 1963 All-America.

DON McCAULEY ✔ Halfback, 1970

Associated Press; Football Writers; Football Coaches; Walter Camp; Football News

Don McCauley shattered the Carolina and the Atlantic Coast Conference record books with a dazzling senior season in 1970. He rushed for 1,720 yards and scored 21 touchdowns, setting marks which still stand. His 1,720 yards was an all-time collegiate high at the time, breaking O.J. Simpson's NCAA record. McCauley led the nation in all-purpose running that season. He was twice the ACC Player of the Year and still ranks fourth in both career scoring and rushing at Carolina. He had a lengthy professional career with the Baltimore Colts.

RON RUSNAK ✔ Offensive Guard, 1972

Associated Press; United Press; Football Coaches; Football Writers

Rusnak was a unanimous All-America selection in 1972 as Carolina posted an 11-1 record. At 6-2 and 220 pounds, he did not have the size to play professional football, but Rusnak was a great college player. He was a two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference choice, starting on teams which combined for a 20-4 record. In 1972 he won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the best blocker in the ACC.

KEN HUFF ✔ Offensive Guard, 1974

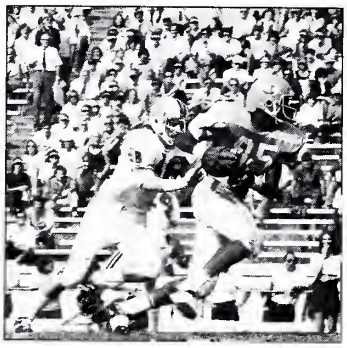
Associated Press; Football Coaches; Time Magazine; Pop Warner; Walter Camp; The Sporting News; NEA

Huff was a key man on one of the most explosive units in Carolina history. He was the leader of an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels accumulate 4,691 yards in 1974, at the time a school record. The 6-4, 255-pound Huff won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the best blocker in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Sparked in great part by his play up front, the Tar Heels had two backs rush for over 1,000 yards in the same season. Huff was the third player selected in the NFL draft by the Baltimore Colts.

CHARLES WADDELL ✔ Tight End, 1974

The Sporting News

Waddell rates as one of the best all-around athletes in Carolina history. He won three football letters, two in basketball and one in track. Not only was he a fine receiver at tight end, but he also was a dynamic blocker there. He set a school single-game record in 1974 with three touchdown catches against Clemson. He had 41 career catches for 518 yards and seven TDs. His professional career was cut short by a knee injury.



Charles Waddell won letters in three sports, was a 1974 All-America at tight end and won the 1975 Patterson Medal as Carolina's outstanding senior athlete.

DEE HARDISON ✔ Defensive Tackle, 1977

Associated Press; Football Writers; Football News

A two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection, Hardison played on one of the top defensive teams in Carolina history. In 1977 Carolina led the nation in scoring defense, giving up just 7.4 points a game. The Tar Heels led the ACC in total, rushing, pass and scoring defense. A big reason was the play of Hardison, a 6-3, 252-pound tackle who dominated the line of scrimmage all season. After leaving Carolina he began a lengthy NFL career with the Buffalo Bills.

LAWRENCE TAYLOR ✔ Outside Linebacker, 1980

Associated Press; United Press International; Football Writers; Football Coaches; The Sporting News; Football News

From midway in his junior season until the end of his senior year in 1980, Taylor dominated the football field as few defensive players ever had. Now regarded as the finest outside linebacker in the history of the game, Taylor had a remarkable senior season which featured 16 quarterback sacks and six other tackles for losses. In Carolina's only close games in an 11-1 season, Taylor made the game-saving defensive plays against Texas Tech and Clemson. He was a runaway selection as Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year.

RON WOOTEN ✔ Offensive Guard, 1980

Walter Camp; Football News; NEA

Wooten won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy in 1980 as the best blocker in the Atlantic Coast Conference. He was the leading vote-getter in the offensive line on the All-ACC team. He was one of the leaders of an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels lead the ACC in total offense and which also helped produce two 1,000-yard backs. He went on to become a starting guard with New England in the NFL.

DAVID DRECHSLER ✔ Offensive Guard, 1981-82

Football Writers 1981, 1982; Walter Camp 1982; Football News 1982

Drechsler became Carolina's first two-time All-America since Charlie Justice and Art Weiner when he earned first-team honors in 1981 and 1982. He played every position in the offensive interior during his Carolina career, but settled in at guard. The 6-4, 253-pound Drechsler played on Tar Heel teams which were 37-10-1 and were unbeaten in four bowl games. He also was the winner of a post-graduate scholarship from the NCAA. Drechsler went on to become a starter with the Green Bay Packers until a back injury forced him to give up the game.

WILLIAM FULLER ✔ Defensive Tackle, 1982-83

Football Writers 1982; Football News 1982, 1983; Football Coaches 1983; Walter Camp 1983; The Sporting News 1983

Fuller is one of just five Carolina players to win first-team All-America honors twice. Although powerfully built at 6-3 and 250 pounds, Fuller's greatest asset was his quickness. He used that quickness to make 13 tackles for losses with six sacks in 1982 and 17 tackles for losses and five sacks the following year. He was the only unanimous choice on the 1983 All-ACC team and is one of just two linemen ever to make All-ACC for three straight years.

William Fuller earned All-America honors in 1982 and 1983 and is one of just five Tar Heels to be named All-America in two seasons.

BRIAN BLADOS ✔ Offensive Tackle, 1983

Associated Press 1983; NEA 1983

When two Carolina tailbacks ran for over 1,000 yards in 1983, much of that yardage came behind Blados. The 6-6, 305-pound left tackle dominated the line of scrimmage as Carolina set a school total offense record and finished seventh nationally in yardage. Blados was named on 90 of 100 ballots in voting for the All-Atlantic Coast Conference team. He was a first round choice by the Cincinnati Bengals in the NFL draft.

HARRIS BARTON ✔ Offensive Tackle, 1986

Associated Press 1986

Barton was a four-year starter for the Tar Heels, first at center and then at tackle. With so many teams playing even-man front defenses, Barton was moved to tackle in 1984 to take better advantage of his skills. He excelled at left tackle, the key blocking spot in the Carolina passing game. As a senior, he led an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels rank first in the Atlantic Coast Conference and sixth nationally in total offense. An excellent student, he was chosen for a post-graduate scholarship by the National Football Foundation and was a first-round selection in the NFL draft.

CAROLINA'S LINEBACKER TRADITION

For the past decade, the most dynamic defensive player in the National Football League has been Lawrence Taylor, the sensational linebacker of the New York Giants and another in a long line of standouts at that position from the University of North Carolina.

Taylor captured pro football's most prized award in 1986 when he was named the NFL's Most Valuable Player. That award came after he led the Giants to a Super Bowl triumph. The MVP trophy gave Taylor a sweep of the NFL's top individual honors in just his sixth year in the league. In January 1991, Taylor again led the Giants to the top of the professional football world as New York became Super Bowl champions for the second time.

Taylor roared into the NFL in 1981 as few rookies ever have. He not only was the league's Rookie of the Year, but also the NFL Defensive Player of the Year as well. In his decade with the Giants he has established himself as the outside linebacker with whom all others must be compared.

Of course, Taylor's success has come as no surprise to those who followed his great career at Carolina. And the fact that Taylor played for the Tar Heels was no surprise to NFL fans. Carolina has been turning out star linebackers for years.

The biggest star of them all may well be Taylor. The second player chosen in the 1981 NFL draft, he actually helped turn the Giant franchise around. New York, which had only a 4-12 record in 1980, improved to 9-7 in Taylor's first year there. The Giants made the playoffs for the first time since 1963.

The major reason for that improvement was an outstanding defense featuring Taylor. The New York offense wasn't great by any means, but the defense was strong enough to offset that. Quick and powerful with tremendous instincts, Taylor presented a major problem for opposing offenses. He actually redefined the outside linebacker position.

In his first year in the league, Taylor received more votes than any other NFC player in balloting for the Pro Bowl.

Taylor has been an All-Pro selection in 10 of his 11 NFL seasons and was a Pro Bowl selection in each of his first 10 years in the league. Four times he has been named Defensive Player of the Year.

Taylor had similar success at Carolina. He was a consensus All-America and the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year in his senior season. During that fall of 1980, he led a Tar Heel defense which helped Carolina post an 11-1 record, equalling the most wins in school history.

Taylor had really begun to develop into a true superstar late in his junior year. He finished third on the team in tackles that fall, had five sacks and made six tackles for losses. Then he was sensational against Michigan in the Gator Bowl.

That set the stage for a dynamic senior season in which Taylor seemed to make big plays every week. He had 55 solo tackles, 16 sacks and six tackles for losses. He forced three fumbles, recovered three and made plays that had to be seen to be believed. Even then instant replay would have been helpful.

Last year, Buffalo Bills linebacker Carlton Bailey, the captain of the 1987 Tar Heel squad, led the Bills to Super Bowl XXVI when he picked off a John Elway pass and returned it for a touchdown in the American Football Conference Championship Game.

While Hanburger and Bunting were two of the NFL's premier linebackers during the '70s, two of the league's best a decade earlier were also former Tar Heels- Rip Hawkins of the Minnesota Vikings and Bill Koman of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Like Curry, Hanburger and Hawkins were two-time All-ACC choices during their college days. Jimmy DeRatt, a Carolina linebacker in the early 1970s, also won all-conference honors twice.

Other Tar Heel linebackers who have made the All-ACC team since 1970 are Bunting, Taylor, Bill Richardson, Mike Mansfield, Darrell Nicholson, Lee Shaffer, Chris Ward, Mike Wilcher, Micah Moon, Brett Rudolph, Dwight Hollier, and in 1991, Tommy Thigpen.

Lee Shaffer and Lawrence Taylor (98) anchored some of the most dominant defenses in Carolina football history. Both players starred at linebacker for the Tar Heels and were named first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference.

However, as mentioned earlier, Taylor was not the first Tar Heel linebacker to reach stardom in the NFL. The year before Taylor entered the league, the NFL's best rookie linebacker was Buddy Curry of the Atlanta Falcons. Curry had won All-ACC honors at Carolina in 1977 and 1979. He was a key figure, as just a sophomore, on a 1977 Tar Heel defense which gave up the fewest points in the nation.

Two former Carolina linebackers helped their teams reach the Super Bowl in the 1970s. Chris Hanburger sparked a Redskin defense which took Washington to Super Bowl VII and John Bunting was a key performer for the Philadelphia Eagles when they reached Super Bowl XV.

Hollier was a dominant force at inside linebacker during Mack Brown's first four years and led the ACC in tackles twice. He was first-team All-ACC in 1990 and was a pre-season All-America choice last year but missed the first four games of the year due to an injury.

Thigpen is today one of the finest defensive players in all of college football. He was a first-team All-ACC choice in 1991 as he led the team in tackles with 106 and is considered one of the hardest hitters in the college game.

CAROLINA'S 1,000-YARD BACKS

1,000 yards.

That's the magic figure for any runner in football.

Call him a halfback, a running back, a tailback, an I-Back or whatever you want. But, when he rushes for 1,000 yards, you simply call him something special.

Nowhere in college football have there been more special runners than at the University of North Carolina.

In the last 23 years Tar Heel tailbacks have rushed for over 1,000 yards on 20 occasions. That gives Carolina more 1,000-yard backs than anyone else in collegiate history. The University of Southern California is second with 19.

In a 12-year period from 1973 to 1984, Carolina had at least one player break the 1,000-yard mark each season. And in the four years of Mack Brown's reign in Chapel Hill, two Tar Heels have topped the 1,000 plateau. Last year, sophomore Natrone Means rushed for 1,030 yards in just 10 games and vaulted over the magical 1,000-yard barrier on his final carry of the season, a 68-yard touchdown run versus arch-rival Duke.

Three times in that 12-year stretch from 1973-84, the Tar Heels had two tailbacks get 1,000 yards in the same season. It has been rare in college football for a school to produce two 1,000-yard backs in one year. When it has happened it has generally been with option attacks- the veer or the wishbone. But, on all three occasions when Carolina has had a pair of 1,000-yard rushers, the players actually shared the same position- tailback in the Tar Heels' I-formation.

Tailback at Carolina, in fact, has become the glamour position in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Year in and year out, more attention goes to Tar Heel tailbacks than to players at any other position at any other school in the league. To be a tailback at Carolina, one has to be a superb athlete, one of the nation's best players, someone special.

How has Carolina been able to produce so many 1,000-yard backs?

Certainly, having outstanding runners has been a major factor. But, other schools also have had great backs and haven't been able to compile the figures of Carolina. For example, the Tar Heels have had more 1,000-yard rushers than Alabama, Notre Dame and Oklahoma combined.

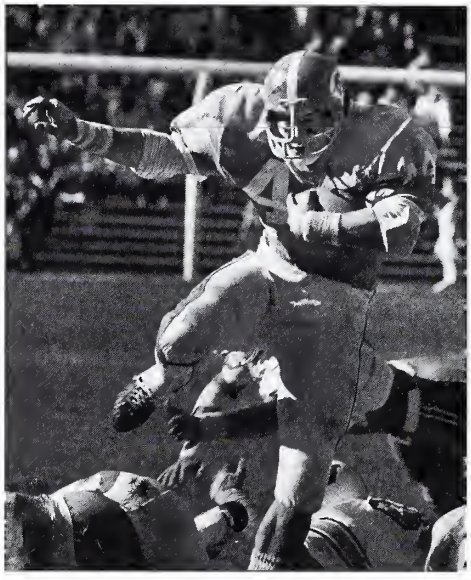
No, there are also other reasons, the most important of which are probably fine offensive linemen, belief in the I-formation and tradition. Those reasons also hold true for Southern California.

Carolina and USC have each had two players rush for 1,000 yards three times- Mike Voight and Kelvin Bryant of the Tar Heels and the Trojans' Charles White and Anthony Davis.

In addition, Carolina's Amos Lawrence had an amazing four 1,000-yard seasons. He and Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett are the only major college players ever to hit the 1,000-yard mark four times.

The biggest difference between the tailback systems at Carolina and Southern Cal is that Trojan backs have generally had higher yardage totals. But, USC usually picks one player as its tailback and sticks with him throughout the season. In fact, Southern Cal has never had two backs gain 1,000 yards in the same season.

Carolina, on the other hand, has alternated tailbacks quite a bit, trying to keep a fresh player in the game at all times. When two players split a position, their individual yardage totals obviously aren't as high as those of runners who stay in the game constantly. The Tar Heel philosophy is simply that if you've got two great runners, let them both play. In the long run, both will be more effective. For example, last season while Means was rushing for 1,030 yards on 201 carries, his backup, Randy Jordan, totaled 618 yards on 124 carries.



Mike Voight rushed for 1,000-plus yards in three consecutive seasons and was a two-time Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year.

That's not to say Carolina would never go with a system like USC's. If one runner is clearly better than all others, he will get the majority of the playing time. For example, Don McCauley rushed for 1,720 yards in 1970. At that time that broke O.J. Simpson's all-time NCAA single-season yardage record. Still, McCauley's backup, Ike Oglesby, had 562 yards.

McCauley is Carolina's only 1,000-yard back from outside the ACC's geographic area. He is a native of Garden City, N.Y.

Bryant, Tyrone Anthony, James Betterson, Ethan Horton, Sammy Johnson, Kennard Martin and Means are all North Carolinians. Lawrence and Voight grew up in Virginia, while Derrick Fenner is from Maryland.

All those eligible have played professional football. McCauley and Bryant have had the most success to date. McCauley played with the Baltimore Colts for 11 seasons and broke many of the club's rushing and scoring records set by Alan Ameche and Lenny Moore. Bryant was the USFL's Player of the Year in that league's first season. He joined the Washington Redskins in 1986.

Horton and Johnson were recruited as quarterbacks. All of the others were high school halfbacks, although McCauley was more highly regarded as a defensive back.

Those players have turned in some of the greatest individual performances in ACC history. In fact, Carolina players have had the five best rushing days in league history and six of the top seven. Fenner set the ACC rushing record in 1986 by gaining 328 yards against Virginia. Martin had 291 in 1988 against Duke. Lawrence has the third-best figure with 286 against Virginia in 1977. Fourth on the ACC list is McCauley's 279 against Duke in 1970. Then comes Voight's 261 against the Blue Devils in 1976. And in 1990, Means rushed for 256 yards in the season finale vs. Duke.

Top single-season efforts ever in the ACC have been McCauley's 1,720 yards in 1970 and Voight's 1,407 in 1976.

It has been performances like those which have made Carolina's tailback position what it is- a spot filled with tradition, a spot for special players, a spot for 1,000-yard rushers.

The Incomparable Charlie Justice

Choo Choo

There is an understandable tendency by sports fans to be wary when an athlete is called "the absolute greatest ever" or "the best who ever played."

It is so difficult to compare athletes of the past with those of today that such descriptions are generally regarded as exaggerations of overzealous publicists.

Even with that in mind, however, it is undeniably safe to say that the greatest all-around football player ever to wear Carolina Blue was Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice.

Some have even said Charlie Justice was the best all-around player in the history of the South. We won't go that far even though there's a good chance it's true. We don't want to make our readers too wary.

Charlie Justice was more than just a great football player. He was a bonafide superstar ... a hero ... a legend in his own time. He had an impact on his home state as no other athlete had ever had before or few have had since.

During his four years in Chapel Hill, from 1946 to 1949, Justice helped guide the Tar Heels to three major bowls. For one week during the 1948 season Carolina was ranked as the nation's number one college football team. The Tar Heels ended that year rated third, the best finish in school history.

It is no wonder then he was held in great esteem by everyone in the state. Certainly, the time was right for a hero like Charlie Justice. The war had just ended and people wanted to turn their attention to more pleasant things. They wanted someone to help them forget the trauma they had just suffered. So they looked for heroes and they found Charlie Justice.

In his book, "They Made the Bell Tower Chime," the late Bob Quincy summed up Charlie Justice's college career quite succinctly. An excerpt is repeated here:

The Justice era of 1946-49 was the most exciting in Carolina's football history. Charlie was the ringleader of a circus of thrills. He set the pace, but his backing was superb. Carl Snavely had so many football players he couldn't have named them all had he taken a memory course. The Tar Heels operated from the single wing with the kind of variations that at times resembled the Harlem Globetrotters' pre-game ball-handling act. The four seasons netted 32 victories, seven losses and two deadlocks. Plus three major bowl appearances.

The 170-pound Justice was one of the nation's most sought-after players when he enrolled at Carolina. Some called him the hottest property in the history of football at that time. He had been a standout at Asheville's Lee Edwards High, leading the Maroons to two unbeaten seasons. He was All-Southern two years at Asheville, and as a member of the Shrine Bowl football team in 1942 he scored three touchdowns against South Carolina, a record that still stands.

The Navy became home for Charlie during the war years, and he became a phantom on a pro-studded Bainbridge Navy Squad. After two years of romping for Bainbridge against opponents across the country, he was a target for pro offers from the Philadelphia Eagles and Washington.

> "A teacher asked his pupils to write on a slip of paper the most important man in the country. Twenty-six slips of paper were passed out, marked and returned. The principal of the institution received one vote. The President of the United States, Harry Truman, received two. The other 23 went to Charlie Justice."
> from Choo Choo: The Charlie Justice Story (by Bob Quincy and Julian Scheer)

Charlie wanted an education, and scouts stayed in pursuit. He chose Chapel Hill after seriously considering South Carolina and Duke. An off-hand remark by Snavely—"I hope he comes out for football"—became a classic understatement.

Justice was all his press clippings indicated—and more.

Smart! Example: In the Virginia Tech opener, Justice had two kicks blocked. He bristled and vowed it would never happen again. It didn't during his collegiate career.

After Virginia Tech's 14-14 stalemate, a shocker to say the least, the Tar Heels played at Miami. Early in the game, Justice went back to punt. The Hurricanes came hard with an all-out rush to block him. He faked the kick and ripped off a 65-yard touchdown run.

In the Virginia game his freshman year he gained 170 yards in 17 carries with runs of 18, 40, and 56 yards. He had seen little practice because of a leg injury, but the Cavaliers were certain he carried a spare appendage.

Choo Choo (he acquired the name at Bainbridge when a gob remarked, "He runs along just like a choo choo train,") was excitement. He was all eagerness on the sidelines and all business when he moved into the tailback slot. He thrived on duty, and he was a master of the quick kick, a devastating rusher, a good passer, and a fake artist who could charm a cobra.

Jack Fitch, a thick-legged back who occasionally shared duty with Justice when not playing on the wing, sized up Charlie's style by noting, "Justice has the ability to be running at full speed, stop suddenly, and then be back at full speed almost instantly. He was never regarded as fast in terms of a track man. He had a change of pace that couldn't be matched, and he knew how to follow blockers as well as any back I've ever watched."

Justice was blessed by having excellent blocking backs in front of him (Joe Wright, Don Hartig, Eddie Knox, Paul Rizzo, Bobby Weant) and two fullbacks in Hosea Rodgers and Walt Pupa who could pass as well as run. Pupa had been at tailback in pre-war years.

The Snavely system called for a spinning fullback, fakes and counter fakes, fullback pass plays and reverses. It was a dashing brand of football made more exciting by men who had the ability and maturity to accept Snavely's often complicated maneuvers.

A book, "Choo Choo," documents the career of Charlie Justice. He was a folk hero and deserved the special treatment. The great Benny Goodman and the late Johnny Long recorded the Campbell-Beebe song, "All The Way Choo Choo." It sold by the thousands.

Typical of Justice was the Georgia game of 1948. He scored three times against the Bulldogs in a 21-14 triumph, the climax being an 84-yard punt return. At mid-way point that season, the Tar Heels were ranked No. 1 in the nation.

Justice erased more records than a company of auditors during his four years at UNC. He scored 234 points and passed or ran for 64 touchdowns. As a ball carrier he accumulated 2,634 yards.

His total offense record is still in the books at 4,883. His punting average for four years was 42.6 yards per kick for 231 boots. Justice also was a dependable defensive player, going both ways on occasion for the Tar Heels and also as a Redskin.

Justice seemed to peak when the traditional games were being played. He led the Tar Heels to four straight wins over Duke. He was an All-America mention as a freshman and made many of the major teams as a junior and as a senior. He was runner-up for the Heisman Trophy to Doak Walker of SMU in 1949.

Charlie's finest moment came in the College All-Star Game of 1950 at Chicago's Soldier Field. He was voted the MVP of the game for good reason. The All-Stars walloped the Philadelphia Eagles, led by Steve Van Buren, 17-7. Justice gained 133 yards individually, or 48 more than the Eagles posted as a team. He set up a touchdown on a 60-yard pass from Eddie LeBaron of College of Pacific.

Every year since Charlie's departure from Chapel Hill, someone has a "find" who is labeled as "the next Charlie Justice." No player has yet come up to Choo Choo's standards. Good runners, yes! Expert passers, yes! Booming punters, yes! But for endurance, ability to dazzle the crowd and overall quality, there was only one Charlie Justice.

CAROLINA'S FOOTBALL HISTORY

The University of North Carolina, one of the institutions involved in the first intercollegiate football game in the state of North Carolina's history, holds a special place in the annals of the game, both in the Tar Heel state and the nation as a whole.

Carolina, which began playing the sport in 1888, will embark on its 102nd season of football competition in 1992. The Tar Heels do that with a history of gridiron greatness, including some of the top coaches in the game, a lineage of talented running backs and one of the most beautiful and historic stadiums in college football. All factors considered, Carolina's football tradition is one of the most respected in both the South and the entire United States.

Surprisingly, football is actually not the oldest varsity sport at UNC. Baseball is accorded that honor, having fielded its first varsity squad back in 1867. But while football started 21 years later, its history is replete with memories that have thrilled legions of Carolina fans as the decades have elapsed.

The Early Days

The first UNC team competed back in 1888 and played but two games, losing both and being outscored 22-4. That inauspicious beginning belies the success of the program since then, but those football pioneers are nevertheless credited with starting football at Carolina.

In the fall of 1888, the sophomore class at UNC had formed a team and after vanquishing all the other classes at UNC, began to look around for stiffer opposition. The UNC team challenged the Wake Forest squad to a game which was scheduled during the State Fair in Raleigh on October 18, 1888. Wake won the game 6-4 in what came to be acknowledged as the first intercollegiate football game in the history of the state of North Carolina.

Later that same fall, Carolina challenged Trinity (now Duke) to a Thanksgiving Day contest in Raleigh that drew a crowd of 600 for a 16-0 Trinity triumph. One member of that 1888 UNC team was John Motley Morehead, who went on to great fame as the founder of Union Carbide and who endowed the Morehead Scholarship program and several buildings on the Carolina campus.

That first Carolina team's results may not have been what was expected, but the leaders of the '88 team did get the ball rolling. In Carolina's first 101 seasons of football competition, the Tar Heels have compiled a record of 529-389-54, a winning percentage of .572. Carolina has played in 16 bowl games in its history and won five Southern Conference championships and five Atlantic Coast Conference titles.

Twenty-two Tar Heel players have been honored as first-team All-Americas on 27 occasions. Carolina had 32 All-Southern Conference selections when it played in that league until 1952 and since joining the ACC in 1953, has had 135 first-team All-ACC choices.

Just a few months after the loss to Trinity in 1888, UNC acquired the services of Hector Cowan, former great tackle and captain at Princeton, to help teach the UNC players the fundamentals of the game. Cowan arrived in February 1889 and drilled the Tar Heel troops on the existing athletic field, located on the current site of Bynum Hall.

The 1889 team played two games in the spring and two in the fall. On March 1, 1889, Carolina earned its first win in football as it routed Wake Forest 33-0 before a crowd of 500 in Raleigh. UNC went on to post a 2-2 record that year and earn a share of the state championship with Trinity and Wake Forest.

After a Carolina player suffered a broken collarbone that fall, the University faculty voted to discontinue the sport of football in January 1890 and Carolina did not compete at all the following fall. That is one of only three years since the start of football in 1888 in which the Tar Heels have not fielded a team; play was also suspended during World War I in 1917 and 1918.

The following year, students petitioned to have football restored at UNC and the ban was lifted with the help of Professors Horace Williams, F.P. Venable and Eban Alexander. At this time, athletic control passed from the hands of students to the faculty, a situation that still exists today.

Football returned to UNC that fall with W.P. Graves as coach and UNC compiling an 0-2 record.

The following year, 1892, is considered by most to be the first year of real football at UNC with a representative six-game schedule being played. That squad also earned the distinction of being UNC's first good team. Mike Hoke acted as team captain and the entire squad consisted of just 15 players, with UNC using only one substitute the entire season. The team opened the year with a 40-0 rout of Richmond and after a loss to Virginia in the next game, it went on to win its last four. Carolina's 5-1 mark was the best record in the South that year. That season also marked the first year in which University teams were referred to as "Carolina," with the appellations "University" and "Chapel Hill" being dropped from the popular vernacular.

A meeting in February 1893 signalled the start of the formation of what would become the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association in later years. Ten schools, including UNC, were involved in the meeting and Dr. Venable was voted temporary chairman of the group. Later that same year, on May 12, the UNC athletic association approved the awarding of varsity letters for the first time.

Although the 1893 team managed only a 3-4 record, it did have the distinction of being the first Southern team to play in New York City as Carolina lost a 34-0 decision to Lehigh on November 25, 1893. A year later, Carolina brought in Vernon K. Irvine from Princeton as coach and he led Carolina to a 6-3 mark, attesting to the fact that experienced coaching benefitted the team's performance. That UNC team finished second in the South and won the state championship. It was also the first to be forced to stage closed practices because of problems with crowd control at open sessions.

In 1895, T.C. "Doggie" Trenchard came from Princeton to coach the Tar Heels and he led UNC to an outstanding 7-1-1 season marred only by a loss to Virginia. A crowd of 12,000 was on hand for the meeting between the Tar Heels and the Cavaliers in Richmond, which UVa won 6-0. Twice during the game spectators ran onto the field to block the path of Tar Heel runners who had broken into the clear on apparent touchdown runs.

Carolina began to gain some consistency in the sport of football with the arrival of Will A. Reynolds of Princeton as head coach in 1897. Reynolds produced four winning Carolina teams in his four-year tenure at Chapel Hill. His first squad finished at 7-3 and was followed in 1898 by what is still the only unbeaten, untied team in school history. That 1898 squad was a perfect 9-0 and outscored its opponents by an amazing 201-8. The team finished the season by beating Virginia for the first time in six years, 6-2, in Richmond.

Reynolds' final two teams also posted respectable records, going 7-3-1 in 1889 and 4-1-3 in 1900.

Reynolds yielded the coaching reins after the 1900 season to Charles Jenkins, who led UNC to seven straight wins prior to a pair of season-ending losses in 1901. Carolina beat all of its state opponents to win its seventh state championship since 1892. In 1901, letters began to be awarded by an advisory committee of the athletic association. Previously, anyone who played had lettered.

Kenan Stadium played host to its first game on November 12, 1927. This photograph was taken in January of that year as work clearing the forests had just begun.

The next 11 seasons saw Carolina with nine different head coaches. The 1905 Carolina squad was coached by William Warner, the brother of the famed "Pop" Warner.

Trenchard returned as Carolina's coach in 1913 for a three-year run. His 1914 squad was outstanding. Sixty men reported for the team and UNC went on to win its first 10 before losing to Virginia 20-3 before a record crowd of 15,000 in Richmond. That UNC team outscored its opponents 359-42 and became the first team in the South to display players' numbers on their jerseys.

Trenchard's 1915 squad did not fare as well, finishing the campaign with a 4-3-1 mark. Seven regulars missed the VMI game and the reserves struggled, fumbling 16 times en route to a 3-3 tie. That same year, Trenchard started the first athletic training table at UNC in his home, feeding the 56 squad members on a daily basis.

The year 1916 found the Tar Heels in a new home as Carolina began to play its games at Emerson Stadium, the site of the current Davis Library. Freshmen were banned from varsity participation for the first time and the team went 5-4 and won its sixth successive state championship.

All of the members of the 1916 squad had entered the military service in World War I by the following fall and varsity football was dropped for the second time in UNC history, this time for a two-year hiatus.

Carolina made its full-fledged return to the gridiron in 1919, going 4-3-1 under Coach Thomas J. Coleman. Carolina twice broke its single game home attendance record that year as it won the state championship. The Tar Heels defeated N.C. State, 13-12, before a crowd of 7,500 and then topped that with 9,000 for a 6-0 win over Virginia. That game marked the first time the Cavaliers had ever played in Chapel Hill.

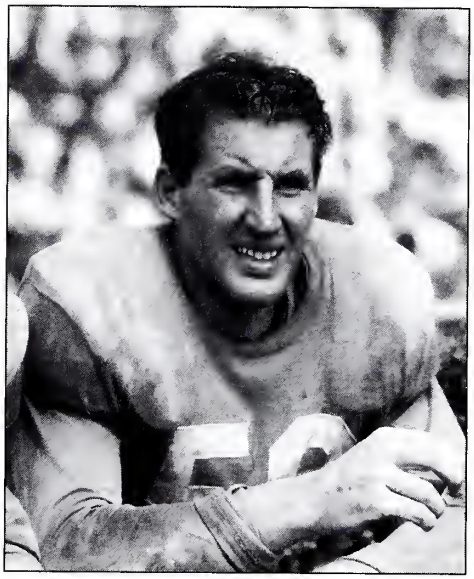
The Fetzers Take Charge and a Conference Takes Shape

The 1920 campaign was a dismal one as UNC went 2-6 and scored only 16 points in eight games. But a more positive era in North Carolina football began a year later with the hiring of Bill and Bob Fetzer as co-head coaches. Their hiring also marked a change in athletic policy at UNC as the Fetzers were assured of long-term positions instead of the usual one-year contracts. Carolina went 5-2-2 under the Fetzers in 1921 and 10,000 filled Emerson Field for Carolina's 7-3 win over Virginia.

That year also marked the first for UNC's participation in the Southern Intercollegiate Conference, the official name for what has come to be known today simply as the Southern Conference. At a February 25, 1921 meeting in Atlanta, the SIC was formed with a 16-school membership. The conference agreed to bans on post-season play, freshman eligibility and athletic training tables, required eligibility forms for players and disallowed organized practice before September 10.

Carolina would go on to have great success in the Southern Conference, tying for the league crown in 1922 and winning it outright in 1934, 1937, 1946 and 1949.

The Fetzers' greatest team was probably the 1922 edition which posted an impressive 9-1 mark, won the South Atlantic championship and tied for the Southern Conference crown. That team lost only to Yale, 18-0, and had three touchdowns called back by penalties in the game. The squad was ranked 11th in the nation by I.B. Thomas in the January 1923 issue of Intercollegiate Athletics and played before a record 68,500 fans during the course of the campaign.



Art Weiner is one of the all-time Carolina greats. Weiner caught 106 passes and had 18 touchdown receptions in his career from 1946-49. He will be inducted this December in the College Football Hall of Fame.

The 1923 team was ravaged by injuries but limped to a 5-3-1 record nevertheless and a state championship for a second straight year. A year later, the Tar Heels were only 4-5 but they did play before their largest crowd to that date, 25,000 at New Haven's Yale Bowl in a 27-0 loss to the Bulldogs.

The 1925 season would prove to be the Fetzers' last as co-coaches. The Tar Heels responded with an excellent season, going 7-1-1 and winning the state championship. The only loss came at the hands of Wake Forest. A crowd of 16,000 jammed Emerson Field (capacity 2,400) to see the Heels and Virginia play to a 3-3 tie in the season finale.

The following year began a new era in Carolina football as Chuck Collins came on the scene as head coach. He had the longest tenure (eight years) of the early Carolina coaches. Collins, who was one of the seven mules in the offensive line for Notre Dame's famed Four Horsemen, served as Carolina's coach from 1926 through 1933.

The 1926 season also brought onto the scene the infamous Kay Kyser, later to be a renowned Big Band leader and radio and motion pictures personality, as head cheerleader and his Cheerios as the first major organized cheer block at Carolina.

Majestic Kenan

New stadium plans were also in the works in 1926. Carolina alumni in Durham and Chapel Hill met on May 24, 1926 to form the Durham Stadium Committee. On November 13 of that same year, William Rand Kenan, a New York City engineer and 1893 UNC football letterman, gave the University a gift of $275,000 to help build the stadium.

The first game was played in Kenan Stadium on November 12, 1927 with UNC beating Davidson 27-0 before a crowd of 9,000 fans. The following Saturday, UNC beat two-touchdown favorite Duke 18-0 in Durham. The stadium was officially dedicated on Thanksgiving Day 1927 with 28,000 attending as Carolina edged Virginia 14-13. John Sprunt Hill officially made the presentation of the stadium to Governor A.W. McLean who accepted on behalf of the University and state.

Carolina won its first state championship since 1925 during the 1928 season. Its 5-3-2 record that year included a 65-0 win over Wake Forest in the season opener. That still stands as the largest margin of victory in UNC history. President Calvin Coolidge attended the Carolina-Virginia game in Charlottesville that year and saw the Tar Heels pull out a 24-20 win. It was the first time a U.S. President had ever attended a game in the South.

Collins' first great team was the 1929 edition which went 9-1 and outscored its opponents 346-60. The only loss of the year came to Georgia and only Southern California scored more points during the course of the season. Ray Farris was the captain of that UNC team and was a unanimous All-Southern Conference choice at guard. Carolina was called the "Team of a Million Backs" and drew a record attendance of 139,500.

The 1931 team coached by Collins went 4-3-3 and won the state championship. The Carolina-Duke game went big time for the first time that year as a crowd of 20,000 in Durham watched the two teams play to their second straight scoreless tie. Johnny Branch, a great all-purpose runner, was the star of that squad.

"King Carl" Reigns

The quiet Dutchman, Carl Snavely, came to Chapel Hill in 1934 from Bucknell to take over the coaching reins of the Tar Heels. It would be the first of two tours of duty for Snavely as head coach. The 1934 team went 7-1-1 and was led by George Barclay, UNC's first All-America in football, at guard. Carolina lost only to Tennessee and it tied N.C. State that season. The Carolina-Duke game drew state and Kenan record crowds as the Tar Heels eked out a 7-0 victory.

The 1935 team also proved to be a great one as Snavely led his squad to an 8-1 record. Carolina won its first seven of the season and there was talk that the Tar Heels were headed to the Rose Bowl. But arch-rival Duke made sure that didn't happen on Saturday, November 16 in Durham as the Blue Devils played an errorless game, winning 25-0. That game drew a new Southern attendance record of 47,000 and in total 149,500 saw UNC play during the course of the year, another record. After losing to Duke, UNC came back to pummel Virginia 61-0 and ended up eighth in the final Associated Press rankings. Ace passer Don Jackson was named a second-team All-America.

Ray Wolf came to Carolina in 1936 to coach after Snavely had gone on to Cornell. Wolf had six successful seasons at UNC, producing winning teams the first five. The 1936 team went 8-2 and lost only to Tulane and Duke. That squad was led by end Andy Bershak, who was a second-team All-America in 1936 and a first teamer a year later. Wolf's teams continued their success, going 7-1-1, 6-2-1, 8-1-1 and 6-4 in subsequent years. Some of Wolf's outstanding players were Jim Lalanne, Paul Severin and George Stirnweiss.

The World War II years were an unsettled time in Carolina athletic history. From 1942 through 1944, UNC had three different head coaches who put makeshift teams through the paces against adjusted schedules which included some military teams. Jim Tatum, an outstanding player at Carolina in the 1930s, coached the 1942 unit. He would return for another coaching tenure later.

Snavely returned to Chapel Hill in 1945 and during the next five years produced some of the best teams in Carolina football history. His 1948 team finished third in the AP poll, the highest final ranking ever for the Tar Heels.

An Omaha, Neb. native, Snavely was a 1915 alumnus of Lebanon Valley College. He had coached Carolina teams in 1934 and 1935 to a 15-2-1 record and returned in 1945 after nine years at Cornell. In fact, at Cornell in 1940, Snavely was involved in an infamous contest which would be recounted repeatedly some 50 years after the fact. Snavely was the coach who, upon learning it had taken a fifth down for his Big Red to defeat Dartmouth, wired the opposing coach Red Blaik and relinquished the victory.

Of Choo Choo and Championships

His 1945 team did well, finishing 5-5 after winning only one game the previous season. Then the incomparable Charlie Justice arrived a year later, and with his compatriots, UNC went to three major bowl games and won two Southern Conference titles in the period from 1946-49.

Snavely's 1946 team was 8-2-1, won the Southern Conference championship and lost to Georgia, 20-10, in the Sugar Bowl. The 1947 team was probably the best of the four. It finished 8-2, winning its last seven, but went uninvited in the post-season. The 1948 unit had only a regular-season tie with William & Mary to mar its record. It went on to lose to Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl. Finally, the 1949 team was unbeaten in the conference and finished 7-4 overall, losing to Rice in the Cotton Bowl.

Two of the greatest to ever wear the Carolina Blue — 1970 All-America Don McCauley (left) and 1948-49 All-America Charlie Justice.

Justice was not the only star of those Snavely teams. Art Weiner and Ken Powell were tremendous ends on those teams and Hosea Rodgers was a great rugged fullback of the era.

But Justice was the main attraction unquestionably. He ran and passed for over 4,000 yards in his four-year career and he averaged over 42 yards a punt. He had only two punts blocked in his career and both of those were in the first game of his freshman year. When he was done after the 1949 season, Justice had established NCAA records in total offense and punting and was considered the greatest punter of all time.

As a triple-threat All-America halfback, Justice captured the imagination and fancy of the football fan as no one else ever had. He was idolized and the attention he received from the fans and the media was almost unheard of in that time.

A native of Asheville, he had served in the Navy in World War II and was already 26 years old by the time of his senior year in 1949. He capped his amazing career by being named the Most Valuable Player in the 1950 College All-Star Game in Chicago.

The '50s, '60s and the ACC

The departure of Justice from campus coincided with a 20-year drought in UNC's football fortunes. Snavely, despite all his earlier successes, could not produce a winning team after the Justice era. George Barclay, Carolina's first All-America player back in 1934, was brought in as head coach, but he encountered little success in his three years of running the program. That's when Carolina successfully lured Jim Tatum back to the fold. Tatum was a great UNC player in the 1930s and had coached the Tar Heels during World War II in 1942. He had since been at Maryland where he led the Terrapins to the national championship in 1953.

Tatum's first season back in Chapel Hill, in 1956, was rather undistinguished. The Tar Heels went 2-7-1 with victories over Virginia and Maryland. In 1957, in Tatum's first return trip to College Park where he had enjoyed so much success, the Carolina-Maryland game was marked by the appearance of Queen Elizabeth II. The queen and her entourage watched the Terrapins beat the Tar Heels 21-7. But that 1957 team finished 6-4 as did the 1958 team under Tatum's steady leadership.

It appeared Carolina had the corner turned when Tatum died suddenly in the summer of 1959 from Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. He was replaced by assistant Jim Hickey whose teams did not meet with a great deal of success in his eight seasons as head coach. Hickey produced only one winning record, that in 1963 when the Tar Heels finished 9-2 and shared their first Atlantic Coast Conference title.

That team went on to post the school's first win in a bowl game, a 35-0 decision over Air Force in the Gator Bowl. That 1963 squad was led by the running of Ken Willard, the passing of Junior Edge and Gary Black and the pass receiving of Bob Lacey. Linebacker Chris Hanburger was a stalwart on defense for the Tar Heels.

Rebirth Under Dooley

After Hickey resigned after a 2-8 season in 1966, UNC looked to Bill Dooley to revitalize its football fortunes. The choice proved to be a wise one. Dooley's teams won 69, lost 53 and tied two in his 11-year tenure. ACC championships were won under Dooley in 1971, 1972 and 1977. Bowl trips became a regular feature — six in all during the Dooley years.

After three rebuilding seasons, Dooley's first good team was in 1970. It finished 8-4 and went on to play Arizona State in the Peach Bowl. Tailback Don McCauley, who had gained 1,092 yards rushing in 1969, returned for a 1,720-yard season in 1970. He was the first of UNC's 20 1,000-yard rushers. The Garden City, N.Y. native's 1,720 yards in 1970 broke what was then O.J. Simpson's single-season NCAA rushing standard.

Dooley's teams won back-to-back ACC titles in 1971 and 1972. The '71 team lost to Georgia 7-3 in the Gator Bowl in a matchup of coaching brothers, Vince Dooley being the head mentor of the Bulldogs. The 1972 team had an 11-1 record marred only by a loss at Ohio State. It won a thrilling 32-28 decision from Texas Tech in the Sun Bowl.

Bill Dooley gets a victory ride after the Tar Heels clinched the 1971 ACC championship.

The mid-1970s brought more success as UNC made bowl appearances in 1974 (Sun), 1976 (Peach) and 1977 (Liberty). Sammy Johnson was a 1,000-yard rusher for Carolina in 1973 as was James Betterson in 1974. But the outstanding offensive player of this era was Mike Voight who gained over 1,000 yards in 1974, 1975 and 1976, including 1,407 yards in '76. Voight was named the ACC Player of the Year in both 1975 and '76 for his efforts.

The 1977 team would prove to be Dooley's last at UNC. It won the ACC title and earned a berth opposite Nebraska in the Liberty Bowl. A rugged defense led by All-America tackle Dee Hardison helped Carolina lead the nation in scoring defense that season. UNC allowed only 81 points in 11 regular-season games. The new offensive star was a freshman tailback named Amos Lawrence, who rushed for 1,211 yards and was named ACC Rookie of the Year.

Headline Acts: Famous Amos, LT and KB

Dooley resigned in January 1978 to accept the dual role of head football coach and athletic director at Virginia Tech. At that time, Carolina turned to the "Cradle of Coaches" at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, to find its new head coach, Dick Crum.

Crum had just completed an outstanding four-year run at Miami. His 10 years as head coach at UNC was equally brilliant. The winningest coach in Tar Heel history, he compiled a 72-41-3 ledger at the UNC helm. He took six of his 10 UNC teams to bowl games, winning on four occasions, and the 1980 squad won the ACC championship.

After a 5-6 record in 1978, Crum's teams from 1979 through 1983 went to five successive bowls and won 45 games. UNC posted four consecutive bowl wins over national football powers, beating Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl, Texas in the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl, Arkansas in the 1981 Gator Bowl and Texas again in the 1982 Sun Bowl.

In 1980 and 1981, UNC became the first team in league history to finish in the Top 10 of both wire service polls in successive years. The 1980 team was 11-1 and ranked ninth by United Press International and 10th by Associated Press. The 1981 unit was 10-2 and rated eighth by UPI and ninth by AP. Two more Carolina teams coached by Crum would later go to Bowl games, the 1983 team to the Peach Bowl to face Florida State and the 1986 corps to the Aloha Bowl for a meeting with Arizona.

Mike Voight became the first Tar Heel to rush for 1,000 yards three times and was the ACC Player of the Year in 1975 and 1976.

There was a plethora of outstanding players at Carolina during the Crum era and the Tar Heel football record book was being constantly updated. In 1980, linebacker Lawrence Taylor was named the ACC Player of the Year and he has gone on to All-Pro status with the New York Giants. That season, Taylor led what was one of the greatest defenses in ACC history.

Other great defensive players at UNC included linebacker Buddy Curry, defensive tackle Donnell Thompson, linebacker

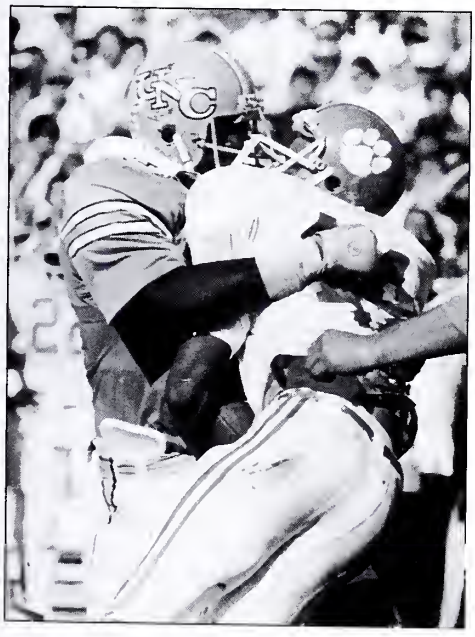
Amos Lawrence rushed for 100 yards or more a Carolina-record 25 times.

Darrell Nicholson, defensive back Steve Streater, defensive tackle William Fuller and outside linebacker Mike Wilcher. All of those players were All-ACC selections and several went on to have distinguished pro careers. Fuller made four first-team All-America squads in 1983.

Although Crum's teams were known for their rugged defense, Carolina also excelled offensively, leading the ACC in total offense four times in the 1980s and ranking sixth nationally in 1986.



Lawrence Taylor may be the greatest defensive player in NFL history and was a fearsome hitter in his days at Carolina. In 1980, Taylor was named the ACC Player of the Year.

There were several reasons behind the offensive fireworks. First, there was a succession of outstanding running backs. Five different players gained 1,000 or more yards rushing in a season a total of 10 times under Crum's tutelage. After his brilliant freshman year, Lawrence went on to gain 1,000 yards three more times. He and Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett are the only two runners in college football history to gain 1,000 yards rushing in each of their four seasons. Kelvin Bryant overcame an injury-marred career to gain 1,000 yards on three occasions. Ethan Horton turned the trick twice in his career and both Tyrone Anthony and Derrick Fenner had one 1,000-yard rushing season each.

A second reason behind UNC's offensive success was the presence of some outstanding offensive linemen in the '80s, four of whom gained first-team All-America status - guard Ron Wooten in 1980, guard David Drechsler in 1981 and '82, tackle Brian Blados in 1983 and tackle Harris Barton in 1986.

Carolina's offense also became more diversified in the Crum era and the passing section of the Carolina record book was basically rewritten at that time by a string of accomplished starters at quarterback-Matt Kupec, Rod Elkins, Scott Stankavage, Kevin Anthony and Mark Maye.

Enter Mack Brown

At the conclusion of the 1987 season, Crum resigned to return home to his native Ohio. Carolina conducted a national search to find a successor to lead the Tar Heels into their second century. The unanimous choice of the search committee was Mack Brown, who came to Carolina after head coaching stops at Appalachian State and Tulane. He is considered nationally as one of the finest young minds in the game, a brilliant motivator and communicator.

Caught with slim material, Brown's first two teams struggled. However, there were some bright individual stars for Carolina in that period, including center Jeff Garnica. He was a third-team All-America and the Jacobs Blocking Trophy recipient in 1988 as the best offensive lineman in the ACC. Offensive guard Pat Crowley became only the second offensive lineman in ACC history to be named All-ACC in three successive years when he accomplished that feat in 1989.

The blocking of those two players was instrumental in tailback Kennard Martin leading the ACC in rushing in 1988 with 1,146 yards. Martin thus became the 19th runner in Tar Heel history to gain 1,000 yards in a season.

The Tar Heels turned things around in 1990, however, and put together a solid 6-4-1 record and even returned to the Top 25 at one point in the season. Inside linebacker Dwight Hollier led the ACC in tackles for the second consecutive season and rookie tailback Natrone Means capped a stellar second half of the season with a 256-yard, three-touchdown effort vs. Duke. Along the way, Carolina tied Georgia Tech 13-13; the stalemate proved to be the only blemish on the Yellow Jackets' otherwise-perfect national championship ledger.

Last year, Means became the 11th Tar Heel to rush for more than 1,000 yards for an NCAA-record 20th time. Means ran for 1,030 yards and topped the 1,000-yard plateau on an electrifying, 68-yard scamper in the Tar Heels' 47-14 rout over Duke. Means, inside linebacker Tommy Thigpen and offensive guard Brian Bollinger each were first-team All-ACC selections. Carolina's seven All-ACC players were the most since 1982.

FOOTBALL BOWL COALITION

The Orange, Sugar, Cotton and Fiesta Bowls (Tier One) have joined with the Atlantic Coast Conference, the Big East Football Conference and the University of Notre Dame in a partnership to provide the opportunity for the champions of the Atlantic Coast and Big East Conferences and Notre Dame to appear in one of the aformentioned bowl games each year.

In addition, the ACC and Big East champions are guaranteed a spot in the Orange, Sugar or Cotton Bowl each year.

The current commitments of the conference champions of the Big Eight to the Orange Bowl, Southeastern to the Sugar Bowl and Southwest to the Cotton Bowl remain intact, leaving two additional berths open in the four Tier One coalition bowls.

These two spots will be filled from a pool of "at large" teams which will include the next best team (as selected by the Tier One coalition bowls) from the following five conferences — Atlantic Coast, Big East, Big Eight, PAC-10 (whose champion remains committed to the Rose Bowl) and Southwest.

The three "at large" teams NOT selected to the Tier One coalition bowls will then be available for selection to the Tier Two bowls of the coalition.

The Tier Two bowls include the Gator, Blockbuster and John Hancock Bowls. The team selection date for all the bowls involved in the coalition (Tier One and Two) will be following the completion of regular season play.

The selection process is as follows:

1. Whenever Notre Dame, the ACC and the Big East champions occupy the number one and two rankings in the final regular season Associated Press poll, they must play the national championship game in the Fiesta Bowl.

2. Whenever the number one or two team in the final regular season Associated Press poll come from among the ACC champion, Big East champion or Notre Dame, and the host conference champion from among the Sugar, Cotton or Orange Bowl is ranked number one or two, these teams must play one another in the bowl of the host conference champion.

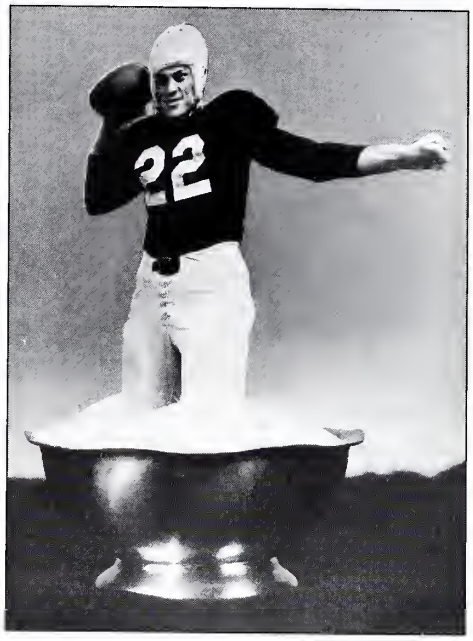
3. Barring the above circumstances, the Orange, Sugar and Cotton Bowls will select first in order of the final rankings of their respective host conference champions. Following that selection, the Fiesta Bowl will have two selections from the remaining pool of five teams.

4. Once these selections have been completed the remaining three "at large" teams will be available to the Tier Two bowls (Gator, Blockbuster, John Hancock) which will select one team each in order of per team net payout.

5. The ACC and Big East champions and Notre Dame have the right to pass a Tier One selection for a higher payout, to avoid a rematch of a regular season game or to avoid playing in a particular bowl game for the third consecutive year.

6. A team may pass a selection to a Tier Two bowl only to avoid a rematch of a regular season game or to avoid playing in a particular bowl game for a third consecutive year.

Additionally, the ACC has reached an agreement with the Peach Bowl which guarantees a conference team in the bowl for each of the next three seasons. After the Tier One and Two selections have been made, the Peach Bowl will select a team based on: (1) ACC standings; (2) national rankings; (3) strength of schedule.



As this snapshot from the past shows, the Tar Heels played in the Sugar Bowl in 1947 and 1949. Now the chance to return to New Orleans is possible with the arrival of the football bowl coalition.

CAROLINA BOWL HISTORY

1947 SUGAR BOWL
January 1, 1947

GEORGIA 20
North Carolina 10

NEW ORLEANS, La. — The 1947 Sugar Bowl, which matched Carolina against Georgia, is one of the most famous Tar Heel games of the Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice years and produced one of the most controversial plays in bowl history.

Carolina was leading 7-0 in the third period when Bulldog defensive right end Joe Terreshinski intercepted a Tar Heel pass at the Georgia 24-yard line. He then flipped a lateral to Dick McPhee who raced 52 yards to the Carolina 14.

The Tar Heels argued the lateral was a forward one and the play should have been called back. However, the officials ruled differently. Georgia went on to score the tying touchdown on a quarterback sneak by Johnny Rauch.

Carolina's lone touchdown came on a Walt Pupa two-yard run following an interception by Tar Heel guard Bob Mitten.

The Tar Heels' last lead at 10-7 came on a Bob Cox field goal.

The Georgia game-winner came on a 67-yard touchdown pass from Trippi to Dan Edwards less than three minutes after the UNC field goal.

The Dawgs' Charley Trippi rushed for 77 yards, while Justice carried 18 times for 37 yards.

1949 SUGAR BOWL

OKLAHOMA 14
North Carolina 6

NEW ORLEANS, La. — The Tar Heels returned to the Sugar Bowl in 1949 and were defeated 14-6 by the University of Oklahoma, representing the Big Seven Conference. A record crowd of 85,000 turned out to see the Charlie Justice-led Tar Heels battle Bud Wilkinson's Sooners.

Carolina threatened early, advancing via a Justice to Art Weiner 23-yard pass play to the OU 15. Justice's next pass, however, was intercepted by linebacker Myrle Greathouse who rumbled 59 yards to the Carolina 13. Sooners' quarterback Jack Mitchell scored the first points of the day on a two-yard run.

The Heels capitalized on an OU fumble later in the first quarter and Justice marched the team down to the two, from where Hosea Rodgers scored. The conversion was wide right.

Carolina advanced to the OU eight late in the first half, but could not score.

The Sooners regained the lead for good in the third quarter. Quarterback Darrell Royal connected for 37 yards with Frankie Anderson and two plays later, Lindell Pearson ran it in from eight yards out.

Justice was brilliant, rushing for 84 yards and passing for another 57.

RICE 27
North Carolina 13

DALLAS, Texas — Charlie Justice had another great day in the 1950 Cotton Bowl, but it just wasn't enough as the Tar Heels fell to fifth-ranked Rice, 27-13. The Owls had a 9-1-0 record, while Carolina came in at 7-3 and was ranked 16th.

Rice and Carolina played to a scoreless draw in the opening quarter, but Rice opened the scoring in the second quarter when quarterback Tobin Rote hooked up with Billy Burkhalter for a 44-yard touchdown. Bobby Lantrip's three-yard run built a 14-0 halftime lead, and once the third quarter got underway, the Owls kept right on rolling.

On its second possession of the second half, Rice traveled 77 yards in six plays, capped by Rote's 17-yard scoring pass to "Froggie" Williams. Burkhalter made it 27-0 with a 12-yard fourth quarter score.

The Tar Heels got two touchdowns in the final eight minutes. Justice hit Paul Rizzo for a two-yard touchdown pass and then Rizzo ran it in from two yards.

Justice managed 59 yards rushing and another 63 in the air, while Art Weiner led the Tar Heels with five receptions for 41 yards. Billy Hayes tapped the UNC rushing attack with 107 yards on 19 carries.

The 1950 Cotton Bowl marked the end of the "Chao-Chao" Justice era that began in 1946. The Tar Heels went 32-9-2 in that time and played in three major bowl games.

NORTH CAROLINA	35

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — It had been 13 years since Charlie Justice had led Carolina to the 1950 Cotton Bowl, so when the Tar Heels got a chance to play in the 1963 Gator Bowl, they made the most of it. The Tar Heels walloped the Air Force, 35-0.

Ken Willard was the hero of the day. He ran for 94 yards on 18 carries and scored the first touchdown which keyed the runaway victory. When Willard wasn't running in this rout, he did his share of the offensive blocking.

Joe Robinson scored on a five-yard pass and also caught a two-yard conversion to give the Tar Heels a 20-0 lead at intermission.

Coach Jim Hickey's Tar Heels had 23 first downs to the Academy's 14, and piled up 370 yards in total offense compared to 260 for the Falcons.

Gary Black completed all six of his passes for 71 yards and one touchdown and he rushed for another score. Junior Edge was good on five of his nine throws for 42 yards.

Carolina finished the season 9-2, its best record in Hickey's eight years at the helm.

ARIZONA STATE 48

ATLANTA, Ga. — The Tar Heels exploded for 26 second quarter points but couldn't hold off Arizona State in the final two quarters as the Sun Devils rallied for an exciting 48-26 victory before 52,126 fans at Grant Field.

Carolina spotted unbeaten ASU 14 points on a pair of touchdowns runs, from eight and 33 yards, by Bob Thomas.

Don McCauley got the Tar Heels on the scoreboard with a one-yard plunge set up by a long pass from Paul Miller to Ricky Lanier. ASU scored on its next series, though, on a 67-yard TD catch by J.D. Hill.

Carolina then scored the final three touchdowns of the first half to go into the intermission with a 26-21 lead. First, Miller passed 37 yards for a score to Tony Blanchard. Then McCauley rushed in from 17 yards out. And finally, the All-America McCauley scored again from four yards.

Arizona State dominated a second half which was played in a heavy Atlanta snowstorm and without Miller, who left with an injury.

Monroe Ely scored twice and Thomas reached the end zone for the third time in the Sun Devils' 27-point second half.

In his final game as a Tar Heel, McCauley gained 143 yards on 36 carries.

GEORGIA 7
North Carolina 3

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — For the first time since 1950, the Tar Heels were playing in a bowl game for the second consecutive season. This time, the Tar Heels would fall, 7-3, to the Georgia Bulldogs.

The game produced a bowl first — brothers coaching against each other. Bill Dooley led the Tar Heels and older brother Vince coached the 'Dawgs.

The game was a defensive struggle with all the points coming in the third quarter.

In the opening half, Carolina had the best chance as linebacker Jimmy Webster, voted the Tar Heels' MVP this day, blocked a punt out of bounds at the Georgia 24. A fumble, though, denied Carolina any points.

A pair of long runs by Lewis Jolley brought the Tar Heels down to the Georgia 16 on UNC's first possession of the second half. But a procedure penalty forced the Heels to settle for a 35-yard field goal by Ken Craven.

A 31-yard pass play from Andy Johnson to Roy Hunnicutt set up the Georgia touchdown. Jimmy Poulos, on the very next play following Hunnicutt's catch, took it in for a score from 25 yards. Poulos rushed for 161 yards on the afternoon and was named the Georgia MVP.

Head coach Bill Dooley and quarterback/defensive back John Swofford were members of Carolina's 1970 Peach Bowl and 1971 Gator Bowl teams. Dooley is now head coach at Wake Forest, while Swofford is entering his 13th year as the Tar Heels' athletic director.

NORTH CAROLINA 32

EL PASO, Texas — Carolina capped an 11-1 season in the 1972 Sun Bowl by defeating Texas Tech, 32-28. Quarterback Nick Vidnovic brought the Tar Heels from behind with a late scoring drive which he capped by tossing a 13-yard touchdown pass to wingback Ted Leverenz.

That play, with a minute to go in the game, gave UNC a 30-28 lead. Carolina added two points moments later as Ronnie Robinson sacked quarterback Joe Barnes in the end zone.

The Tar Heels led 9-0 in the second quarter on a field goal by Ellis Alexander and touchdown run by Dick Oliver. The Red Raiders rallied, however, for the next 21 points and a 21-9 lead. Vidnovic hit Leverenz for a 62-yard touchdown and Billy Hite carried it in from three yards to reestablish a 24-21 Carolina lead. Tech gained the advantage, 28-24, with 7:41 to play in the game.

Vidnovic completed 14-of-26 passes for 215 yards and two touchdowns. Ike Oglesby rushed for 71 yards and Sammy Johnson added 52.

The Red Raiders had a touchdown called back in the second quarter. All-America guard Donald Rives ran a blocked punt back for an apparent score, but Tech was flagged for unsportsmanlike conduct and the points were nullified.

EL PASO, Texas — Despite mounting 402 yards in total offense, the Tar Heels dropped a 26-24 decision to Mississippi State in a record-setting Sun Bowl.

Terry Vitrano's two-yard touchdown with 3:41 remaining was the game-winner. That capped a 16-play, 80-yard drive which lasted nearly seven minutes.

Carolina had taken a 24-20 lead with 10:26 to play on an Ellis Alexander field goal.

The Bulldogs totaled a Sun Bowl record 499 yards in total offense — 455 of those yards came on the ground via the veer offense. Walter Packer rushed for 189 yards, Vitrano added 164 and quarterback Rockey Felker gained another 69.

The Tar Heels also got big ground gains from Mike Voight and James Betterson. Voight picked up 90 yards on 17 carries and Betterson chipped in with 84 on 17 rushes. But Voight was stopped a yard shy of a first down on Carolina's last offensive play of the game.

Betterson had two rushing scores and Chris Kupec, who led the nation in pass completion percentage, connected with Jimmy Jerome for 28 yards and a touchdown.

ATLANTA, Ga. — Playing without an injured Mike Voight, the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year, the Tar Heels managed just five first downs and 108 yards total offense in a 21-0 loss to Kentucky.

Voight, who had rushed for 1,407 yards, injured his ankle in practice two days before the game when he stepped in hole going out on a pass play. Ironically, Voight had caught just four passes the entire season.

The teams battled to a tie at the half, but Carolina thought it had put up points in the first quarter. On the Tar Heels' opening drive, Matt Kupec hit split end Walker Lee with a 50-yard touchdown pass, but officials ruled the Tar Heels offside and the play came back.

Early in the third quarter, Kentucky defensive end Bud Diehl knocked the ball from Kupec's grasp and the 'Cats recovered at the UNC 21. That set up the first of three rushing touchdowns by fullback Rod Stewart.

Stewart, who finished with 104 yards and the game's MVP trophy, added fourth quarter scores from 13 and three yards.

Subbing for Voight, freshman Doug Paschal led the Tar Heels with 41 yards rushing.

NEBRASKA	21
North Carolina	17

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Thirteenth-ranked Nebraska scored two fourth quarter touchdowns and rallied for a 21-17 victory over 13th-rated North Carolina.

Reserve quarterback Randy Garcia came off the Cornhuskers' bench in the final period to toss a pair of touchdown passes, including a 33-yard game-winner to Tim Smith with 3:16 left in the game. That came six plays after Nebraska recovered a fumble at the UNC 43.

Tar Heel quarterback Matt Kupec, voted the game's Most Valuable Player despite the loss, had led UNC to a 17-7 lead in the third quarter. Kupec, who connected on seven of his 11 passes, threw touchdown passes to Bobby Williams and Bob Loomis. Tom Biddle added Carolina's final points with 4:17 left in the third on a Liberty Bowl record 47-yard field goal.

Carolina led the nation in scoring defense in 1977, allowing just 7.4 points per game through the regular season. Nebraska was the only team to score more than 14 points against the Tar Heels all season.

The 1977 Liberty Bowl would prove to be Coach Bill Dooley's last game at Carolina. Dooley resigned in January 1978 to accept the dual position of head football coach and athletic director at Virginia Tech.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Matt Kupec completed 18-of-28 passes for 161 yards and one touchdown and Amos Lawrence rushed for 118 yards to lead North Carolina to a 17-15 win over Michigan in one of the most exciting Gator Bowls ever.

Trailing 9-0, the Tar Heels rallied for the next 17 points and then held off a Michigan threat late in the game to post the first of Dick Crum's four consecutive bowl wins.

Carolina had two chances early on to score first, but high winds knocked down a pair of Jeff Hayes field goal attempts. Michigan did score first following a turnover and added a 53-yard touchdown reception by Anthony Carter to move ahead 9-0.

Doug Paschal put the Heels on the board with a two-yard touchdown. Early in the third, Kupec engineered a 16-play, 97-yard touchdown drive which culminated in a 12-yard pass to Phil Farris. Hayes added a 32-yard field goal in the fourth for a 17-9 UNC lead.

Michigan, thwarted once already in the fourth when Lawrence Taylor scooped up a loose ball, did manage another Carter touchdown with 1:28 left, but the two-point conversion pass to Carter fell short.

Kupec and Lawrence were named co-Most Valuable Players.

HOUSTON, Texas — Amos Lawrence rushed for 104 yards and one touchdown and the Tar Heel defense allowed just two first downs and 36 total yards in the second half as Carolina played error-free football to defeat Texas, 16-7 in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

Lawrence, the game's Most Valuable Offensive Player, scampered 59 yards for a touchdown on the Tar Heels' fourth play from scrimmage for a 7-0 lead. Following a Texas touchdown in the second quarter by Mike Luck, Carolina regained the advantage for good on a one-yard run by Kelvin Bryant.

Jeff Hayes converted a fumbled punt snap by the Longhorns into a 31-yard field goal with 2:03 to play in the third quarter.

The defense, which allowed 224 yards and 11 Texas first downs in the opening half, dominated the second 30 minutes. UNC safety Steve Streater was named the defensive MVP as he had an interception, recovered a fumble and also boomed a 63-yard punt, longest in Bluebonnet Bowl history.

Carolina's 11-1 record matched the best season in UNC history and the Tar Heels finished ranked eighth in the nation by the Associated Press and ninth by United Press International.

NORTH CAROLINA	31
Arkansas	27

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Kelvin Bryant rushed for 148 yards and Ethan Horton added 144 to lead the Tar Heels to a 31-27 victory over Arkansas in the Gator Bowl. Bryant and Horton shared Most Valuable Player honors, but it was a key defensive stop by seldom-used freshman Ronnie Snipes which saved the night for Carolina.

After building a 31-10 lead midway through the fourth quarter, Carolina watched as Arkansas rallied for two touchdowns and had the ball again inside Tar Heel territory with less than a minute to play. But on third down, Snipes, who had played just two previous downs in the contest, sacked quarterback Brad Taylor for a 17-yard loss.

The game was deadlocked at 10-10 at the half, but Carolina came right out to open third quarter and put together a 13-play, 85-yard drive which was capped by Horton's one-yard scoring run. UNC quarterback Rod Elkins scored on a one-yard sneak on the Tar Heels' next drive. He was set up by a 21-yard run by Horton and a 13-yard scamper by Bryant.

Horton then churned out 42 yards on six plays and went in from four yards out to give the Heels a 31-10 lead with 7:29 to play in the game.

The Razorbacks scored with 5:05 to play, recovered an onside kick and scored again with 2:44 left. UNC punter Jeff Hayes took an intentional safety with 1:44 to play. That gave the ball back to Arkansas and set up Snipes' defensive gem.

Carolina closed the season with a 10-2 record and became the first team in Atlantic Coast Conference history to finish in the Top 10 of both wire services in successive years. Carolina finished the year rated eighth by United Press International and ninth by Associated Press.

NORTH CAROLINA	26
Texas	10

EL PASO, Texas — North Carolina scored the final 23 points of the game in the final quarter and held seventh-ranked Texas to 48 total yards in the second half as the Tar Heels won their fourth consecutive bowl game, 26-10.

Ethan Horton was the offensive star of the game, rushing for 119 yards in the second half. He replaced injured starter Kelvin Bryant, who totaled 45 yards before leaving the game with an injured ankle.

Trailing 10-3 after three quarters, the Tar Heels vaulted into the lead via three consecutive field goals.

Sophomore walk-on Rob Rogers, who had connected from 53 yards in the second quarter, hit a 47-yard field goal with 14:51 to play to narrow the Texas lead to 10-6. Brooks Barwick was then successful from 24 and 42 yards, the latter putting the Heels into the lead at 12-10 with 4:56 left.

Ethan Horton romps through the cold and the snow on his way to 119 yards rushing in the 1982 Sun Bowl vs. Texas. Horton was named the Most Valuable Player as he led the Tar Heels to a 26-10 victory over the Longhorns.

Horton tacked on a three-yard touchdown with 2:17 remaining and Mike Wilcher fell on a loose ball in the end zone for another touchdown with 1:35 to play.

The defensive series of the game came five minutes into the third quarter with Texas leading 10-3 and with the ball, third-and-goal at the Carolina one.

Two times, Texas fullback Ervin Davis tried to find the end zone, but twice he was hurled back.

First, it was Wilcher who made the hit and then on fourth-and-goal, Greg Poole made the stop which changed the game.

The Christmas Day affair was played with intermittent snow flurries and a wind-chill reading that hovered around 12 degrees.

Carolina became the first Atlantic Coast Conference school to ever win four consecutive bowl games.

FLORIDA STATE	28
North Carolina	3

ATLANTA, Ga. — Florida State scored the first two times it had the ball and penalties and turnovers cost the Tar Heels dearly, as the Seminoles whipped Carolina 28-3 in a miserably cold and half empty Peach Bowl.

Played before only 25,648 fans in low-20 degree temperatures, the Peach Bowl loss snapped the Tar Heels' consecutive bowl game winning streak at four.

The Seminoles held the Tar Heels' running game to just 32 yards and three first downs. One thousand-yard rushers Ethan Horton and Tyrone Anthony were held to 30 and 27 yards, respectively.

Florida State quarterback Eric Thomas, making his first start, connected with Weegie Thompson on touchdown passes on the 'Noles' first two series.

Midway through the second quarter, the Tar Heels fumbled away a punt at their own 16 and FSU converted via a one-yard touchdown run.

Early in the fourth quarter, UNC quarterback Scott Stankavage hit tight end Arnold Franklin with a fourth down, 10-yard TD pass, but the play was called back due to a holding penalty. Carolina elected to kick for three and put up its only points of the day on Brooks Barwick's 36-yard field goal.

The loss was the fourth in the final five games of the season and ended a season in which Carolina had been ranked third in the nation.

ARIZONA	30
North Carolina	21

HONOLULU, Hawaii — The University of Arizona converted four North Carolina fumbles into 20 points and then held off a furious Tar Heel rally in the fourth quarter to win the 1986 Aloha Bowl, 30-21.

Carolina dug itself a 30-0 hole and did not put points on the board until freshman tailback Torin Dorn broke a 58-yard touchdown run with 2:19 left in the third quarter.

The Tar Heels fumbled five times in the first three periods and the Wildcats turned them into two touchdowns and two field goals.

Following Dorn's electrifying run, the Tar Heels quickly moved back within striking distance with two more touchdowns in the next seven minutes.

Mark Maye hit Randy Marriott with a six-yard touchdown pass after a Norris Davis interception and then followed a Davis punt block with a two-yard scoring run of his own to narrow the margin to 30-21 with 9:10 to play.

That, however, was as close as Carolina could challenge. A couple of dropped passes thwarted two more Carolina drives.

Dorn was the game's leading ground-gainer, rushing for 101 yards on only seven carries. Maye completed 17-of-34 passes for 171 yards; he hooked up with Eric Starr a game-high seven times for 53 yards. Carolina had 375 yards in total offense, compared to 342 for the Wildcats.

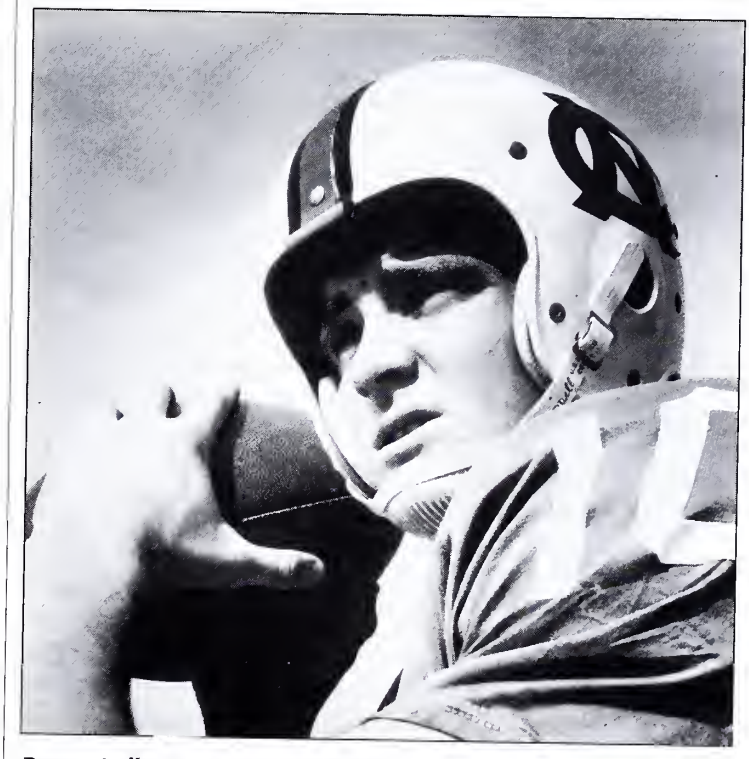
Justice Prevails in 1950 College All-Star Game

When Charlie Justice was selected to the 1950 College All-Star team to play against the Philadelphia Eagles, Justice was chosen only to return kickoffs. After the first return, however, Iowa coach Dr. Eddie Anderson instructed Justice and Eddie LeBaron to remain in at back and run the first series.

Justice ran wild, carrying the ball nine times for 133 yards and caught five passes. He had two long runs of 47 and 31 yards and caught a 60-yard touchdown pass from LeBaron. Justice was an overwhelming choice for Most Valuable Player honors. In making the MVP presentation, Wilfred Smith of the Chicago Tribune remarked, "No halfback has ever done better against the pro champions in the history of the game."



Danny Talbott was named the 1966 Atlantic Coast Conference Athlete of the Year following two-sports stardom in football and baseball. Talbott earned MVP honors at the 1966 East-West Shrine Game when he threw three touchdown passes and led the East to a 45-22 victory.

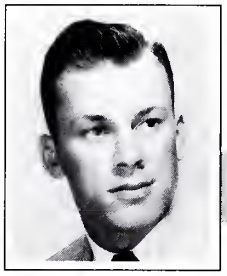
Talbott Outshines Big Stars at '66 Shrine Game

There were eight All-Americas on the East team at the 1966 East-West Shrine Game in San Francisco, but the man who shone the brightest was a Carolina quarterback who had led his Tar Heels to two wins the previous season — two-sport star Danny Talbott.

Talbott tied the East-West record for touchdown passes with three and led the East to a record 513 yards in a 45-22 victory. Talbott was a surprise starter, but quickly proved his worth by completing each of his initial 11 passes. Talbott connected on scoring strikes of 25 yards to Gene Washington (Michigan State), nine to Ken Last (Minnesota) and 14 to Jack Clancy (Michigan). Talbott was named the game's Most Valuable Player.

CAROLINA'S RETIRED NUMBERS

The number 22 was almost as well known in this state as the athlete who wore it — Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice. One of college football's all-time superstars, Justice was an All-America halfback at



22 CHARLIE JUSTICE

Carolina from 1946 to 1949. In fact, those years generally are known as simply "The Justice Era" in Chapel Hill.

Justice still holds numerous school records, including the career total offense mark. A tailback in Coach Carl Snavely's single-wing attack, he was a dynamic weapon as a runner, passer, punter and return specialist. Justice is a member of the College Football Hall of Fame.

(A lengthy story on his career appears on pages 160-61 of this brochure.)

Bill "Cotton" Sutherland was a blocking back on the first of the Justice teams in 1946. Although just a freshman from

46 COTTON SUTHERLAND

Laurinburg, he showed great promise as a player and was extremely popular with his teammates.

However, in the spring of 1947 he was killed in an automobile accident. Sutherland was named one of the Tar Heels' three captains for the 1947 season. Snavely was stunned by the loss of Sutherland's life and was instrumental in getting his number, 46, retired.

Number 50 belonged to Art Weiner, a two-time All-America end in the late Forties. It appeared Weiner was meant for stardom when he scored a touchdown on his first collegiate play against Virginia Tech in 1946.

In 1947 Weiner caught 20 passes for 396 years, averaging 19.8 yards a reception. It was an amazing total considering that the Tar Heels were a power-packed team, loaded with talent and featuring a number of outstanding ends.

However, Weiner's figures were to get even more impressive. He won All-America honors as a junior, catching 31 passes and finishing seventh in the nation in receiving.

As a senior he led the country in pass-catching with 52 receptions. That total still stands as the school single-season record. His 106 career catches are the second most in Tar Heel history.

But Weiner was more than just a great receiver. He was also a star defender in a time when players were expected to play both ways. In fact, his most famous play at Carolina probably was one he made on defense. He stormed through the Duke line to block a field goal attempt on the game's last play to preserve a 21-20 Tar Heel win over the Blue Devils in his senior year.

Weiner went on from Carolina to play in the Senior Bowl and was voted the game's outstanding lineman. He played briefly with the old New York Yankees, but a knee injury ended his career.

How great a player was Weiner?

Well, Wally Butts of Georgia, one of the game's winningest coaches and himself a former end, once called Weiner "the greatest pass-catching end I've ever seen."

In December of this year, Weiner will join college football's other immortals as he will be inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame.

Another end, Andy Bershak, wore 59. Also a two-way performer. Bershak won All-America honors in 1939. He was a brilliant defensive player and a solid receiver, leading the team in catches as a senior.

59 ANDY BERSHAK

Bershak also played basketball at Carolina. He wasn't a high scorer, but was a rugged rebounder and, as might be expected, an excellent defender.

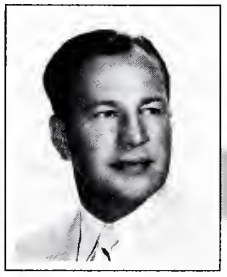
However, Bershak believed there was more to life than just athletics. He tried to excel in every phase of student life and did so. He was an honor student and a member of the Order of the Golden Fleece and the Order of the Grail, the University's two most prestigious honorary societies. He also served as president of the Athletic Association.

A man with a great love for his alma mater, he stayed on at Carolina as a graduate assistant coach.

Unfortunately, his life came to a tragic, early end. He came down with Bright's Disease and died in 1943.

Carolina's first All-America, George Barclay, wore the number 99. He was a three-year starter at offensive guard and linebacker. At 5-11 and 185 pounds, he excelled as a downfield blocker and was a tenacious tackler.

Barclay was a special thorn in the side of Virginia fans. In 1933 he intercepted a Cavalier pass and ran 35 yards for a touchdown as the Tar Heels scored a 14-0 victory. The following year he opened the game's scoring with a 55-yard interception return for a touchdown as Carolina won, 25-6. He is one of just four Tar Heel players to have two interception returns for touchdowns.



99 GEORGE BARCLAY

Carolina posted a 7-1-1 record in his senior year as Barclay became the school's first All-America player. He was named All-America by the Associated Press, Grantland Rice for Collier's, the All-America Board and Williamson.

A native of Natrona, Pa., Barclay worked for several seasons after graduation as an assistant coach at various institutions and became a head coach for the first time in 1950 at Washington and Lee.

Barclay became an assistant coach at UNC in 1952 and took over for Carl Snavely in 1953. Barclay held that post for three seasons. He returned to Carolina as an assistant coach in the mid-1960s.

Barclay was inducted into the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame in 1977.

TAR HEEL TRADITIONS

Why Tar Heels?

University of North Carolina athletic teams are known as the Tar Heels because North Carolina is "The Tar Heel State."

There are a number of different stories about how the nickname was originally acquired. The two most widely accepted explanations are repeated here. The fact that the production of tar, pitch and turpentine was for many years the state's principal industry is a key element in both stories.

One legend has the nickname being applied to the state's residents as long ago as the Revolutionary War. According to this story, the troops of British General Cornwallis were fording what is now known as the Tar River between Rocky Mount and Battleboro when they discovered that tar had been dumped into the stream to impede their crossing. When they finally got across the river they found their feet completely black with tar. Their observation that anyone who waded North Carolina rivers would acquire tar heels led to the nickname first being used.

Others say the nickname was acquired during the War Between the States. During one of that war's fiercest battles a column supporting North Carolina troops was driven from the field. After the battle, the North Carolinians who had successfully fought it out alone, happened to meet the regiment which had fled to safety and were greeted with the question, "Any more tar down in the Old North State, boys?"

"No, not a bit," shot back one of the North Carolina soldiers. "Old Jeff's bought it all up," he went on, referring to Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy.

"Is that so? What's he going to do with it?"

"He's going to put it on you'ns heels to make you stick better in the next fight."

Upon hearing of the incident, Robert E. Lee smiled and said to a fellow officer, "God bless the Tar Heel boys."

A letter found in 1991 by State Archivist David Olson lends credence to another more direct theory. A letter from Maj. Joseph Engelhard describes a fight involving men from North Carolina in which Lee was heard to have said, "There they stand as if they have tar on their heels."

The letter, dated August 24, 1864, told the tale of a battle on the outskirts of Petersburg, Va. Engelhard was elected secretary of state for North Carolina in 1876.

A Ram for a Mascot

For over 60 years the mascot of North Carolina's football team has been a ram. The current sideline star for the Tar Heels is Rameses XXVI.

Since Carolina's nickname is Tar Heels, it might seem strange to have a ram as a mascot. It is. But, there is a good explanation. It's offered by Vic Huggins, Carolina's head cheerleader back in 1924.

"In 1924 school spirit was at a peak," Huggins once explained. "But something seemed to be missing. One day it hit me. Georgia had a bulldog for a mascot and State a wolf. What Carolina needed was a symbol."

Two years earlier the Tar Heels had posted a brilliant 9-1 record. The star of that 1922 team was a bruising fullback named Jack Merritt. Merritt was nicknamed "the battering ram" for the way he plunged into lines. It seemed natural to Huggins to link a mascot with Merritt's unusual sobriquet.

"Charlie Woollen, the athletic business manager at that time, agreed with the idea and gave us $25 to purchase a fitting mascot," said Huggins.

Rameses the First was shipped in from Texas, arriving just in time to be introduced at a pep rally before the VMI game. Complete with a monogram blanket on his back, Rameses helped make the pep rally one of the school's greatest.

Then the ram was taken to Emerson Field where Carolina was an underdog to a strong VMI team. But, for three quarters the Tar Heels battled the visitors to a scoreless tie.

Late in the fourth period Carolina's Bunn Hackney was called upon to attempt a field goal. Before taking the field he stopped to rub Rameses' head for good luck.

Seconds later Hackney's 30-yard dropkick sailed between the goalposts, giving the Tar Heels a 3-0 victory and a legendary mascot.

From that November afternoon in 1924, the deeds and experiences of Rameses I and his successors have been the basis for countless anecdotes.

For instance, there was Rameses I making his first indoor appearance. Huggins was again the originator of the idea, the Tin Can was the scene and a basketball game was the event.

A theatrical debut with bright lights and a chorus was planned for the ram's introduction before a capacity audience. But when Rameses was led to midcourt at halftime, it became evident that he was not housebroken. In addition to being his first, that was also Rameses's last basketball game.

Tar Heel rams have traveled everywhere from New York City (for the Carolina-Notre Dame game in 1949) to Jacksonville for Carolina's Gator Bowl appearances.

Generally, the highlight of each season for Rameses is trying to outwit Duke students who always try to ram-nap him before the traditional big game with the Blue Devils.

ALMA MATER

Hark the sound of Tar Heel voices
Ringing clear and true
Singing Carolina's praises,
Shouting "NCU"

(chorus)
Hail to the brightest star of all!
Clear its radiance shine
Carolina, priceless gem,
Receives all praises thine.

(refrain)
For I'm a Tar Heel born
I'm a Tar Heel bred,
And when I die
I'm a Tar Heel dead.

So it's —
Rah Rah, Carolina-lina
Rah Rah, Carolina-lina
Rah Rah, Carolina!

School Colors

The adoption of light blue and white as the University of North Carolina's colors dates back to the 19th century.

When the University reopened following the War Between the States, most social activities were directed by two literary societies, the Dialectic and Philanthropic. The official color of the Di was light blue and that of the Phi white. Since society membership was compulsory for all students, the opinions and activities of these organizations were by nature of circumstances all embracing. It was the custom for all men from localities west of Chapel Hill to affiliate with the Di and generally for students from the east to become members of the Phi.

On public occasions such as commencement exercises, the student officers, marshals and ball managers were chosen equally from the membership of the two societies. It had long been the custom of each society for its members to wear its color on such occasions. However, the chief marshal and chief ball manager, one from the Di and the other from the Phi, wore combination light blue and white regalias and rosettes signifying that they represented the whole student body and not just one of the societies.

Later, when intercollegiate athletics were established and students began accompanying teams to other colleges or cities, the question of what to wear became a problem. Certainly, the students wanted to be associated with the University, but the school had no official colors. So it seemed only natural for the fans to adorn themselves with the same combination as that used by the chief marshals and ball managers, colors which represented not membership in a society, but a University student body.

The light blue worn by Tar Heel students today has many different names. It is called simply light blue, powder blue, sky blue or Columbia Blue among other things. Generally, however, it is just referred to as Carolina Blue. The accomplishments of Tar Heel athletes have made the color synonymous with the University so it now simply bears its name.
